BURKE, SCALISE PAL, FACES U. S. TAX FRAUD QUIZ

Reported Evasion Is Put at $290,000.

The federal grand jury, it was learned yesterday, is expected soon to hear charges that Thomas J. Burke, union boss and pal of George Scalise, former racketeering dictator of the Building Service Employés International union, has evaded $290,000 in income tax payments.

Thomas J. Burke.

Burke is first vice president of the international and president of the Office, Theatrical and Amusement Building Janitors' union, a subsidiary group into which thousands of women who scrub office building floors recently were organized on his orders. Charges are current that Burke is forcing the scrubwomen to pay $2 monthly dues or lose their jobs.

Special assistant attorneys general are expected to arrive from Washington in a few weeks, it is said, to take charge of the presentation of the case to the grand jury. The hearing will culminate an investigation of Burke's affairs begun last summer by A. P. Madden, special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the internal revenue bureau in Chicago.

Named as Front Man.

While the inquiry was in progress, new light was cast on Burke's labor racketeering career in the sensational deathbed statement of Matt Taylor, veteran president of the Chicago Elevator Operators' and Starters union.

In this disclosure, made to State's Attorney Courtney shortly before Taylor died in a Naperville sanitarium last Sept. 6, Burke was named as front man and collector for Scalise, who is now serving a prison term in New York for stealing union funds.

Taylor declared he had paid $30,000 thru Burke to gangsters who had threatened his [Taylor's] life when he opposed the affiliation of the Chicago elevator operators' union with Scalise's international.

Pal of Louis Alterie.

These charges were denied by Burke, whose career as a union boss began 20 years ago. Burke was then a pal of Louis [Two Gun] Alterie, the cowboy gangster, who controled the theatrical janitors' union for many years until he was shot down by hoodlum assassins in 1935. Under the alias of Joe Gould, Burke had once been arrested in 1925 with Alterie for threatening to shoot up the old Midnight Frolics café at 22d street and Michigan avenue and was fined $100 for carrying a pistol.

Shortly after Burke and Scalise had attempted to muscle Taylor, Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, started an inquiry into the Scalise régime in the international union. Scalise was tried and convicted on charges of stealing $100,000 in union funds, and is now serving a lengthy sentence in Sing Sing penitentiary. Scalise has also been convicted of income tax fraud.

Drive on Shakedown Rackets.

Supposedly on information furnished Dewey by Scalise recently, the district attorney raided the New York East river docks and arrested 250 longshoremen in a drive against shakedown rackets. Scalise was held by Dewey's men in the old Bronx county jail for six days until his attorney, David Stein, obtained a court order compelling his return to his Sing Sing cell. In a letter to his lawyer, Scalise said he was being framed by Dewey, and that it was being made to appear he was squealing on former associates in the labor racket.

FIELD DAY FOR 230 MONKEYS IS A FEAST DAY FOR ONE TIGER

Detroit, Mich., July 21 [Special].—Emil, 11 year old czar of the Detroit zoological park's tiger exhibit, was sent to his cage this afternoon under sentence of no dinner for the day and no freedom in his outside yard for 24 hours.

He brought it upon himself when he made an unscheduled meal of a rhesus monkey. The victim was one of the monkey island's 230 inhabitants which escaped when one of the keepers, Frank Haycock, neglected to push back a plank by which he crossed to the island.

The little monkeys scooted into the park and the adjoining neighborhood, taking to tree tops and roofs. Soon 150 of them tired of freedom and headed back home.

One straggler inadvertently dropped into the tiger yard. There, big Emil spotted him and leaped for the little fellow. He missed.

The monkey, in desperation, dived into a moat. Emil, tho an awkward swimmer, was on the spot when the monkey came up for air.

Nipping at Emil's face, the monkey twice eluded him, and finally bounded into a tree out of danger.

Then a second straggler dropped in and Emil this time got his quarry and devoured him. Supt. Theodore Schroeder then ordered Emil to his cage.

CATCH ALLIGATOR ALONG FOX RIVER; GIRL GETS ASSIST

Miss Barbara Dix, 18 years old, of 834 South 4th street, Aurora, was strolling yesterday alongside the Fox river near Oswego, Kendall county, eight miles south of Aurora, when she saw an alligator. Roy Hyte, 41, a farmer, and three Aurora youths vacationing nearby answered her calls for help and caught the reptile with a heavy net.

It was taken to Hyte's farm near Yorkville. The alligator was believed dropped into the river by some one who brought it from Florida, since no one could recall one having been taken from the Fox river before.

Hear Nazis Build Bogus Berlin; Trees on Roofs; Lakes Hidden

Seek to Fool Raiders

LONDON, July 21 (AP).—London newspapers are giving prominence to reports, attributed to "travelers recently come from Berlin," of a bogus Berlin, built by the Germans outside their capital to lure British bombers from the real target.

RAF officers, however, neither confirmed nor denied the existence of such an ersatz [substitute] city.

A wood and cardboard outline of a whole community some distance from the real Berlin was said to have been built, reproducing such landmarks as Unter den Linden and the Kurfuerstendaam, famous Berlin streets.

Railroad Lines Faked.

Also faked in the camouflage covering several square miles, these reports said, are railroad lines and such stations as the Potsdamer behnhof.

Air experts said if such a city exists its value is limited by modern navigation instruments which direct RAF bombers to the real target.

Other reports of German efforts to camouflage landmarks in the capital say that bodies of water such as the Lietenzee, a small artificial lake near the radio station, have been covered with planking to prevent the RAF from using the gleam of water in starlight or moonlight as a guide.

Roads Painted Black.

Many roads in Germany were said to have been painted black to prevent the RAF from lining up targets and it was reported that the Kaiserdamm, a main thorofare in Berlin, has been covered with green cloth hung above the road for hundreds of yards.

Altho security reasons prevent giving details, it is known that the British also have used camouflage extensively. Any railroad traveler is able to see factories disguised and other attempts to confuse the German air force.

What can not be disguised in London is the Thames winding leisurely thru the city with its bridges locating targets for observant airmen.

Japan Says It Has Plenty of Rice and Vegetables

TOKIO, July 21.—Agriculture Minister Hiroyasu Ino today gave assurances that contrary to reports there is plenty of rice and vegetables in Japan. The minister said Japanese farmers soon would be producing more. He attributed the reports of food shortage to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China.

MacVeagh Back Home

New York, July 21 (AP).—Lincoln MacVeagh, American minister to Greece, said today that the Germans had begun to camouflage Berlin in an attempt to divert the royal air force from vital targets.

MacVeagh, who arrived on the American Export liner Exeter after quitting war torn Greece, via Berlin, said the Germans had planted trees atop the stadium there and used green colors to conceal vital objects.

"The bicycle track from Berlin to Potsdam has been painted green instead of white," he said, "and they are covering the ponds outside Berlin with reeds and branches to keep them from being used as landmarks."

Damage Quickly Concealed.

The minister said German cities had been damaged, "but you have to hunt" to see the evidence. British bombs, he said, tore the roofs off a block of apartment houses, but the Germans quickly reroofed them.

The opera house in Berlin was "gutted—a complete wreck," he said.

Describing the German people as apathetic over the war, he said they showed no enthusiasm when war with Russia began.

He described Greece as in terrible want of food and said he saw no way of stopping the "steady progression toward famine." Greek soldiers who fought the Italians in Albania were reported begging for food on the streets.

A Witness from Poland.

Another Exeter passenger was Michael Gut, 29, of Olyphant, Pa., insurance man who was in Poland when the war started. He was put to work on the docks after the German invasion, but finally made arrangements to return home via Berlin. Gut was taken off the Excalibur at Bermuda by the British three weeks ago.

He explained his detention was because of his exit thru Berlin and the desire of the British for information on the Polish port of Gdynia.

Gut said there were many German vessels in the harbor and a few weeks ago he counted 40 German submarines there.

GRANTS F. D. R. POWER TO FIX 'FAIR' PAYMENT

Plan for No Limit Measure Refused.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The senate controversy over President Roosevelt's request for absolute power to seize property of any character ended today with passage of a substitute bill to which there was virtually no opposition. There was not even a record vote.

The senate bill, authorizing the President to requisition property required for military or naval purposes when it cannot be obtained by other means, now goes to the house of representatives for its consideration.

On June 2 the war department, with President Roosevelt's approval, submitted to congress the draft of a dictatorship bill authorizing the President to take over, either temporarily or permanently, property of any kind or character, whether real or personal, tangible or intangible.

Move Creates Furor.

The dictatorship proposal created such a furor in congress that Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, subsequently proposed a considerably milder substitute, which specifically authorized the President to seize the classes of property which the war department said it wanted to seize.

The President, however, objected to any specification of the kinds of property he might seize. Last week a White House emissary took to the senate military affairs committee a substitute for the Patterson substitute, which was a dictatorship bill as sweeping as the original measure.

The committee refused to consider it and reported out instead the bill passed today.

Provisions of Bill.

It provides:

"That whenever the President, during the present national emergency, but not later than June 30, 1943, determines that [1] the use of any military or naval equipment, supplies, or munitions or component parts thereof, or machinery, tools, or materials necessary for the manufacture, servicing, or operation of such equipment, supplies or munitions is needed for the defense of the United States; [2] such need is immediate and impending and such as will not admit of delay or resort to any other source of supply, and [3] all other means of obtaining the use of such property for the defense of the United States upon fair and reasonable terms have been exhausted, he is authorized to requisition such property for the defense of the United States upon the payment of fair and just compensation . . . and to dispose of such property in such manner as he may determine is necessary for the defense of the United States."

President Would Fix Rate.

The President would fix the "fair and just" compensation but any owner not satisfied with the price offered could take half of it and sue the United States in the Court of Claims for the remainder of the sum believed to be due him. The President would be required to return any property seized to its owner by Dec. 31, 1943, if the owner wanted it returned and paid a fair price for it.

Senator A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.] manager of the property seizure bill, told the senate the requisition authority is desired primarily for acquisition of strategic raw materials and machine tools.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] asked whether the term "supplies" could be construed so as to permit President Roosevelt to take over radio stations and newspapers. Chandler replied nothing in the bill would authorize the taking over of radio stations and newspapers. He said the President already has authority to take over stations during any national emergency proclaimed by him.

"I think it is beyond the stretch of any one's imagination to conclude that the taking over of a radio station or a newspaper would be necessary for the defense of the United States," Chandler added.

"I simply want to know what I am doing," Vandenberg said, "because we have seen words expand their circumference in the last several years to a perfectly amazing extent."

Fires Started in 1st Air Raid on Red Capital

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, July 22 (Tuesday) (AP).—Striking at least 200 strong, German bombers attacked Moscow last night and early today for the first time in the war, setting fires and causing civilian casualties. A communique declared the air attack "should be considered a failure" because the soviet capital's defenses prevented most of the raiders from getting over the city. It continued: "Only isolated planes broke thru the defenses."

The Russians reported 17 German planes shot down by night fighters and an anti-aircraft barrage.

"Several private dwellings were set afire," the communique said, "and a small number of persons were killed or wounded."

BERLIN, July 22 [Tuesday] (AP).—Authorized sources claimed today that soviet Premier Josef Stalin's eldest son, Jacob, had been taken prisoner by the Germans.

He was captured July 16 [last Wednesday] near Ljosno [Liozno], Russia, with a number of other officers and soldiers taken by German Panzer [armored] forces under the command of Gen. Rudolf Schmidt, the sources said. Ljosno is between Vitebsk and Smolensk on the Moscow front.

Son of Stalin's First Wife.

Jacob Stalin was said to have been born March 18, 1908, at Baku, the son of Stalin's first wife. Jacob formerly was an engineer but decided later to become an officer. He went thru artillery academy in Moscow in two and one-half instead of five years, and held the rank of first lieutenant in the 14th howitzer artillery regiment of the 14th soviet panzer division when taken prisoner, German authorities said.

[Jacob (Jasheka) Stalin's mother was divorced by the soviet premier. In 1919 he married Madya Alliueva, 17 year old Georgian girl who bore him a boy and a girl. She died Nov. 9, 1932.]

It was stated that Jacob, brought immediately before General Schmidt, identified himself beyond question of doubt as the son of the Russian leader.

Report He Surrendered.

He was also said to have expressed himself as having "realized the foolishness of further resistance against the German forces and for this reason to have surrendered together with the soldiers under his command who were still alive."

It was announced that the German press would soon publish a picture of Stalin's son in new surroundings.

[The Russians today said they were fighting "intensely" the German offensives aimed at Moscow, Leningrad, and Kiev. The Germans claimed that the soviet defense system was tottering and that a "big destructive battle" was raging behind the Stalin line. Stories and map on page 5.]

NAZIS HUNT SNIPERS HIDING IN TRICK FORTS FAR BACK OF THE LINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 21.—German troops, far behind the armored spearheads aimed at Moscow, Leningrad, and Kiev, are engaged in attempting to trap forces of soviet guerrillas, German sources declared today.

Embittered by the soviet tactics of letting panzer [armored] divisions pass by unmolested in order to wage guerrilla warfare on German supply columns or reserves, few prisoners are taken by the German detachments assigned to clean up the encircled soviet forces.

Hand grenades and automatic pistols are the main weapons used by the Germans in fighting soviet snipers.

The stubbornness of the Russian defenders, even in desperate situations, is described as remarkable by the Germans. Repeatedly soviet pillboxes have held out as long as a week despite the fact that they were cut off from all support.

In some cases soviet pillboxes started firing again after the Germans had stormed and searched them. Attacking them again the Germans discovered that the pillboxes had several floors.

The trap doors leading into the other stories were so cunningly concealed that they had escaped the attention of the first attackers.

F. D. R.'S DRAFT DEMAND STIRS CONGRESS FIGHT

Critics Charge Move to Scare Nation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—President Roosevelt's special message to congress today asking retention of draftees, National Guardsmen, and reservists in the army indefinitely because of imminent danger of an attempted invasion of the United States by Germany stirred dissension that presaged a bitter fight on the issue.

Wayland Brooks.

While many senators and representatives lauded the President for taking a courageous and necessary step dictated by the country's peril, many others challenged the basis of his representations, accused him of trumping up a war scare, and disputed the necessity of keeping the citizen soldiers in service beyond the one year provided by existing law.

The message touched off a verbal explosion in the senate.

Brooks' Stand Applauded.

Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], who voted against the selective service act, declared the "grave emergency" confronting the country is wholly imaginary.

Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] drew applause from the galleries when he said legislation to draft property and to hold men in the army would be unnecessary but for the fear of the American people that the administration is trying to draw them into a foreign war.

"We would have no trouble obtaining supplies and materials if American business men knew they were needed for the defense of this country," Brooks said. "We would have no trouble with boys in Alaska wanting to go home if they did not fear they were going to be sent to Asia."

Van Nuys Cites Promises.

The cloak rooms echoed with criticism and defense of the President. Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] said he disagreed with President Roosevelt.

"These boys," he said, "were told they would have to serve only one year. The morale of the army will be shot all to pieces if we break faith with these men."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] caused a sensation by citing an order issued June 24 by the adjutant general which appears to discourage reënlistment of three year regulars tho the administration says there is an emergency requiring the retention of the citizen soldiers in the service indefinitely.

"If three year voluntary regulars are unwanted," said Vandenberg, "I'm unable to understand why one year conscripts are indispensable."

Text of Army Order.

The text of the army order follows:

"The object of placing a limitation on the number of three year enlistments is to build as large a reserve of trained men as possible. Retention in the service of any enlisted man beyond the time necessary to give him a maximum training he is able to absorb denies opportunity to an untrained individual and there is little benefit to the army.

"Whereupon all officers are instructed to carefully scrutinize the applications for reënlistment of all privates, privates 1st class, in the regular army, with a view of reënlisting only those who show some possibility of promotion to higher grades."

Welles Tells of Nazi Plans.

Supporting the President's forebodings of an attack on the United States by Hitler, Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, told his press conference the government has information Germany plans other aggressions after subduing Russia. Altho he would add nothing to this statement, Mr. Welles presumably was referring to reported plans of the Nazis to take over Spain, attack Gibraltar, invade Portugal, and occupy northwestern Africa.

The President disclosed on May 27 that he would regard a Nazi drive into those regions as a threat to the safety of the United States, which would require American occupation of the Portuguese Azores and Cape Verde islands and French Dakar on the western bulge of Africa.

Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] chairman of the house military affairs committee, introduced the administration measure to carry out the President's recommendations.

In his message the President asked for a declaration of a "national emergency either for a specific period or until revocation by the congress or the President," for the purpose of retaining the citizen soldiers in service "with the understanding that, should the exigencies of the situation permit, early return to civil pursuits will follow in due course."

Also, "because of the swiftness of events," he asked that the limitation of the number of trainees to 900,000 a year be lifted.

Limited to This Hemisphere.

Mr. Roosevelt did not ask repeal of the prohibition to send the citizen soldiers outside the western hemisphere except to American possessions, and the May resolution retains this limitation.

The President devoted his message to an argument that the discharge of the draftees, National Guardsmen, and reservists upon completion of their year of service would wreck the army and to an effort to convince the country it is in danger of invasion by the Germans at no distant time. Every move of the Germans in Europe, Asia, and Africa, said Mr. Roosevelt, "has been conducted according to a time schedule utilizing in every case an overwhelming superiority not only in material but in trained men as well," with assurances of safety and nonaggression to the victim until the German government "was fully ready to throw treaties and pacts to the winds and simultaneously to launch an attack in overwhelming force."

"We Americans cannot afford to speculate with the security of America," said Mr. Roosevelt.

Debate Flares in Senate.

The senate debate on the President's proposals arose when Senator A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.], said congress should rely upon the President's statement that the emergency is greater than it was a year ago.

"I think the congress ought to have courage enough to declare that a national emergency exists," Chandler said. "Then every patriotic man and woman in the United States will support the President and there will not be any talk about sending a young man in the army—who is about two-thirds trained—home to forget what he has learned."

"So far as patriotism is concerned," interjected Senator Brooks, "I do not believe we would have any trouble with any boy wanting to come back from Alaska or any other place as a selectee if he felt sure he was not going to be sent to Asia or Africa or Russia. I think that is the confusion we are in.

Keep Pledges, Says Brooks.

"When we talk about the processes of democracy it may be said that democracy will die just as surely as we are in this chamber unless the people elected to office keep their pledges to the people.

"The boys who have been sent under the law passed by congress for one year had a right to believe that under that law they were making plans for their one year period of service, and they had a promise from the promise as well as the President that it was for that they were being taken into the service.

"I am never going to criticize them because they would like to come home. I say in defense of their wanting to come home that I believe the patriotism of American boys was never higher than it is today, if we do not try to impress them that they have got to police the world or fight for the democracy of Russia or any other country across the sea."

Applause Nettles Lee.

The gallery applause which greeted the remarks of Senator Brooks caused obvious annoyance to administration followers. Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.], a leading interventionist, who was in the chair, ordered the spectators to keep quiet.

Senator Smith said the draftees had been told they were to serve for one year only and that to keep them in the army longer would constitute a breach of faith.

"I think this country ought to have an adequate army and navy, regardless of a menace," he said. "But it is no use for us to get hysterical because they are fighting over in Europe. Why haven't we got an adequate army and an adequate navy? In profound peace times, but still we in profound peacetimes, but still we have not got an adequate army and navy, and we are inadequately prepared."

Senator Smith pleaded for some enlightenment as to what the emergency is that menaces America.

Secrecy Necessary: Barkley.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky replied that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, cannot tell congress all he knows because the information might benefit a potential enemy.

"But it is not necessary for the chief of staff to tell me that we may have difficulty in the western hemisphere, where only last week the government of Bolivia was required to declare a national state of siege because of Nazi efforts to overthrow the government of Bolivia," Barkley said.

Smith said he wanted no information about troop movements or other "military secrets" but would like to have an answer to his question, "What is the menace?"

Barkley's answer drifted into a discussion of what prompted congress to enact the conscription law last year, of his vote for war in 1917, and his readiness to do so again as a "last resort," of George Washington's admonitions in his farewell address, and of sundry other subjects.

"I am still confused," replied Senator Smith. "I guarantee that there is not a senator on this floor who has a clear cut idea of what menace is threatening us except the possibility that some of these armies, when they have eaten up Europe, may try to get a bite out of us. We had promises that no soldiers would be sent abroad, off American soil.

"It does not look so good now when we have gone into Iceland and keep inching up. We are constantly extending our limits. The point I am making is, I want some information as to what this horrible thing is that is threatening America."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leader of the noninterventionists, told the senate he would read about 100 telegrams from boys in various camps in Texas, Alabama, and other states expressing the feeling it would constitute a breach of faith to keep them in service longer than one year.

"Regardless of whether we are breaking faith with them or not, from a technical standpoint, the fact is that many of the boys feel that we are breaking faith with them," said Wheeler. "When they feel that we are breaking faith with them, that is not a theory, that is a fact, and we must be realistic about it. A moment ago the senator [Chandler] said that Gen. Marshall stated that 90 per cent of the boys were willing to stay in the service.

"If that be true, why not tell the 90 per cent that they are needed and permit them to remain in the service voluntarily. The way to have a strong army is to have good morale, and to have the men in the army saying, 'You are not breaking faith, you are breaking your word.' If 90 per cent of the men are willing to remain in the service, we shall have all the men we need to send to Alaska, Hawaii, and elsewhere."

Wheeler Cites War Stand.

When Wheeler reminded the senate of President Roosevelt's pledges to keep the country out of war, Chandler interjected: "Yes, and we are not yet in it. Who gets credit for keeping us out of war? Who does the credit go to for keeping us out of war? We are not yet in it."

"I will say who kept us out, if the senator wants my opinion about it," Wheeler said. "The 75 per cent of the American people who say: 'We do not want any war.'

"It is that portion of the people who have kept us out of war."

While the senate was debating the retention of citizen soldiers in the service the draftees composing company A, 74th quartermaster battalion, were being punished by confinement to quarters at Fort Meade, Md., for having addressed telegrams to Senator Wheeler and Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] protesting extension of the one year time limit. Lieut. Henry M. Walter, commander of the company, said later the men had been confined to quarters pending an investigation that had exonerated them. He said the men did not know they were violating army regulations in making an unauthorized effort to influence legislation.

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT'S DRAFT MESSAGE

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR LENGTHENED TERM OF SERVICE

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on the extension of military service for selectees, National Guardsmen, and reservists follows:

"To the congress of the United States:

"Last year the congress of the United States, recognizing the gravity of the world situation, held that common prudence required that American defense, at that time relatively very weak, be strengthened in its two aspects. The first called for the production of munitions of all kinds. The second called for the training and service of personnel.

"The selective training and service act authorized the annual induction into military service of a maximum of 900,000 men for this training and service, of whom 600,000 are now in the army. The congress also authorized the induction into service of the National Guard, the reserve officers, and other reserve components of the army of the United States.

Service Set at Year.

"In the absence of further action by the congress, all of those involved must be released from active service on the expiration of 12 months. This means that beginning this autumn about two-thirds of the army of the United States will begin a demobilization.

"The action taken last year was appropriate to the international situation at that time. It took into consideration the small size and the undeveloped state of our armed forces. The National Guard, which then formed the bulk of these forces, had to be seasoned; its technical training and general efficiency greatly improved. The ranks of the National Guard and the regular army had to be brought to full strength; and, in addition, the army required for its tremendous expansion the services of approximately 50,000 reserve officers.

"In effect, two steps were taken for the security of the nation. First, the selective service act initiated annual military training as a prime duty of citizenship. Second, the organization and training of field armies was begun—training in team work—company by company, battalion by battalion, regiment by regiment, and division by division. The objective was to have ready at short notice an organized and integrated personnel of over 1,000,000 men.

Effect on Units Told.

"I need scarcely emphasize the fact that if and when an organized and integrated company, battalion, regiment, or division is compelled to send two-thirds of its members home, those who return to civil life, if called to the colors later on, would have to go thru a new period of organization and integration before the new unit to which they were assigned could be depended on for service. The risks and the weaknesses caused by dissolving a trained army in times of national peril were pointed out by George Washington over and over again in his messages to the continental congress.

"It is, therefore, obvious that if two-thirds of our present army return to civilian life, it will be almost a year before the effective army strength again reaches one million men.

"Today it is imperative that I should officially report to the congress what the congress undoubtedly knows: That the international situation is not less grave but is far more grave than it was a year ago.

Risk Described as Grave.

"It is so grave, in my opinion, and in the opinion of all who are conversant with the facts, that the army should be maintained in effective strength and without diminution of its effective numbers in a complete state of readiness. Small as it is in comparison with other armies, it should not suffer any form of disorganization or disintegration.

"Therefore, we would be taking a grave national risk unless the congress were to make it possible for us to maintain our present full effective strength and during the coming year give training to as many additional Americans as we can, when immediate readiness for service becomes more and more a vital precautionary measure, the elimination of approximately two-thirds of our trained soldiers, and about three-fourths of the total officer personnel, would be a tragic error.

"Occasional individuals, basing their opinions on unsupported evidence or on no evidence at all, may with honest intent assert that the United States need fear no attack on its own territory or on the other nations of this hemisphere by aggressors from without.

Schemes Termed Evident.

"Nevertheless, it is the well nigh unanimous opinion of those who are daily cognizant, as military and naval officers and as government servants in the field of international relations, that schemes and plans of aggressor nations against American security are so evident that the United States and the rest of the Americas are definitely imperiled in their national interests. That is why reluctantly, and only after a careful weighing of all facts and all events, I recently proclaimed that an unlimited national emergency exists.

"It is not surprising that millions of patriotic Americans find it difficult in the pursuit of their daily occupations and in the normal lives of their families to give constant thought to the implications of happenings many thousand of miles away. It is hard for most of us to bring such events into focus with our own readily accepted and normal democratic ways of living.

"That is why I must refer again to the sequence of conquests—German conquests or attacks — which have continued uninterruptedly thruout several years—all the way from the coup against Austria to the present campaign against Russia.

Nazi Schedule Described.

"Every move up and down and across Europe, and into Asia, and into Africa has been conducted according to a time schedule utilizing in every case an overwhelming superiority not only in material, but in trained men as well. Each campaign has been based on a preliminary assurance of safety or non aggression to the intended victim. Each campaign has been based on disarming fear and gaining time until the German government was fully ready to throw treaties and pacts to the winds and simultaneously to launch an attack in overwhelming force.

"Each elimination of a victim has brought the issue of Nazi domination closer to this hemisphere, while month by month their intrigues of propaganda and conspiracy have sought to weaken every link in the community of interests that should bind the Americas into a great western family.

"I do not think that any branch of the government of the United States will be willing to let America risk the fate which has destroyed the independence of other nations.

"We Americans cannot afford to speculate with the security of America.

U. S. Policy Recalled.

"Furthermore, we have a definite responsibility to every country in the western hemisphere—to aid each and every one of them against attack from without the hemisphere. I do not believe that any branch of the American government would desire today to abrogate our Pan-American pacts or to discard a policy which we have maintained for nearly a century and a quarter.

"If we do not reverse this historic policy, then it is our duty to maintain it. To weaken our army at this particular time would be, in my judgment, an act of bad faith toward our neighbors.

"I realize that personal sacrifices are involved in extending the period of service for selectees, the National Guard, and other reserve components of our army.

"I believe that provision now can and will be made in such an extension to relieve individual cases of undue hardship, and also to relieve older men who should, in justice, be allowed to resume their civilian occupations as quickly as their services can be spared.

Soldiers Understand, Congress Told.

"Nevertheless, I am confident that the men now in the ranks of the army realize far better than does the general public the disastrous effect which would result from permitting the present army, only now approaching an acceptable state of efficiency, to melt away and set us back at least six months while new units are being reconstituted from the bottom up and from the top down with new drafts of officers and men.

"The legislation of last year provided definitely that if national danger later existed, the one year period of training could be extended by action of the congress.

"I do not believe that the danger to American safety is less than it was one year ago when, so far as the army was concerned, the United States was in a woefully weak position. I do not believe that the danger to our national safety is only about the same as it was a year ago.

Danger Greater, He Says.

"I do believe—I know—that the danger today is infinitely greater. I do believe—I know—that in all truth we are in the midst of a national emergency.

"I am not asking the congress for specific language in a specific bill. But I can say frankly that I hope the congress will acknowledge this national emergency either for a specific period or until revocation by the congress or the President.

"The objective is, of course, the all important issue. It is to authorize continuance in service of selectees, National Guard and reserve components of the army and the retired personnel of the regular army, with the understanding that, should the exigencies of the situation permit, early return to civil pursuits will follow in due course.

"Because of the swiftness of modern events, I think the congress should also remove the restrictions in regard to the numbers of selectees inducted each year for training and service.

Job Safeguards Asked.

"And, in order to reduce individual hardships to a minimum, I urge that the congress provide that employers be asked to continue to keep jobs open for their employés who have been held in the army.

"For my part I will direct the return to civil life of officers and men whose retention on active duty would impose undue hardship and that selectees and enlisted men of the National Guard, who have reached the age of 28, be transferred from active service to a reserve component as rapidly as possible.

"At great cost to the nation, and at increasing dislocation of private buying, we are accepting the material burdens necessary for our security. In such matters we accept the fact of a crisis in our history.

Time Counts, He Asserts.

"It is true that in modern war men without machines are of little value. It is equally true that machines without men are of no value at all. Let us consolidate the whole of our defense—the whole of our preparation against attack by those enemies of democracy who are the enemies of all that we hold dear.

"One final word: Time counts. Within two months disintegration, which would follow failure to take congressional action, will commence in the armies of the United States.

"Time counts. The responsibility rests solely with the congress."

Lake County Poll

Residents of Lake county voted 87 per cent against American entry in the European war in a poll conducted by the Waukegan News-Sun, Frank H. Just, publisher, announced yesterday in an open letter to President Roosevelt. They also voted 53 per cent against aid to Britain short of war.

The poll was conducted primarily by postcard ballot, altho some persons voted in the News-Sun offices. Of 10,000 ballots mailed to the newspaper's subscribers, about 20 per cent were returned. To the question, "Shall the United States enter the war to help defeat Hitler?" 263 "yes" ballots and 1,784 "no" ballots were returned.

In response to the question, "Shall the United States give all-out aid to Great Britain short of actual war?" 959 subscribers voted "yes" and 1,092 voted "no." The few ballots returned from outside Lake county were sent in by subscribers living in McHenry, McHenry county, and by Lake county subscribers away on vacation or business. Two subscribers now in Camp Forrest, Tenn., cast two votes against entering the war, but split on the aid question.

97% Oppose War

Enid, Okla., July 21 [Special].—More than 97 per cent of the readers of the Enid Daily Eagle and the Enid Morning News who participated in a 10 day poll completed tonight are opposed to extension of the selective service act and to the United States going to war to help England defeat Hitler.

On the question, "For extending or making any change in the selective service act," the vote was 2,162 against to 50 for. On the question of "Going to war to help England defeat Hitler" the vote was 2,172 against to 47 for.

The Eagle-News poll was conducted thru coupons carried in both papers for the 10 day period. Combined circulation of the two is 22,449 in a city of 28,000 and county of 45,450 in the lightly settled north central part of the state.

Readers also were invited to write 100 word comments and hundreds in this anti-New Deal area wrote denunciations of President Roosevelt for meddling in European politics.

Protest at Rantoul

Rantoul, Ill., July 21 [Special].—Thirty enlisted members of the 119th and 101st observation squadrons, New Jersey and Massachusetts National Guardsmen, today sent a petition to the United States senate protesting against passage of any bill prolonging their current military service beyond one year.

Thomas J. McIntyre Jr., 119th squadron, and spokesman for the group, told Senator Robert R. Reynolds, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, that the committee was "barking up the wrong tree" when it sought to determine sentiment of the enlisted men by polling various major generals.

McIntyre said personal contact with guardsmen and draftees who had not had an opportunity to sign the petition indicated that 80 per cent of the men were opposed to remaining in the army beyond the end of their scheduled year of service.

The petition said extension of the training period would be a breach of faith and would require soldiers to continue many sacrifices unnecessarily.

CHICAGOAN DIES IN RIVER.

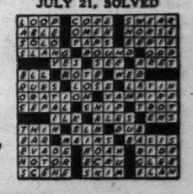
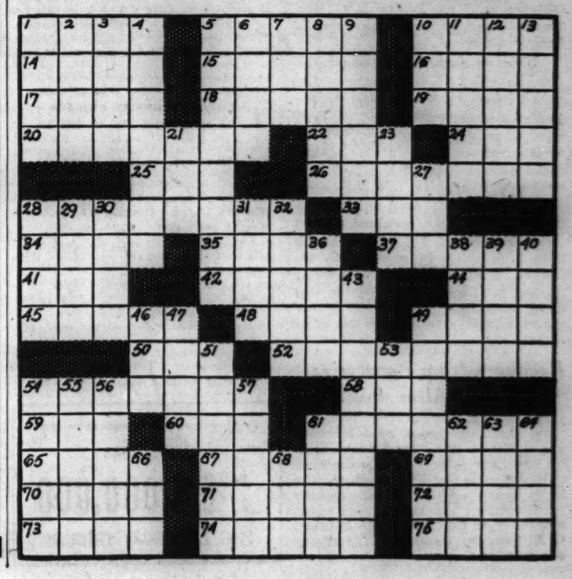
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, JULY 21, SOLVED





SLAYING? DON'T REMEMBER ANY, SAYS MORIARITY

Tells Jury He Recalls No Confession, Either.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Daniel Moriarity, suspended state's attorney's policeman who on April 29 shot and killed Ada Jane [Jennie] Martin, daughter of Mrs. Ada Martin, alleged head of a million dollar abortion ring, testified before a Criminal court jury late yesterday that he did not remember either the murder or the confession of graft and corruption he made a few days later to State's Attorney Courtney.

Daniel Moriarity.

Moriarity told the jury of seven men and five women in Judge John A. Sbarbaro's court that if he did make the confession—he said he could not see how he would do it—it is untrue and without basis in fact. He denied that he himself accepted bribes from Mrs. Martin or received them to pay to former Assistant State's Attorneys Emmett Moynihan or Morris Meyers.

Own Last Witness.

Moriarity is appearing as the last witness in his own defense. The state has qualified the jury to inflict the death penalty, and Assistant State's Attorneys Richard Austin and Alex Napoli, who will cross-examine their former associate when the trial is resumed this morning, said they will repeat their death penalty demands. The state will take up today's session with rebuttal testimony, and closing arguments will be made tomorrow and the case submitted to the jury.

The prosecutors said that despite Moriarity's denials and plea of temporary insanity the evidence shows he shot Ada Jane when he mistook her for her mother. The young woman was sleeping in her mother's bed in the Martin home at 4367 Lake Park avenue. The state contends that Moriarity's motive was to silence Mrs. Martin because she had threatened to tell about past graft payments to assistant prosecutors thru Moriarity. Mrs. Martin was furious, the state contends, because her latest case of abortion conspiracy could not be "fixed."

Courtroom Is Crowded.

The courtroom was packed when, at 4:45 p.m., James M. Burke, defense lawyer, called Moriarity to the stand. The defendant was pale, but he showed no emotion, and his answers to Burke's questions were given calmly. Led by Burke, Moriarity sketched his early life, telling of leaving school in the seventh grade to work in the stockyards. He became a policeman in 1925. He is now 40 years old.

Moriarity's memory was not hazy, it appeared, when he was asked whether he had ever accepted bribes from Mrs. Martin or had passed bribes on to his associates. He had known Mrs. Martin several years, he said; their families were friendly.

At no time, declared Moriarity, did she ever give him any money to pay to any assistant state's attorney or anybody else. At no time, he testified, did she ever ask him to influence any assistant state's attorney.

A Further Denial.

A quick denial was his response to specific questions as to whether Mrs. Martin had ever given him money to pass on to either Moynihan or Meyers, the two assistant prosecutors who were discharged by Courtney after the exposé.

Moriarity denied he had been on Mrs. Martin's pay roll for $100 a month. He denied he had ever given $50 a month to Daniel Kenney, a suspended policeman.

Clear on all these points, Moriarity was hazy on details of the shooting. He remembered, he said, that he had been suffering from severe headaches just before the shooting; but as to the shooting, he "didn't remember" anything.

Nor was Moriarity able to remember, he said, giving his alleged confession to Courtney and the latter's aids. In that confession he is purported to have related that he gave $5,000 to Moynihan and $2,500 to Meyers. "I can't imagine myself ever saying it, because it is not true," asserted Moriarity.

Testimony of Others.

Earlier in the day Meyers, the former prosecutor, testified and denied flatly he had ever received graft money. Whatever action he took in abortion cases had the previous approval of his superiors, he said.

Moriarity's wife, two daughters, and two brothers, also testified, saying they believed him temporarily insane. Moriarity sobbed hysterically as he listened to the testimony of his wife and daughters, and they wept as they testified.

QUOTES SHERIFF: 'TOO BUSY TO GET SLOT MACHINES'

Head of Crime Commission May Seek State Aid.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, said yesterday he personally handed to Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien a list of more than 200 places in Cook county in which slot machines were operating and Sheriff O'Brien said he was too busy collecting taxes to bother about slot machines.

Sheriff O'Brien.

Since then, nickel, dime, quarter and 50 cent coin devices of the type termed one-arm bandits have netted thousands of dollars for the crime-gambling syndicate headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, according to dozens of observers. Cahn and the new operating director of the anti-crime body, Edward A. Zimmerman, are pondering their next move, which may be an appeal to state authorities, Cahn said.

Sheriff O'Brien was not in his office yesterday afternoon and could not be reached to get his version of the Cahn interview.

"Too Big a Job."

"We told Sheriff O'Brien of conditions in his jurisdiction," Cahn said, "and I handed him the list of places in which we knew the slot machines were then being operated without hindrance.

"The sheriff was very nice about it. He said the job of suppressing slot machines was too big for his limited staff. He said he didn't have the manpower. What deputies he had were assigned to tax collection work. He said he couldn't get enough help so there was nothing he could do about it."

The crime fighting organization had looked tolerantly on the bill to license handbooks, but after Gov. Green vetoed the measure Saturday a policy of strict enforcement of gambling laws was deemed advisable, Cahn declared. The handbook raid which resulted in 350 arrests Saturday was approved by the anti-crime body.

See Raid as Good Omen.

Altho only one of the 350 persons arrested was fined yesterday by Judge Gibson Gorman in the racket court, the other 349 being discharged without loss of honor or time, the raid was regarded as a good omen by the crime commission executives. They expressed belief that Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman would continue their vigorous raiding policy of the last six months.

Cahn said the commission had the cooperation of State's Attorney Courtney in all its endeavors and that Courtney had led the way in the handbook drive. In the county, however, the state's attorney has put the suppression of slot machines up to Sheriff O'Brien, Cahn said.

Handbooks still operate in the county districts where Sheriff O'Brien's authority is supreme according to new reports yesterday.

TENNESSEEAN NAMED U. S. ENVOY TO INDIA, WITH MINISTER RANK

Washington, D. C., July 21 [Special].—Thomas M. Wilson of Tennessee, veteran foreign service officer who now is consul general at Calcutta, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be United States commissioner to India, with the rank of minister.

Thomas M. Wilson. [AP Wirephoto.]

The appointment followed the London announcement yesterday that Sir Girga Shankar Bajpai had been named agent general for India in the United States. He will assume his duties here in the fall, but Wilson is expected to take over his new post in Delhi as soon as he has been confirmed by the senate and commissioned.

As commissioner, Wilson will have what is described as quasi diplomatic status. Whether a regular accredited minister will be appointed later, it was said, is for the future to determine. It was regarded obvious here that Britain, in view of her war policies, desires to give India recognition in the diplomatic family of her commonwealth of nations, and that the United States is prepared to meet such a wish.

CALL GRAND JURY QUIZ IN SHERIFF'S RAID ON CITY JAIL

Taylorville, Ill., July 21 [Special].—Circuit Judge J. T. Bullington today recalled the Christian county grand jury to hear State's Attorney Tom Sweeney tell on Wednesday about "an unusual situation of corruption which has arisen in the county and a conspiracy to prevent law enforcement."

The jury also will hear about a lock smashing raid Sheriff Virgil Ezra made on the Taylorville city jail last Friday to seize 108 slot machines from Police Chief Ed Zemke, whom he arrested. The slot machines were being held for evidence against tavern owners who permitted their operation and the supposed owners, from whom 86 were taken in a raid on a warehouse.

Zemke let Sweeney store the machines in the jail because Sweeney did not want them left in custody of Ezra. None of them had been in operation in the city, altho the warehouse and repair shop was in sight of the police chief's home. Sweeney led the raids personally after six warrants given to the sheriff for service were held up until machines were removed from the taverns named.

3,500 Feet of Track Torn Up When Train Is Wrecked

Muncie, Ind., July 21 (AP).—Thirty-five hundred feet of track on the Sandusky division of the Nickel Plate railroad were torn up late today in the derailment of 15 cars of a westbound freight train at Albany, northeast of here. No one was hurt. The cause of the wreck was not revealed. Officials said a 10 hour detour was a result. Refrigerator cars and steel-laden flat cars were scattered along the right of way.

FIRE DRIVES EIGHT FROM HOMES.

Eight persons were driven from their homes in a two story frame house at 547 Cullerton street last night by smoke from a fire in the rear which did about $200 damage.

Union Officials Ask Courtney to Prosecute Max Caldwell

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.

Criminal prosecution of Max Pollack, alias Max Caldwell, the convicted bootlegger who was deposed recently as boss of Chicago's retail clerks, was asked yesterday in a telegram sent State's Attorney Courtney by representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Retail Clerks' International Protective association.

The action came after weeks of search uncovered only $62 of an estimated $900,000 collected in the last four years.

Dues and Fees Cut.

Other developments were:

1. A slash in dues and intitiation fees which will save 7,000 union members $150,000 annually.

2. The admission by Caldwell-appointed business agents of Local 1248 of the clerks union, questioned by William B. Crawford, assistant state's attorney, that they signed financial reports sent to international headquarters without reading them, and knew nothing of the union's business except that they collected on Caldwell's orders.

3. The announcement that state's attorney's police will make a store-to-store canvass to find how much money the clerks have poured into Caldwell's pockets in the last four years.

Signers of Union Appeal.

The telegram to Courtney, sent with the approval of Attorney Dan Carmel, representing the international union, was signed by Harry O'Reilly, regional director of the AFL; John Van Vaerenewyck, AFL organizer, and Peter Formica, Silas Nicholson, and Peter J. Bockstahler, international organizers for the clerks' union.

The telegram asserted that books and records of local 1248 and six smaller locals dominated by Caldwell prior to a rank-and-file revolt were not forthcoming despite demands made in accordance with the international constitution. And it asked that Courtney issue subpenas and bring criminal action against Caldwell; his brother, Michael Pollack, recording secretary; Michael Savachka, financial secretary and treasurer, and other former officers.

The telegram concludes:

"The state's attorney of Cook county, with his splendid record of law enforcement, is the only one we can now look to for aid."

Notice of Dues Reduction.

The same international officers sent letters to all Chicago members of the union notifying them that dues have been cut from $2 to $1 monthly, initiation fees from $25 to $3, and corresponding cuts made for temporary workers.

Crawford continued collecting data on what became of the funds collected during the Caldwell régime.

He questioned Sidney Koonsky, Anthony Polito, Milton Marks, Morton Schaps, and Gerald Fields, business agents and officers of the old local.

The said that the route books in which they listed collection had been turned over to Mike Pollack and Attorney Harold Marovitz, Caldwell's counsel in a suit for an accounting of funds now being heard by Master in Chancery Daniel Covelli.

Did as They Were Told.

The business agents, Crawford said, added that they were put up for office by Caldwell, and elected without opposition, and that they did as they were told and asked no questions. None, Crawford said, knew what had happened to the union's records, last reported in the hands of Savachka, who has disappeared.

Crawford said that when an official list of members arrives from international headquarters in Lafayette, Ind., he will order state's attorney's police to learn how much each clerk has paid in dues, assessments, fines, and initiation fees. Furthermore, he said, the list will be used to determine the amounts paid in by an estimated 5,000 "temporary members," for whom Caldwell made no accounting to the international.

Caldwell, then using his own name, Pollack, was a bootlegger in the 20s and was arrested several times in Lake county, Ind., where he also was sentenced in 1925 to a six months' term for liquor law violation. This sentence has not been served, according to Indiana authorities, a statement which Caldwell challenges. He says the records must have been lost.

Two Night Clubs Fail.

Caldwell came to Chicago in the early '30s. He was a waiter here, finally becoming owner of two night clubs, both of which failed. Caldwell was heavily in debt at this time, according to Crawford. His next venture was an unsuccessful attempt to organize the hat check girls, and later night club entertainers and hostesses. In 1937, by now a son-in-law of Charles Wills, business and circulation manager of the Chicago Federation of Labor News, Caldwell, as he now called himself, sponsored by Wills, became an international organizer for the clerks' association and soon gained control of local 1248.

Recently Caldwell contracted to buy for $45,000 the Florida estate of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti.

Stores to Produce Books.

In a hearing before Master Covelli yesterday Attorney Stanley Evans, who, with Attorney Francis Heisler, represents rank and file members of local 1248, announced that the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and Hillman's food stores have been subpenaed to produce their books and records this morning. The records will show the number of union members and amounts paid, Evans said, since both firms deducted union dues from employés' pay.

Shares of Stock Worth $4,000 Stolen from Car

Fifty shares of stock valued at $4,000 were stolen yesterday from the automobile of Robert H. Blake of 6148 South Richmond street, manager of a wholesale florist concern. Blake reported to police. The thief also took $75 in jewelry and $25 in cash. The car was parked in front of Blake's home.

BRITISH HEALTH BETTER IN WAR THAN IN PEACE

Doctors Credit Rationing and More Exercise.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—Is England healthier and more physically fit in war-time than in time of peace?

The consensus of opinion is that she is. Specialists of all kinds have found out, sometimes to their surprise, that the nation undoubtedly is more fit now than when it entered upon the struggle against Germany in September, 1939, nearly two years ago.

The credit, they say, goes to rationing, open air life, evacuation of women and children from crowded cities, often from slums, to the countryside; daily walking exercise by citizens who formerly drove to work in private cars or public vehicles and now stroll to save gasoline; the physical training given the nation's youth in the navy, army, and air force; and the fact that hundreds of thousands of women have dropped sedentary peace time occupations to work with the men in the defense forces and in the auxiliary services.

Weathered Winter Nicely.

Britain weathered last winter magnificently; she is doing fine this summer.

The health statistics available so far show that the national health has been steadily improving since the war began. There have been no epidemics, and actual facts belie the fears expressed in many quarters that shelter life would have a serious effect upon the health of residents of London and other big cities who were forced to live night after night in underground railway stations and shelters of all kinds.

[The last vital statistics for Britain were provisionally issued in 1939. They showed the death rate for England and Wales to be 12.1 and for Scotland 12.9 per thousand, as compared with a birth rate of 15 for England and Wales and 17.4 for Scotland. The 1939 figures represented a decline in the birth rate and an increase in the death rate, as compared with 1938 when England and Wales had a birth rate of 15.1 and Scotland 17.7 and a death rate of 11.6 for England and Wales and 12.6 for Scotland. In 1931 England and Wales had a birth rate of 15.8 and Scotland 19, as against a death rate of 12.3 for England and Wales and 13.3 for Scotland.]

No Time for Luxury Ills.

Dr. G. C. Anderson, secretary of the British Medical association, thinks that people are forgetting their minor, perhaps cherished, peacetime ailments and are no longer "going sick."

Stephen Kirkby, headmaster of the Penhurst Avenue Council school at Hessle, Yorkshire, says that children are healthy in spite of the fact that they don't get enough sleep. He finds they no longer are disturbed by air raids unless the bombs fall close by.

T. H. Sanderson-Wells, chairman of the Food Education society, says that refertilization of the soil which has been going on since the war began when meadows were upturned to grow food has caused a decline in infectious ailments.

Viscount Dawson of Penn, the king's doctor, says the British population has been made fit by exercise. "So far as my observation goes," he declared, "our people are standing up well from the health point of view under the strains put upon them. The systematized exercise which so large a portion of the population is now undergoing must be regarded as a prime factor in an improving national health."

COATS STOLEN FROM CAR.

Albert Kaplan, 27 years old, of 6231 North Artesian avenue, a salesman for a wholesale coat firm, reported to police yesterday that 21 sample coats, valued at $700, were stolen from his automobile while it was parked in front of 1324 Milwaukee avenue.

Returns to America

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
Miss Josephine Porter Winter of St. Louis, Mo., arriving in New York yesterday from Lisbon on the Exeter.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Miss Josephine Porter Winter, 25 years old, of St Louis, Mo., returned to America from Lisbon today aboard the American Export liner Exeter. She had been studying in Paris, France, when the war broke out, and joined the American Volunteer corps as an ambulance driver, she said, spending 10 months in Bordeaux. Afterward, when she went to Spain, she was arrested as a spy, and was kept 11 days in a Spanish jail.

PETAIN WEEPS AS PRISONERS OF WAR RETURN

650 Emaciated Vets in Rags Cheer Him.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROANNE, France, July 21.—Chief of State Marshal Petain wept today with 650 repatriated prisoners in a touching episode of the French captivity drama which was enacted here.

The prisoners were officers, noncommissioned officers, and soldiers, veterans of both the World war and this one, who had just been released after 13 months in Germany.

Petain, accompanied by War Minister General Charles Huntziger, arrived in Roanne this morning from Vichy to welcome the prisoners back home. Surrounded by local authorities, he stood on the station platform as the train rolled in from Macon.

Cheered by Tattered Vets.

The unshaven men in tattered prisoner clothing leaned out of the train windows and cheered the marshal with shouts of "Vive Petain!" Many had tears in their eyes from the emotion of returning to French soil.

Petain stood at salute as the train stopped and his eyes were misty. He said merely, "Carry on just as if we were not here."

The contingent consisted mostly of former veterans, fathers of more than three children, and those needed for farm work. It was one of many which has been sent back in recent weeks.

Figures published recently put the number of returned prisoners at 500,000. Conservative estimates are somewhat less. A million and a half Frenchmen remain prisoners.

Wear Old World War Garb.

The returned captives presented a pathetic picture as they lined up at the depot to go to the neighboring reception camp at Mably, three miles away, which Petain later inspected. Some were dressed in odds and ends of German military clothing from the last war, all looked worn and they had feverish eyes. All greedily seized cigarets, chocolate, and food which Red Cross nurses distributed.

Petain, who reached camp before them, later addressed the veterans, saying "I need your help to reconstruct France. Do not forget our new watchword of 'work, family, and fatherland'."

PANAMA CLOSED FOR 'REPAIR'; JAP SHIPS DETOURED

Tokio Protests Fail to Lift Restrictions.

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—A drastic restriction on foreign shipping thru the Panama canal was disclosed officially today. Japanese vessels apparently were affected most by the action.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said that all shipping agencies have been notified of an order restricting or prohibiting transit of merchant shipping for the time being, to permit urgent repairs on the canal property. Welles did not indicate how long it would take to complete the repairs.

A group of Japanese ships, after a week long wait at the canal for transit from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was sailing southward, apparently on the long route homeward around Cape Horn.

Five Depart for Rio.

Five vessels sailed for Rio de Janeiro yesterday and two other more recent arrivals at the canal left for an undisclosed destination.

One Japanese captain, displaying a cable from Tokio saying that the canal was closed, laughed and pointed at other ships moving thru. Authorities at the canal declined to say why the Japanese had been denied transit.

The Japanese embassy made representations last week to facilitate clearance for two Japanese vessels which had been delayed in sailing from American east coast ports and one ship awaiting transit thru the canal.

Denied Discrimination.

Welles said at that time he understood the delays were due to local conditions rather than to any concerted action to hamper Japanese shipping.

The reorganization of the Japanese cabinet last week, however, has intensified speculation on possible new Japanese military moves which would precipitate a crisis in the Pacific.

A European observer in Hongkong reported today that a fleet of 15 Japanese military transport vessels left the mouth of the Canton river in south China yesterday for an unknown destination.

Curb on Gasoline May Cut Rio's Bus Service

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 21.—Reduction of bus service except during rush hours was held out as a possibility today, as authorities studied gasoline import restrictions. In the state of Rio Grande do Sul and Bahia a 30 per cent cut already has been put into effect. The management of the Brazilian Central Railway has issued instructions forbidding the use of gasoline except for "bona fide necessities."

Suspended

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
Mrs. Helen Miller at desk in headquarters of United Federal Workers' union in Washington, D.C.

Washington, D. C., July 21 [Special].—Mrs. Helen Miller was under suspension today from her position in the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor pending a hearing on charges that she is or has been a member of organizations which have "promoted the policies of the communist party." Her suspension was ordered by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

BRITISH PATROLS RAID ENEMY IN SIEGE OF TOBRUK

CAIRO, Egypt, July 21 (AP).—The British middle east command said today that British and Indian patrols had carried out from besieged Tobruk a new series of raids with "remarkable" success and few losses.

"Several enemy strong points were attacked," said a communique on the sorties which occurred Saturday night. "In one of them serious losses were inflicted upon the enemy before our patrol withdrew."

FIRST AMERICAN TROOPS ON DUTY IN BRITISH GUIANA

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, July 21 (AP).—The first detachment of United States troops to garrison two South American bases leased here under the destroyer deal with Britain arrived today.

These are the first peacetime bases garrisoned by the United States on another continent, altho marines and troops have been stationed in China for guard duty. The navy has outlined the facilities in British Guiana as follows:

"A patrol plane and squadron base with aerodrome on the bank of the River Demerara, 25 miles up. A seaplane base near Suddie on the west bank of the mouth of the River Essequibo."

The bases are at the approximate center of British Guiana's Atlantic coastline, about 1,500 airmiles east of the Panama canal. The rivers Demerara and Essequibo run parallel to the sea. Georgetown at the mouth of the Demerara is about 25 miles north of one base while the site of the other, at Suddie, is about 50 miles to the northwest.

CLAIMS JAPS NOT BOUND IF NAZIS START WAR ON U.S.

TOKIO, July 21 (AP).—The influential commercial newspaper Chugai Shogyo expressed the belief today that the three power alliance would not operate to bring Japan into the war if Germany took the initiative and declared war on the United States.

Recalling that article 3 of the treaty of Berlin calls for one ally to help another only if the latter is attacked by a power not involved in the European and Chinese wars, the newspaper went on:

"Germany is spreading propaganda to the effect that the United States sent troops to Iceland in a deliberate effort to force Germany to take the initiative and declare war. In that event the three power pact would not be operative."

Land 25 British Survivors of Ship Nazi Plane Sank

VIGO, Spain, July 21 (AP).—The Spanish fishing vessel Nuevo Elisa arrived here today with 25 members of the crew of 164 of the 3,174 ton British steamer Malvernian, which was sunk July 1 some 20 miles off the Portuguese coast by a German plane.

Big Battle Rages Behind the Stalin Line.

BERLIN, July 21 (AP).—German forces which have smashed thru the Stalin line are fighting a "big, destructive battle" behind the fortifications which were Russia's chief reliance against invasion from the west, a German military spokesman declared tonight.

In the German view, the whole soviet defense structure is tottering. As the spokesman described it:

Russian land and air forces have suffered irreplaceable losses and are drawing on their last reserves.

Soviet troops cannot rally for a satisfactory new defense line.

German forces, a large part of which have not been used so far, can be thrown into action at full strength.

The Russian fleet in the Baltic has proved ineffective.

Makes a Comparison.

The spokesman compared the Russians' plight at the end of the first month of the struggle in the east with that of the British and the French between the Meuse river and the English channel after the turning of the Maginot line in June, 1940.

There was no breathing spell for the British and French then, he said, and the Russians are not getting time to reorganize behind the Stalin line now.

Altho the French armistice came 10 days after the break thru of the Weygand line, where the French generalissimo tried to rally his forces before Paris, the spokesman indicated there would be no such brief aftermath in Russia.

He pictured the situation as "different and more difficult" and cited, for one thing, the soviet's vast spaces. But German troops credited now with having pushed roughly 375 miles forward from the erstwhile German-Russian frontier can solve the new problems, he declared.

Red Units Pocketed.

A strategy of many complex encirclement movements pocketing isolated Red army units was said to be paying dividends in a growing number of Russian divisions wiped out.

As the Germans explained this mammoth operation, the airforce and motorized columns far out in front have virtually cut the Russians off from retreat.

German press reports told of the destruction of one division near Mogilev, 125 miles east of Minsk.

Others are encircled north of Vitebsk, Dvina river railroad town, and have suffered heavy losses in attempts to break out of the German ring, DNB, official German news agency, said. One Russian regiment was seized near Kiev, the Ukrainian capital.

Hitler's War Report.

The high command still is disclosing no details. The war bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said:

"In the southern sector of the eastern front German, Rumanian, and Hungarian troops are pursuing the enemy," it declared. "Operations on the entire front continue to take their successful course with the destruction of numerous encircled groups."

The air force, which bombed one encircled group in the Smolensk area, claimed it had destroyed 340 motor vehicles and 26 tanks. [The Nazis say they are beyond Smolensk, which is 230 miles southwest of Moscow.] The air force was credited also with destruction of 97 soviet planes Sunday.

Low flying German bombers attacking Russian military camps and troop concentrations in the Shimsk-Novgorod region inflicted heavy losses on the Russians. This sector is 100 miles south of Leningrad.

Claims by Foes in Russian War

(Story in adjoining column.)

The situation in the Russian-German war yesterday as drawn from claims by both sides. The Germans said the Russian defense was tottering, but Russian sources said their lines were holding and that Smolensk, claimed several days ago by the Germans, still was in Russian hands. Circles indicate areas of heavy fighting.

RUSSIAN TROOPS FIGHT 'INTENSELY' IN 3 KEY AREAS

Claim German Air Raid on Leningrad Repulsed.

MOSCOW, July 22 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian troops meeting the full shock of the sustained German offensive are fighting intensely in the key areas defending the cities of Moscow, Leningrad, and Kiev, it was announced early today.

The Russian communique merely said that heavy fighting was in progress in the areas around Polotsk, Nevel, and Smolensk, before Moscow, and around Novograd-Volynski on the Ukrainian front. The war report said the soviet lines were holding in these areas and also on the approaches to Leningrad.

Raid on Leningrad Repulsed.

It told also of the repulse of an attempted air attack on Leningrad. The war report added that 11 German planes were shot down in the first attempt to raid Leningrad and eight others were downed in a second attempt. The Russians said four of their planes were lost.

Besides the areas named in the early morning no important military operations took place late Monday and Monday night.

Thus the fighting went on unabated in the fifth week of the German invasion and time became an increasingly important soviet ally.

Claim Reds Hold Smolensk.

Unofficial soviet quarters claimed that Smolensk, a city in the Russian center and on the high road to Moscow 230 miles away, still was in Red hands. This disputed Nazi claims that Smolensk had been taken and passed last week and pictured the main German thrust as having been held without material gain for at least four days.

Military dispatches reported enormous and continuing German losses. Russian guerrilla operations behind the Nazi front continued unabated.

The soviet information bureau announced that a shore battery opened fire on a Fascist transport and that the vessel crashed at full speed into a cliff. It was said that after sinking the transport navy men of the battery sank an enemy cutter and a trawler. The bureau also reported eight Messerschmitts and five bombers were destroyed.

Fathers, Do You Remember?

President Roosevelt, on October 30, 1940, speaking to fathers and mothers on the selective service act:

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers, I give you one more assurance.

"I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.

"They are going into training to form a force so strong that, by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war far away from our shores.

"The purpose of our defense is defense."

Report New Swift Russian Tank Takes Big Toll of Foe

BERNE, Switzerland, July 21.—It was reported here today that the Russians have thrown into the battle of Smolensk a new type of tank considerably faster than anything the Germans have yet used. Carrying 5 inch armor plate and revolving turret, armed with new light rapid firing cannon, this machine was said to be taking a heavy toll of German soldiers whose light anti-tank guns have proved insufficient so far to halt the Russian tank.

SNAPPY UNIFORM OFFERED AS LURE TO BRITISH WOMEN

Army Auxiliary Seeks 150,000 Recruits.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—The auxiliary territorial service [the ATS] will have a personnel of 200,000 women and girls within six months, Mrs. Jean Knox, whose rank is the equivalent of a major general in the army, said today when she took over command from Dame Helen Gwynne Vaughan.

Mrs. Jean Knox.

Mrs. Knox, 33 years old and attractive, wore the new ATS uniform which she helped to design because of the refusal of many attractive girls who wanted to join the service to wear the unattractive uniform which heretofore has been in use and which the girls said looked entirely to masculine.

Tailored to the Figure.

The new uniform is made to fit the female figure as well as the best tailormade suit. The skirt is sewed in four pieces instead of two, the shoulders of the jacket are designed to make the material hang properly and the belt, for all ranks, is detachable instead of being sewed to the tunic material.

We now have about 50,000 in the service and by Christmas I hope to have 200,000," Mrs. Knox said.

She also spoke of the jobs offered in the service—cooking, secretarial, communications, and other work which they can do to relieve the men for fighting. "Anti-aircraft and radio location will take large numbers of new recruits, but the army council has the last word in assigning jobs to girls," she added.

At the same time the ATS was launching its recruiting drive the WAAFS [the Women's Auxiliary Air force] were grousing for more pay.

WAAF officers insist that they "do men's jobs" and that, altho they are required to have high technical qualifications for their work, they get the same pay as women performing non-technical duties. WAAF officers' pay is about $1.50 daily, whereas a man of corresponding rank receives about $2.90.

NAZIS TO SUFFER HEAVIEST RAIDS IN HISTORY: BRITISH

LONDON, July 22 [Tuesday] (AP).—British bombers again attacked western Germany during the night in a continuation of the aerial offensive which authoritative sources yesterday said was but a prelude for the heaviest air raids in history, to be launched by the RAF on Germany in the next three months, and which, according to the British, "will make Coventry look like a pinprick."

German night raids on Britain still were on a restricted scale, centered on coastal areas where the government said casualties were small.

Before hammering objectives in Germany after nightfall, the royal air force swarmed across the channel in a series of attacks.

During the day and night bombers, aided by strong fighter forces, were reported to have smashed again at industrial Lille in northern France, following up overnight raids on Cologne in the Rhineland and Rotterdam, in the Netherlands. Nine German planes were reported destroyed at a cost of six RAF fighters.

Claim 2 Vessels Sunk.

BERLIN, July 21 (AP).—Germans reported today their aircraft sank two freighters totaling 11,000 tons and a speedboat in English waters overnight, and acknowledged "a few civilian casualties" in a renewal of RAF bombing of western German cities. A dozen British raiders were declared downed.

BRITISH DEMAND APPOINTMENT OF PRODUCTION CHIEF

More Sweeping Changes in Cabinet Urged.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—Practically all newspapers, including the London Times, declared today that the new changes in the cabinet are short of the requirements because no provision has been made yet for the establishment of an all-powerful "minister of production." All expressed belief that Brendan Bracken will be able to succeed as minister of information where, they agreed, his predecessors have failed.

Among the reasons for this expectation is that Winston Churchill's former parliamentary private secretary can obtain the premier's ear where others were not able to do so. Thus, they figure, Bracken will be able to cut thru the red tape of the fighting services and release vital news heretofore withheld until it became stale or was overshadowed by important new developments.

Noted for Great Energy.

Bracken, 40 years old, has attracted a large audience in the house of commons because he is a man of great energy. The "Londoner's Diary" describes him as "patriarchal in some of his mannerisms." He pats people on the shoulder or gives them a genial dig in the ribs as gestures of friendliness. He seldom sits and talks, but walks ceaselessly up and down and, with some one he likes, frequently links arms.

Bracken told THE TRIBUNE last Wednesday that Alfred Duff Cooper had done as good a job as minister of information as was possible with the limited powers he was authorized to exercise.

Call Job Boneyard of Hopes.

The Evening News editorialized: "Bracken may do better. He would not take it on if he did not think he could. No man willingly steps into a position littered with the bones of political hopes unless he is himself fortified with confidence."

Duff Cooper was at the ministry of information today clearing up his desk. He has been named special war coördinator in the far east, a job analogous with that of Capt. Oliver Lyttleton in the middle east, except that Cooper was denied minister of state status.

Leading the press in hammering at the need for other changes in the government, the London Times said: "The last thing to be observed of these [Sunday's] changes is that they neither give nor prejudice the answer to suggestions that have been more and more urgently and cogently pressed upon the government for clearer control and direction of the nation's industrial effort. Reorganization of the leadership on that front remains for the public the overriding interest of the moment."

Cite "Missing" Appointment.

In a similar vein the Star said: "One looked for appointment is missing. It is more important than any of those made—a minister of production."

The provincial newspapers voiced similar demands. The Glasgow Herald said: "The country awaits major changes that will indicate clearly a more vigorous production drive. These changes could hardly be announced before the prime minister's promised statement on production, in which he will endeavor to overcome the bad impression created by the recent debate on supply."

The Manchester Guardian said: "The government changes are neither exciting nor impressive."

Hildegarde, the night club and radio songstress, participated in the "Affairs of Tom, Dick and Harry" on W-G-N and the Mutual network last evening, both in song and drama. After singing the popular and nostalgic song "My Sister and I," Hildegarde joined Tom, Dick, and Harry in another "Yoo-Hoo" playlet. Last week the three comedians gave their version of what happens when a soldier whistles at a girl on a golf course.

Last night they presented what they called a "thumbnose" sketch of the life of "Gen. Trend-Lear." They were quick to point out that this work was inspired by Bob Trendler, director of the W-G-N dance orchestra. Trendler stepped from the bandstand to take the part of "Gen. Trend-Lear."

2 ARMY DOCTORS, CHICAGOANS, DIE IN AUTO PLUNGE

Camp Forrest, Tenn., July 21 [Special]. — Maj. Eugene L. Baker and Capt. Ernest C. He also had been a resident physician at the Chicago Tuberculosis sanitarium.

ALUMINUM DRIVE STARTS OFF AT AN UNCERTAIN SPEED

980 Pounds Deposited at Police Stations.

Amidst a barrage of ballyhoo and publicity Chicago began yesterday to collect old aluminum for "defense purposes."

The spirit of the Chicago donors is wonderful, said Philip Sheridan English, coördinator of the drive for the Chicago Commission on National Defense. The city's quota is 500,000 pounds by next Saturday night.

"There isn't a man in town who can tell how much aluminum has been collected today," said English. He asserted the first figures would be available when trucks gather the discarded utensils from more than 500 collection bins in police and fire stations, theaters, stores, railway stations, and other designated points.

Canvass of Police Stations.

A canvass of the 39 district police stations last night indicated that about 980 pounds had been deposited with them during the day. The City News bureau totaled the estimates of desk sergeants earlier in the evening and came thru with a figure of 400 pounds.

The Albany Park station led the list with 200 pounds. This was offset by several others, including Deering, which reported "not even an eyedropper," and Stockyards, which had one piece of aluminum wrapper foil.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes at 10 a. m. postponed his scheduled reading of the aluminum week proclamation of Mayor Kelly when he found no crowd and only a few pots and pans in the large boarded collection bin at the Congress Street Plaza in Grant park. At 2 p. m. he officially opened the drive when trucks arrived with about 100 pounds of aluminum.

Early Claim to Honors.

Chicago has 83 district organizations for the drive. An early claim to championship was advanced for the North Lawndale district in the 24th ward, the only ward to show a majority favoring war in THE TRIBUNE'S recent postal card poll of voters.

Arthur Schimmel, chairman of that district, said his crew visited 3,000 homes and collected 3,000 pieces of aluminum weighing about 500 pounds. He said that 9,000 more homes will be visited today.

Pots and pans from household kitchens made up the bulk of the donations. Percolators which housewives said had been replaced by glass coffee makers were numerous in the collection bins. There were ice cube trays—"I wonder what ma will say," said a boy who brought one—cocktail shakers, hair curlers, and an artificial leg.

40,000 Volunteer Workers.

Publicity men donating their services said there were 40,000 volunteer workers. Boy Scout officials estimated that 12,000 of a total 26,000 Scouts aided in the drive yesterday, under direction of the district chairmen. Also coöperating are members of the Boys Club of Chicago, the Girl Scouts, B'nai B'rith Youth organization, Catholic Youth organization, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and American Jewish congress.

Experts employed in the aluminum industry say the old aluminum cannot be used in airplanes. It will be sold to smelters to relieve the demand for virgin aluminum for civilian purposes. The money is to be used for civilian defense activities.

BOLIVIA ARRESTS ARMY OFFICERS IN 'PUTSCH' PLOT

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 21 (AP).—Several high ranking Bolivian military officers; Herman Schroth, a German citizen and former manager of Lloyd Aereo Boliviano, and several civilians were arrested in Cochabamba province today in connection with the investigation of an alleged Nazi conspiracy to seize power in Bolivia.

Over the week-end the government declared a state of siege [a form of martial law] and arrested three newspaper men and Former Finance Minister Victor Paz Estenssoro, and ordered the expulsion of the German minister, Ernst Wendler. A legation spokesman said Wendler would leave tomorrow for Antofagasta, Chile. [Berlin said the charges against Wendler were "nonsense."]

The newspaper Ultima Hora said three clandestine radio transmitting stations, one of them in the German legation, were used by the conspirators and charged that "a substantial quantity of arms and ammunition had been imported thru a German firm and cached in several provinces." The newspaper asserted the plot's Bolivian leaders had been in close contact with the German legation.

DRIVE LAUNCHED TO ENLIST U. S. IN BRITISH 'V' WAR

Two Organizations Issue Call for Volunteers.

New York, July 21 [Special].—The British-American Ambulance corps and Bundles for Britain today announced their intention of taking part in the British "V for victory" propaganda drive. The movement is sponsored by the British government in an endeavor to weaken the German morale.

"V" windshield sticker.

W. C. Ruxton, president of the Ambulance corps, said the formation of "V clubs" in the United States had the approval of the American state department.

Million Volunteers Sought.

A million volunteer workers, Bundles for Britain announced, "will be asked to encourage Americans everywhere to start tapping out the three dots and a dash, Morse code for the letter V, to induce people to whistle or sing the first notes of the opening bar of Beethoven's fifth symphony, which are in the same cadence, and to develop new devices to attract widespread moral support in America for the subjugated peoples of Europe."

Buttons, pins, automobile windshield stickers, and other insignia are to be sold, the organization said, with the proceeds to be used for the relief of British war victims.

Auxiliary Units Planned.

The British-American ambulance corps announced the creation of the V clubs of America as a national auxiliary of the ambulance corps.

"We expect local units to be formed all over the country, so every American who favors victory for Britain can join up in his local community," Ruxton said.

Ruxton also said a large white "V" will be painted on the sides of all field ambulances donated by Americans to the British.

REVIVED BY FIREMEN.

"Is your name Alice? Mary? Sally?"

The child stared blankly. The telephone rang, and Alber turned to it.

"No, we've got no lost boy," he told Mrs. Wilbur W. Willock, who was looking for her Harold.

Alber resumed his questioning.

"Lillian? Dorothy? Judy?"

Still no response.

Mrs. Willock phoned again. The chief called the matron. "Hey, is that little child a girl or a boy?"

"Why, a girl," came the answer. "Wait a minute—no, he's a boy." It was Harold.

'V' WAR LEADERS CLAIM BRITAIN IS WINNING 'BATTLE'

LONDON, July 21 (AP).—A British Broadcasting company official asserted today that Britain's V-for-Victory campaign to raise an underground arm against Germany was the "first pitched propaganda battle of the war," and the British apparently "are winning it."

The executive, European News Editor N. F. Newsome, said the V drive was one of a series of experiments to test the readiness of peoples of occupied countries to accept leadership from London.

"There will be other things to worry the Germans," he added.

Newsome said there would be other leadership experiments "until one day we feel able to give the word to the underground army in Europe to go over the top for us in the final offensive."

CAVALRY FORCED TO LEAVE HORSES TO SAVE RAILWAY

Performs Its Mission by Using Transport Vans.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

With the Cavalry in the New Mexico Desert, July 21.—Thousands of cavalrymen were forced to abandon their horses and change to trucks today in the fiercest "fighting" of the current war games. Seventeen thousand men, 8,000 horses, and 2,000 motor vehicles are engaged in the maneuvers—cavalry against cavalry—in the hot desert country 30 miles northeast of Fort Bliss, Tex.

At dawn, zero hour for the beginning of a new 48 hour battle problem, 11,000 soldiers of the Red army were ordered to defend a 40 mile stretch of the Southern Pacific railroad, extending north from the Texas-New Mexico line. This Red force is made up of the 1st brigade of the veteran 1st cavalry division and the 56th cavalry brigade of the federalized Texas National Guard.

Opposing the Reds is a Blue force of 3,500 members of the 2d brigade of the 1st cavalry division. The mission of the Blues was to cut the railroad—and they certainly succeeded.

Carefully skirting Red anti-tank and anti-cavalry weapons—in many instances gas pipe "37 mm. guns" mounted on old automobile axles and wheels—the Blues feinted twice at the southern sector of the railroad held by their enemy.

Then, while Red forces gathered hastily to meet what was thought to be real attacks, the main force of the Blue cavalry swooped down in guerrilla fashion on a thinly held section of the track, 20 miles to the north, near the tiny dot on the map which is Elwood, New Mexico—population, 1, water tank attendant.

In 45 minutes the Blues theoretically mined and demolished half mile of the track.

Troops of the 1st cavalry brigade, sent to meet the feints, were unable to cope with the new alarm on horseback. They had been on the move since dawn, and their tired horses could not have traveled the 20 miles to Elwood in less than four hours.

Realizing this, Maj. Gen. Innis P. Swift, the Red commander, ordered his men to leave their mounts behind and speed to the attack in huge motor vans, normally used for carrying horses. In 30 minutes they were on the scene.

Then followed two hours of hand to hand fighting for the railroad, much to the amazement of startled passengers on passing transcontinental trains. Finally the Blues retreated in the face of superior enemy strength, leaving a theoretically demolished track in the hands of the Reds.

The "demolished" track proved no problem at all for the Reds. They brought up mythical wrecking trains and repair gangs from El Paso, and soon equally mythical troop and supply trains were pursuing their invisible way along the route.

Tonight, finds the Blues retreating toward the Hueco mountains to the east and the Reds in complete possession of the railroad they were assigned to hold.

REPORT SHAKEUP IN NAZI COMMAND OVER SOVIET WAR

New York, July 21 [Special].—Private advices received tonight by the New York Times from a European capital reported that Gen. Erwin Rommell, commander of the German African corps, had been recalled from Libya to collaborate with Field Marshal Siegmund List in mapping the German campaign in Russia.

According to these reports, which were attributed to a neutral diplomat, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the supreme command of the German army, and Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German armies, have been relegated to the background because of the "poor progress" made by the German forces in Russia during the first ten days of the campaign.

These reports followed a Moscow radio broadcast Sunday night to the effect that several generals, including Field Marshal List, "were surrounded by Himmler [chief of all German police] agents, who were to supervise the activities of these generals."

"Some generals," the broadcast added, "were removed from their posts."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Shrubs Have Their Uses

July 21, 1941.

SHRUBS are an important factor in the landscaping of the buildings on the Du Page County farm, but they also serve in other capacities, where their beauty is only secondary. They are used as fences, as screens for unsightly objects, and in many cases offer a valuable means of conserving the soil against washing by rains.

The lilac ranks first at the farm in numbers and different varieties. The gardener estimated that there were 25 different species of lilac bushes growing about the farm. In one of the yards they serve as a hedge and screen about a small flower garden. In other parts of the farm they are grown singly and pruned to bush out, so that when in bloom they resemble a gigantic lavender ball.

Easily Cultivated.

Another favorite at the farm is the viburnum, better known as the snowball. This shrub is easily cultivated, and its attractive flower clusters make it a good ornamental plant. The shrub can be trained to grow quite tall, and its long flowering period makes it an excellent showpiece for yards.

The best known of all hedge plants is the privet. Altho many professional gardeners scorn the privet as a weedy shrub, it is well liked by amateurs who find it easy to raise. Many people object to the unpleasant odor of its flowers.

The dwarf buckeye chestnut is a shrub that has won the approval of farm residents, as it blooms long after most of the other shrubs. It brings a new touch of color to the garden.

Honeysuckles a Screen.

Honeysuckles are used thruout the farm to screen tall fences and buildings. Rapid growers, they thrive almost anywhere and attain a considerable height.

Other important shrubs in leaf at the farm are the magnolias and the hydrangeas. The hydrangea arborescens is used in dense shade, where no other shrub will grow. It is particularly useful for the north side of buildings, and its large white flower clusters make it very attractive.

The hydrangea paniculata, a different variety, is used on the south side of buildings. It does not grow very tall and is especially good for use under windows. It is about the best shrub that flowers in August, and is the most hardy of the hydrangeas.

The mock orange, or Philadelphus, is another well liked shrub that produces lovely flowers and grows tall enough to be used for a screen. At the farm this shrub is grown along fences and against the sides of buildings. It is an extremely decorative plant.

LET'S GO! U.S.A. KEEP 'EM FLYING!

It's a grand slogan the U. S. Army has . . . "Keep 'em flying!"

The speedy fighters and powerful bombers that are taking to the air in defense of our country . . . "Keep 'em flying!"

The thousands of new cadets who are being trained to man these planes . . . "Keep 'em flying!"

★ ★ ★

Yes, it's a slogan that every citizen can be proud of, and that every citizen wants to see fulfilled.

And it's a slogan that applies just as truly to the airlines of the nation as it does to the fighting force . . . "Keep 'em flying!" Because today, more than ever, it is essential to the strength of our union to have the swift, dependable transportation between every section of the country which the airlines are providing for the men, mail and materials of national defense.

United Air Lines recognizes its responsibility in this period of unlimited emergency, and welcomes the opportunity to serve to the utmost of its ability.

Along our Main Line Airway—the strategic central mid-continent route—are many of the nation's greatest cities and most important defense plants; and we are furnishing them today the fastest service in our history!

The Government has helped by letting us retain planes to do so. Additional planes which we had ordered to meet the needs of normal expansion we have turned over to other defense uses.

The action of the Army and Navy in placing airline pilots in a reserve pool, similar to the deferred status of men in defense industry, plus the training by United of new co-pilots in its own schools, has given us the experienced Captains and First Officers to fly our Mainliners. Likewise, key ground operating personnel have been deferred.

Our inventories of replacements—engines, propellers, instruments—have been maintained at normal levels so that the highest standards of operation may be maintained.

With this, and with the whole-hearted support of our 3500 men and women, United is aiding in the speeding of defense work to the limit of its capacity. Because of unceasing demands made upon air transportation by business travelers and shippers, there may be times when availability of space in the air lines may be taxed.

So, just as in certain other business playing an important role in national defense, we ask the public to recognize that with United Air Lines, defense comes first during these emergency times.

THE WAR MESSAGE.

Mr. Roosevelt has asked congress to declare by resolution the existence of a national emergency. He says he will let congress write the measure but he expects to use it to hold the National Guard and the conscripts beyond their year of service and to expand the army to any size he desires. He carefully avoided any reference to sending the army as an expeditionary force into foreign fields, but as he has already sent the navy into belligerent waters and as he has already sent marines to Iceland there can be little doubt that he assumes that as commander-in-chief he may dispose of his forces at his pleasure.

The resolution that Mr. Roosevelt asks is all that he will need to push this country into the war. If the members of congress do not recognize that fact, they will have convicted themselves of stupidity. Four-fifths of the people of this country want to stay out of the war and they can do so unless congress betrays them by adopting the desired resolution. Once the resolution is on the books, it will be only a matter of weeks or months until our men will be dying in the African desert or in Norway or Finland or on some other foreign battlefield.

The excuse which the President puts forward is that the country is in the gravest danger, far graver than existed a year ago. Mr. Roosevelt asserts this but he doesn't prove it. He can't prove it because it obviously isn't so. He says the Germans are moving from conquest to conquest and our turn may come at any moment.

The fact, as every one knows, is that just a month ago Germany acquired a new enemy in Russia, a nation of 175 million people, possessed of a huge army and much modern military equipment. Thus far the Russians have put up a pretty stiff sort of opposition. They have done far better than any of the other enemies which Germany has met.

A year ago there was much reason to fear that Hitler might attempt the invasion of Britain at any moment and that if he attempted it he might succeed. Now that danger has been postponed and the English themselves seem confident that the attack cannot come until next year at the earliest. A year ago the British losses at sea were rising. Now they are falling. A year ago British air strength was relatively far weaker than it is today. A year ago British cities, not German cities, were being pounded. A year ago our armament program was still in the blueprint stage. Today we are beginning to turn out weapons in quantity.

Still Mr. Roosevelt believes that Hitler will vanquish all of Europe and then direct his attention instantly to America. Hitler hasn't yet destroyed Britain or Russia and there is no immediate prospect that he will knock them both out. If he does and he has the will to conquer America, an intention which Mr. Roosevelt asserts but offers no evidence to prove—Germany will still lack the means. Long before Hitler can assemble transports, a navy to escort them, and airplanes capable of escorting the navy, we can be impregnable, whether we keep the conscripts in camp or not.

When, after the war began, our army command examined the problem of defending our shores against invasion, the verdict was that half a million men if well trained and fully armed, could protect us against any threat. That is all we need, provided we are not going to send our men to fight overseas and provided we do not send all our equipment abroad. If we are to have an expeditionary force, of course, we must have not a mere half million but many millions, because every advantage will be possessed by the enemy.

That is the kind of army Mr. Roosevelt wants. His message asks that all limitations on the size of the force be removed. He says that the men in the army are eager to make the sacrifice, but again he offers no proof. What evidence there is points rather in the other direction. Some of them who sent a petition to congress asking their release at the end of the year have been threatened with punishment. If Mr. Roosevelt has his way he may succeed in creating a disaffected army which might well be of less value to the nation than no army.

The message urges haste on congress. Within two months, congress is told, the army will begin to disintegrate unless the period of service is extended. The truth is that it will be at least six months before any significant number of men will be released under the existing limitation. The truth also is that if congress wishes to retain trained men in the service, the end can be achieved by raising the pay of volunteers, particularly of noncommissioned officers.

The armament program at present calls for an expenditure of close to 50 billion dollars at the last accounting. For a hundred million dollars a year, and probably for much less, in pay raises the army can get all the experienced volunteers it needs. In comparison with the other sums, that is a negligible figure. If it can't be obtained in any other way it can be found by reducing the appropriations for WPA and kindred boondoggles.

Mr. Roosevelt's message asks congress in effect to abdicate its power to declare war and transfer that power to him. If congress accedes, the President will have received all the authority he needs to start the shooting. Congressmen cannot pretend that they do not understand what is at issue. They do understand it. They cannot pretend that the people favor war. They know that four-fifths of the people are opposed to war. If the resolution is adopted, it will be by the grossest betrayal of promises in this country's history.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

From what we hear from the ladies and gentlemen of the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply they are preparing to recreate the American world and make it something a returning great-grandmother would recognize as her own in appliances if not in principles. Tubs and washboards are coming back and the laundry will not be on the line at 9 a. m. but about 2 p. m.

The householder will build a feed box in his garage, take the engine out of his car and attach shafts. It won't go as fast, but day by day it will give him more exercise than he gets in a filling station.

The kerosene lamp had many admirable qualities. Its light was mellow and a certain amount of exercise went along with it. Making paper squills for lamp lighting was an enjoyable evening pastime which may be a substitute for the radio when there is no radio. The good old times were the good old times from all we hear about them and with the cosmetician gone the gals will soon be looking like something out of the old family album—not so bad at that.

STALIN'S FEAR OF REVOLT.

Stalin put the political commissars back in the army shortly after the fighting began and now has reintroduced them in the navy, according to Moscow reports. These agents of the Kremlin were withdrawn after the purging and reorganization of the army commands several years ago. Supposedly Stalin had satisfied himself of the good faith and personal loyalty of the men who stepped into the shoes of their slain brother officers.

The political agent is supposed to be devoted to the cultivation of the party faith thruout the ranks and to be an instructor in the communist doctrines and thus a morale officer. In fact, the commissars were the Stalin police who stood at the elbows of the military officers to watch their actions and to try to read their minds. They were necessarily disturbing creatures. Each officer was virtually chained to an informer.

The return of these spies to the Russian units would indicate that Stalin has an eye to the possibility of an army insurrection against him if the Germans should have any great victories which would stagger the Russian defenses. The army command, from the top down to the regimental officers, has no reason to trust Red Josef. He began slaughtering the marshals and officers in 1937. No complete report of the full toll was ever obtained. It was understood that before the purge was over he had made a clean sweep down to the company commanders. The men were not demoted or retired. They were sent into eternity by the pistol route.

One explanation for the butchery was that the officers had been too friendly with Germany and the German army. Another was that they hadn't been friendly enough. Joe had just finished polishing off all his old associates and superiors in the revolution when he decided to complete the job by exterminating his army officers. If the Russians were driven deep into their territory to continue the war, after great reverses but with the advantage of distances, it might be the end of the Stalin régime, and Red Josef may be fully aware of it. That probably is why each officer has his police shadow at his side, a situation unlikely to do the fighters any good.

IS GEORGIA OUT AGAIN?

The Atlanta city council by unanimous vote denied Senator Burton K. Wheeler permission to speak in the city auditorium against entrance into the foreign war. The meeting was to have been held Sept. 5 under the direction of a committee of Atlanta citizens who asked to exercise the right of free speech. It was no go. The Georgians in control reverted to '61. It's a Yankee constitution.

One of these Georgians said that war was "imminent" and the world would know by the council's action "how the south's leading city stands in this moment of peril." If the moment of peril is about to produce an immediate war the Georgia war party might have taken a chance on Sept. 5. If the Georgia youth are then busy knocking out the tanks on some far away field there wouldn't have been any anti-war meeting. The only imminent peril is one these Georgians and other war birds themselves are making by disloyalty to the institutions of their country.

A majority of the Georgians were not disloyal in '61. They were carried into secession by such a mob as seems to control in the state again. A majority of Georgians are loyal today and they should be given every aid to escape from the incendiaries who would bring disaster upon them and the rest of us.

Editorial of the Day

BULLETS IN THE BODY.

[Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.]

"Feel!" said the old man. So we felt. And there it was in his leg—the very bullet a rebel had fired into him at Chickamauga. One of the great experiences of boyhood was to feel that bullet. We brought friends to feel it. They, too, were impressed. Here was palpable evidence of something—" old, unhappy, far off things, and battles long ago."

But now science, we read with disgust, has struck a blow at all such romantic nonsense. By a process half X-ray, half geometry, involving red crosses on white skin and pictures from three different angles, all bullets are henceforth to be located with marvelous exactitude and, we suppose, extracted in the twinkling of a surgeon's eye.

It's too bad. Hundreds of soldiers' chief claim to fame lies in the bullets they carry. Some carry 'em in their skulls, but not many; some carry bullets deep in their insides and report faithfully if not too accurately upon their mysterious migrations; some carry them proudly in their arms and legs where they can be felt by less fortunate patriots.

One of the most useful bullets ever to be lodged in a relative stuck deep in our uncle's thigh where for 30 years it served as a barometer. It ached in plenty of time for the hands to get the hay in before rain, and it was equally dependable in forecasting the weather for Sunday school picnics. It was a fine bullet.

From our wide experience in feeling bullets we should say that after the initial surprise they're more harmless than whooping cough and far more convenient. You undoubtedly pass many people every day who are carrying bullets in their bodies, half of whom would be proud to have you feel them if pressed.

But their number will sharply decline from now on. There will be honorable scars, but scars are not the same thing. There's something solid, reassuring about a bullet in the body. We hate to see them go.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MOSCOW TIMETABLE, 1812.

Timing Hitler's invasion of Russia against Napoleon's, to ascertain when General Winter will begin the counter-offensive:

Napoleon started on June 24 [three days later than Hitler].

Smolensk taken Aug. 17 [by Hitler July 16?].

Battle of Borodino Sept. 7.

French army entered Moscow Sept. 14.

Napoleon began retreat from Moscow Oct. 19.

First frost [later than usual] Oct. 27.

Nights became severely cold Nov. 2.

Wreck of the Grand army reached Smolensk Nov. 9; resumed march on the 14th.

Debacle at the crossing of the Beresina Nov. 26, 27, 28.

Napoleon quit his disorganized troops on Dec. 8 at Smorgoni and reached Paris on the 18th.

Russian pursuit practically ceased at the River Niemen on Jan. 10.

* * *

Early in the retreat Marshal Berthier wrote to Napoleon, thus:

"I feel it my duty to inform your majesty of the state of your troops in the different divisions which have come under my observation. They are almost disbanded. The number of men who march with the flags is a quarter, at most, of every regiment; the rest wander on in various directions, each on his own account, in the hope of finding food and escaping discipline."

Kutuzov, the old Russian commander-in-chief who retreated until General Winter became his ally, is a full-length character in Tolstoy's "War and Peace." That enormous novel is the best historical work on the entire subject.

THE TERMITES' DEFEAT.

("Science to tune in on crunch of a termite's jaw."—News headline.)

For lo, these many ages,
According to the sages,
You termites have been doing as you please;
In all of history's pages
There are few more gross outrages
Than your chewing at our homes prepared from trees!

But now your days are numbered,
Your progress is encumbered,
For science can detect your noisy crunch;
Our houses neatly lumbered,
Where we have lived and slumbered,
No more are invitations for free lunch!

So, termites, fold your banners!
You see, your uncouth manners
Have finally o'ertaken you at last;
You're among the also-ranners,
Just a lot of cheap tinpanners,
For you smack your jaws too loudly at repast!

Newcomer.

Long Live the Baker of Baraboo!

Bunn the Baker of Baraboo [one of the Line's oldest subjects] is still active around that fair vacation city. We found, while foraying [for spiritus frumenti] into what seems like a charming New England town transplanted in Wisconsin, that the Line's erstwhile famous baker is now the chief janitor [important job there] of the Baraboo Senior High school. He said he has risen, without the aid of yeast, to higher education. His formal name is John C. Bunn. He still gets mail as a result of his Line o' Type fame of 25 years ago.

Bellman the Ballyhoo of Baraboo.

In Memory of Richard Carle.

The obituary notice covering Richard Carle in a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE hardly did justice to this well-beloved comedian. Richard Carle traveled in distinguished company from the start of his career. James T. Power and Pete Dailey gave him his start in "A Straight Tip" in 1890. Five years later he appeared in "Excelsior Jr." at Hammerstein's Olympia with Fay Templeton, Charles A. Bigelow, and Walter Jones. During the long run of "Lady Slavey" he played with Dan Daly and Marie Dressler. He crossed the Atlantic with the "American Beauty" company, which included Edna May and Truly Shattuck.

ON DRESSING FOR A NEW DATE.

While I stay home beside my fire
I am at peace, with no desire
To frighten me. I have my den
And quietude; I have my pen;
My books, and phonograph, and flowers
Are safe and while away the hours.
And so my folly is but double,
To go outside and get in trouble!

Panic at the Wheel.

We were much amused to notice you had had trouble with your speedometer cable [July 10]. It happened with us, and my O my, we thought the car would be in pieces. A garage man disconnected the flexible shaft, lubricated it, and, says 'e: "Let her go till she busts; 'twould cost as much as a new one to send it to the factory."

And leaves clouds of powder all over the place;
Then at close of day she's again in a hurry
And rouges just the west side of her face!

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

THE RIB THAT CAN BE SPARED.

EVERY once in a while some one will complain of a dull aching pain originating in the neck or the shoulder region, and running down the arms to the hands. If the distress occurs periodically—worse at times than at others—finally settling down into a more or less steady ache, we have a perfect right to investigate the anomaly known as a cervical rib. If present, it may exert pressure on certain nerves, particularly the brachial plexus, which gives rise to loss of sensation, pain, or muscle atrophy.

But what is this structure? It is a bony projection from the spine. The deformity is really an extra rib extending outward from the seventh cervical vertebra. It should not be there but it is, sometimes. Occasionally both sides will boast a "spare."

The case is reported of a 38 year old woman who first observed numbness in the fingers on exposure to cold. An X-ray film showed an abnormal protuberance on the right side of the neck, which was attached to a portion of the vertebral column. The patient could scarcely raise her right arm as high as the shoulder. In addition, it was far weaker than the left. The malformation was not symmetrical in that it did not appear on the left. Surgical removal of this uninvited spurlike growth resulted in complete recovery.

One of the typical symptoms is that soreness is aggravated on using the arms, or the shoulders. Sweeping, writing at a desk, driving an automobile—all increase discomfort. More often than not, lifting is quite out of the question. Many will state that they cannot raise the arm high enough to comb the hair or brush the teeth. As one patient reported, "My hat blew off and I made a quick grab for it. The result was such a stabbing, agonizing pain that I fainted."

Occasionally, characteristic signs are blueness [cyanosis] of the hands, the fact that the part feels cold, and poor nutrition to the fingers and fingernails. In such a situation, we must understand that the main artery to the arm has become narrowed because of pressure. Many a victim will be observed to carry the affected shoulder higher than its fellow. This is an unconscious habit because it is found to ease tension and hence bring relief.

The physician can make a simple test for the presence of this disease. Pressure on the anterior scalenus muscle will be responsible for a sharp "wince." When in doubt, the tissues may be injected with a local anesthetic which will afford temporary respite. As we would expect, however, an X-ray film will give us a complete picture of the area and thus establish the diagnosis accurately.

There seems to be no adequate management other than to remove what can really be considered a foreign body. The spike does not belong within the tissues where it is placed, and the promptness of recovery which follows skilled surgery is clear cut proof of the value of this type of treatment. The operative procedure is not dangerous at the hands of an an expert.

All too many victims look upon the ailment as a form of arthritis. While the symptoms of this latter malady may be similar, there is no relation whatsoever between the two conditions.

A HUMAN CASCADE.

H. T. writes: As soon as I take a drink of water—summer or winter—I break out in perspiration from head to toes. It's as if a million sweat glands cry out, "He's had another drink, boys. Open up the spillways!" Am I a man or a sponge?

REPLY.

This symptom is fairly common, and there are two causes. The first, and more likely, is a deficiency of minerals. Add two or three teaspoonfuls of ordinary table salt to your regular allowance, and you will probably obtain relief. If not, the trouble may be of vasomotor origin—a nervous phenomenon. People who flush easily perspire with equal facility. If the condition is annoying enough, small doses of bromides may prove helpful.

PATCHES ON SKIN.

C. B. writes: White spots which keep growing in size appear on my arms and legs. What kind of a disease is this? Can it be prevented?

REPLY.

Psoriasis would answer your description. On the other hand, there are many maladies wherein the pigment of the skin is lost. One such is called vitiligo. Are there any albinos in the family?

2. An abnormal craving for alcoholic liquors is called Megalomania Sotto Voce Pyromania Dipsomania.
3. A ferret is sometimes employed in hunting which one of these? Gold Criminals Ducks Rabbits.
4. The largest number of dinosaur tracks ever found were in Arizona Egypt Iceland China.
5. The color of a ruby is Blue Green Yellow Red.
6. Here is another "relativity" problem in geography. Try to match the islands below with their approximate areas in square miles. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching.

[a] Great Britain	[v] 32,596 square miles
[b] Madagascar	[w] 40,000 square miles
[c] Ireland	[x] 89,000 square miles
[d] Greenland	[y] 241,000 square miles

OUTLOOK TO HER NOT GOOD.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19.—I believe we are on our way to dictatorship and war. Less than a year ago we, as the government, gave our solemn pledge to more than a million young men that they would be trained and armed then released after they served a year. That promise will be broken. Do you suppose that is conducive to keeping up the morale?

Less than a year ago there was too much wheat, cotton, eggs, butter, pork, beef, clothing, and many other articles of everyday life. Now all of a sudden there is a shortage despite the fact that millions still on relief get surplus commodity cards. Farmers get punished for raising too much wheat.

Six airships escape wrecking, the public is told upon inquiry that it's not the business of the public to know. Why not? Are we not told in newsreels and bond sales "ads" that "this is your army-navy-air corps"? Then why can't we know what is being done with our property?

A 1,000th bomber flew off to England, while our boys endanger their lives flying crates which should have been scrapped years ago. We sure have a funny way of building for defense.

We are all Americans and the bowing and scraping our officials do to the British royalty gets our dander up. Maybe they, too, would like to wear coronets?

JEAN GRABOWSKI.

ON WINDOWS AND WASTE FOOD.

Elgin, Ill., July 19.—Much discomfort in city offices, factories, schools, and homes could be eliminated by lowering windows from the top during hot weather. Hot air rises to the ceiling. By opening a few windows from the top any building can be cooled in 10 minutes. A few windows should be raised from the bottom, of course, to create a current.

There is going on in this nation a criminal waste of perfectly good food in restaurants, hospitals, and all eating places. I worked in a hospital where enough hot mashed potatoes to feed 25 people were thrown in the garbage can rather than let the employés have a more generous helping. The same is true of other foods. In fashionable eating places, on college campuses, swanky hotels, and restaurants young girls order a meal, take a few bites and cast the rest aside in order to appear sophisticated, wealthy, etc. This could all be stopped by the authorities ordering notices to be placed that "All food ordered must be eaten." In view of a predicted food shortage this should be done.

CONGRESSMAN.

THE EAST IN NEAR-PANIC.

Chicago, July 18.—Referring to the paid ad, "Half at War—Half Asleep," we have always suspected that the eastern states were jittery about a fancied Hitler peril, but now we know it. This man Brewer is jumping up and down, tearing his hair.

If Hitler does clean up on Russia and England and is fool enough to try to lick us we can whip him alone, and if we prepare ourselves properly and do not give away all our defense material we never need fear Hitler nor any combination that might be organized against us. Nobody in Europe loves us. We should know that by this time.

H. C. LAMMERS.

SMALL BOYS AND A COP.

Chicago, July 17.—My 4 year old daughter generally cajoles me into escorting her to Welles park, where she spends these pleasant evenings disporting herself in the sand pile, or on the swings and slides, while I dutifully wait to escort her on the return journey.

The other evening while awaiting her majesty's signal to depart for home I noticed two boys of about 8 or 10 busily tossing everything they could lay hands on into the swimming pool. Suddenly they saw the park policeman bearing down upon them, and they started on their way, but a brusque "hey" stopped them in their tracks, where they stood sheepishly awaiting him; afraid to stay, yet afraid to run.

Slowly the burly gendarme came up to them and I watched, expecting him to launch into a lecture, delivered in stentorian tones, and accompanied by all the awe-inspiring gestures his bulk indicated. However, instead of delivering a thunderous oration he placed a fatherly arm around each youngster, and drawing them close so that their three heads merged, spoke softly as tho to his own boys, explaining the error of their ways, meantime patting the arm of each affectionately with his big paws.

I could not help thinking those two boys will never be "cop-haters," as this, probably their first [and last], brush with the law, taught them that policemen have hearts and are not to be looked upon with fear.

Later I made a point of crossing the officer's path to compliment him upon his deft handling of the matter. "Aw," he said with a grin, "I take 'em as they come and treat 'em nice, and I generally find that it pays better than yellin' at 'em."

BUT WILL CONGRESS DECIDE?

Chicago, July 18.—Is civilization in this country now such that men of military age are too dear to their mothers to be allowed to fight when necessary for their country's liberty?

Has the power to declare war, wisely lodged by the founders of the constitution in the congress, at least supposedly composed of persons of superior ability and opportunities for knowing, been transferred to old women and yellows?

G. C. O.

A SOFTENING-UP PROCESS.

Chicago, July 19.—The proposed extension of draft service is another measure which is designed to help force the American people into a gradual submissive acceptance of military law—a military law that will outlaw strikes, free speech, and finally, reaching into all phases of our lives, destroy every vestige of individualism and initiative of which we have for so long boasted.

The issue becomes more clear each day—we must choose between democracy and despotism.

EDWARD LARSON.

KINDNESS—PLUS DISCIPLINE.

Chicago, July 17.—What we need at the St. Charles School for Boys is not alone kindness, but a strict discipline. Remove the "sob sisters" and politicians' interference. We are not kind to our own children or to those who live in institutions when we forget discipline.

A HOUSE MOTHER.

STANDEE ON THE "L."

Chicago, July 19.—I arise to protest that there is no justice in the proposed boost of "L" fares to 12 and 13 cents. I have been riding Rapid Transit trains ever since the present arrangement of street car-"L"-bus transfers went into effect. During all this time I can count the occasions on one hand that I have had the accommodation of a seat on the Jackson Park or Englewood trains which I must use between 47th street and the loop.

It is bad enough to stand in the morning when one is fresh but it is disgusting, after a day's work, to be herded together like so many cattle on a train where standing room is at a premium. I for one do not propose to pay an additional 36 cents a week for such a privilege.

FRANCIS S. HATCHER.

THANKFUL FOR THE POLLS.

Epworth, Ia., July 18.—Millions of Americans are saying today "God bless THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York News" for the polls that are sending down to Washington in thundering tones the people's sentiments on peace and war. You are doing a heroically patriotic work, worthy to be memoralized in brass. You are holding up the hands of these praying millions, you, THE TRIBUNE and News and the voices of these citizens will be heard.

What a farce to talk of democracy and close your ears to the voice of the people.

HAY FEVER VICTIM'S PLEA.

Chicago, July 19.—I, too, am a hay fever victim—have suffered every year since 1910. It is not getting any better as I get older. I wish the weeds could be cut down now—not after the damage has been done. I realize that a week has been set aside in August for that purpose, but that is too late; the time is now. It wouldn't do any harm to cut the weeds now and it would give us a chance to find out if there is any help for us.

Chicago, July 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We are tenants in a very respectable apartment building located in a residential neighborhood. We love our home but much to our disgust, right in front of our kitchen windows, there is a basement foundation. Please tell us what course to take to get this cleaned up so that we may venture to sit on our back porches and feel at home.

HOUSE APPROVES 287 MILLIONS FOR MILITARY ROADS

States' Share Cut in Half to Speed Program.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The house, by a voice vote, today passed and sent to the senate a bill to provide the administration with 287 million dollars to spend on highways thruout the nation in connection with the rearmament program. There was little opposition to the measure. Debate, scheduled to last two hours, lagged after the first 60 minutes.

Included in the bill is an appropriation of 250 million dollars for immediate construction or improvement of highways termed important to the rearmament program. It also would authorize appropriation of 2 million dollars for experimental flight strips along public highways for emergency airplane landings and takeoffs; 10 millions to be used in coöperation with the states in making "advance highway engineering surveys," and 25 millions for reimbursing the states for repair of roads damaged by the army and navy.

Routes Must Be Widened.

The 250 million dollar item is split into 100 millions for improvements on routes which have been designated by the war department as of strategic importance, and 150 millions for construction of access roads to army and navy posts, rearmament plant sites and raw material sources.

The strategic network of routes, it was explained, consists of approximately 78,000 miles, or one-third of the federal aid system. The committee on roads, in its report, asserted that 2,436 bridges and 19,095 miles of road must be widened or strengthened to bring these routes to acceptable standard.

To accomplish this, 458 million dollars eventually must be appropriated, of which the first 100 millions is provided in the pending measure. It was indicated during debate that the balance will be requested next year.

Illinois to Get $3,954,419.

Of this money, Illinois is to receive approximately $3,954,419, placing it fifth among the states and territories. California, New York, Pennsylvania, and Texas will receive more. The largest sum, $6,294,440, will go to Texas.

The states will be required to put up only 25 per cent of the cost of the projects to obtain these federal funds, instead of the customary 50 per cent. This was agreed upon to speed the program.

In the construction of access roads deemed vital to the rearmament program, the federal government will pay all the cost, the bill provides.

LA GUARDIA ASKS THIRD TERM AS NEW YORK MAYOR

New York, July 21 (AP).—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia tonight announced that he will run for a third term as chief city executive, but said his decision was "contrary to my preference."

In a radio address he declared he had been formally requested to become a candidate by many organizations, including the city Fusion party, but that he had not been offered the Republican nomination. It was the Fusion machine founded by Samuel Seabury that swept La Guardia into the city hall in 1933.

The mayor said he will not permit his name to be entered in the Democratic primary, but urged his supporters in that party to work for the success of his ticket.

Democrats already have chosen their candidate — District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Kings county,

3 GUNMEN POSE AS VISITORS; THEN ROB A HOSPITAL

Three gunmen menaced several employés, visitors, and a physician in the Evangelical hospital at 5421 South Morgan street yesterday and escaped with $200.

The gunmen had been sitting in the lobby, posing as visitors. Then one of them stood up and drew a gun. His two pals did likewise. They forced Dr. E. H. Blair, 6155 South Kedzie avenue, a staff physician, and several other men and women to stand aside.

The bandit leader ordered Miss Clara Kulbartz and Miss Rose Anne Klemke, switchboard operators, to move away from the telephone board to prevent them from sounding an alarm. This done, he compelled Miss Hazel Spain, 3240 62d place, the cashier, to turn over the money.

A STAMP LOSS THAT WASN'T UPSETS OFFICE

The apparent disappearance of a little box containing $600 in revenue stamps caused quite a stir yesterday in the offices of the law firm of D'Ancona, Pflaum and Kohlsaat, Room 2200, at 33 North LaSalle street.

Quick police action was wanted. Some one called Mayor Kelly's office; the mayor's office called Commissioner Allman's office, and the commissioner's office called the detective bureau.

Detectives Charles Lindstrom and John McMahon raced to the scene, then called for a fingerprint expert. But before he could arrive, an office employé announced, "Here it is." He had found the little box with revenue stamps intact, in a desk other than the one in which it usually was kept.

Here is proof that July has been a nice month for Chicago so far. BOY DENIED BAIL IN RAPE SLAYING; HUNT SEX FIENDS

Salem, Mass., July 21 (AP).—The rape slayings of two girls brought every facility of the Massachusetts police into action tonight as a high school boy was held without bail in one case and known sex criminals were sought for questioning in the other.

Raymond Woodward. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The victims were Frances M. Cochran, 19 years old, of Lynn, whose battered body was found in a roadside thicket here yesterday, and Constance Shipp, 15, whose mutilated body was found in an unoccupied Baptist parsonage in Reading.

Raymond F. Woodward Jr., also 15, pleaded innocent today when arraigned in the Shipp girl's murder and burst into tears when he was held without bail.

Altho the cases bore considerable similarity, police found no evidence they were connected. Both girls had been raped, probably after brutal beatings had rendered them unconscious.

BOSTON STORE REACHES 30 DAY PACT WITH UNION

Edward R. 95° Forecast Today

Unusually cool summer weather, which Chicagoans have enjoyed all during July to date, is expected to end today when the thermometer will shoot up to 95 degrees, Forecaster A. J. Knarr said yesterday. Abnormally warm weather will prevail in Chicago and the north central states today and tomorrow, with possible showers tomorrow. Today will be partly cloudy.

The rising mercury will end some of the pleasantest summer weather Chicagoans have enjoyed during any July in the last 70 years. In the first 20 days of the month the average temperature was an air conditioned 70 degrees, 2 degrees below the normal average.

On only four days was the daily average temperature above the 72 degree normal, and at no time did the thermometer reach 90 degrees. Highs for the month were 89 degrees on July 1 and 15, and the low was 55 degrees on July 9 and 20.

OPERATING COSTS OF ILLINOIS HOUSE REDUCED IN 1941

Expenses of operating the Illinois house of representatives during the 62d general assembly under Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago] were cut sharply in comparison with other years, according to a statement of accounts released yesterday.

The expenses for the assembly amounted to $67,571, as against $76,935 for the assembly in 1939 and $72,576 in 1937.

Included in the accounting are funds spent for telephone and telegraph services, committee expenses, and per diem employés' expenses.

GIRL SUES CULT FOR MILLION ON CHARGE OF RAPE

Life Ruined When 11, She Asserts; Jury Picked.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21 [Special].—A tall, slender, raven haired girl of 18, who charges that she was raped and her life ruined when she was 11 years of age, went before a jury in Superior court today demanding $1,000,000 damages from a religious cult.

Principal defendant in the action is the Mazdaznan Temple Association of Associates of God.

Miss Irma Weber, the plaintiff, now in the last days of high school, filed the action through her mother, Mrs. Ida Weber, directing it as well against Henry Sorge, 32, a mining man, who is accused in the suit of having betrayed the girl on the night of June 29, 1933, at a camp meeting conducted by the organization at Norco, Cal.

Five Women on Jury.

A jury of seven men and five women was completed. However, attorneys for the defendants objected to the introduction of any testimony on the technical ground that the complaint does not state a legal cause of action. The jury was excused until tomorrow morning, and Judge James D. Garibaldi promised a decision tomorrow.

The complaint states that the Mazdaznan organization was brought into being on Nov. 20, 1917, by Dr. Ottoman Zar-Adusht Ha'nish, who died five years ago.

Among the teachings fostered by the organization was that "young girls, beginning at the age of reason, should have revealed to them the facts and truth of womanhood."

In accordance with these beliefs, Miss Weber's complaint continues, Dr. Ha'nish employed a group of young men who resided with him and closely followed his teachings. Among these youths was Sorge, the complaint adds.

Disrobes to Take Lesson.

On the night of the alleged attack, Miss Weber charges, she was at the Norco camp with her parents when she was advised—as were her parents—that it would be necessary for her to take certain breathing and other physical exercises in private before retiring and immediately upon arising in order to comprehend the teachings about to be revealed to her.

In pursuance of this advice, Miss Weber says, she accompanied Dr. Ha'nish to his private quarters at the camp and there, upon his instructions, removed her clothing and retired. Dr. Ha'nish, the story continues, then proceeded to make amorous gestures and shortly thereafter Sorge appeared in the room and pursued the asserted lesson to a conclusion.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR LEW FIELDS; WEBER ATTENDS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21 (AP).—Relatives and a few close friends attended private funeral services today for Lew Fields, who, with Joe Weber made up the famous comedy team of the theater.

Fields died of pneumonia yesterday at the age of 74. Weber, his partner in more than 60 years of trouping, was at his bedside, as were the widow, Rose Fields, and two daughters, Mrs. Frances Marcus and Mrs. D. Eli Lahm.

The hour of the services was kept secret; the place of interment was withheld.

Fields, like his partner, was born in the bowery, of Polish immigrant parents. Fields was born in January, Weber in August, 1867. By the time they were eight they had worked up a vaudeville act. At nine they were booked for nine shows a day at $3.50 a week.

REV. M. J. HEENEY SERVICES WILL BE HELD FRIDAY

Funeral services for the Rev. Michael Joseph Heeney, pastor of St. Ferdinand's Catholic church, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Friday at the church, 3100 North Mason avenue. The Rev. Gerald Morrissey of St. Barbara's church in Brookfield will celebrate the mass, with Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch in the sanctuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Heeney died of a heart attack Sunday evening. He was 57 years old. He founded St. Ferdinand's parish 14 years ago, and prior to that time was assistant pastor at St. Theodore's church. During the World war he was chaplain at Fort Sheridan. He was educated at St. Ignatius and St. Viator's colleges.

Surviving are his two brothers, Paul and Edward, and two sisters, Elizabeth and Mrs. Agnes Flynn, all of Chicago.

GIRL R. R. AGENT DEFIES BANDIT; HE GOES AWAY

Miss Marie Rich, ticket agent at the Illinois Central station at 78th street and Exchange avenue, refused to be afraid of a bandit and his gun last night, and the result was the bandit didn't get any loot.

As the robber pointed the gun at Miss Rich, she studied it carefully, then said, "That's only a toy gun." Still holding the gun in position the bandit said, "Give me the money or I'll shoot." Miss Rich replied, "I won't."

The robber pocketed his weapon, and fled. Police later complimented Miss Rich for her bravery. The gun might have been real, they said. The same bandit with the same weapon earlier stole a car from a garage at 7215 Exchange avenue, after menacing the attendant.

SUSIE CASPARI, CHICAGOAN FOR 76 YEARS, DEAD

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

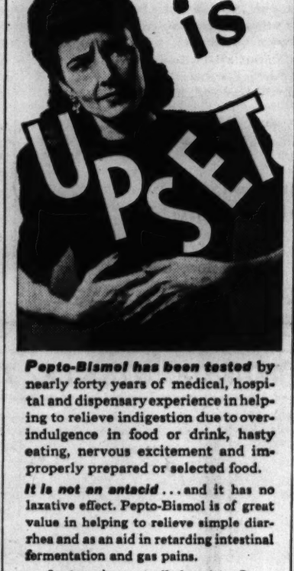
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

When your Stomach is UPSET



Pepto-Bismol has been tested by nearly forty years of medical, hospital and dispensary experience in helping to relieve indigestion due to overindulgence in food or drink, hasty eating, nervous excitement and improperly prepared or selected food.

It is not an antacid . . . and it has no laxative effect. Pepto-Bismol is of great value in helping to relieve simple diarrhea and as an aid in retarding intestinal fermentation and gas pains.

In two sizes—at all druggists. Or by the dose at drug store fountains.

Marion Gordon Being Married in Boston Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANTIC news that is as surprising as it is interesting is contained in the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Frank Malcolm Gordon are making of the marriage in Boston today of their second daughter, Marion, and Harmar Denny Ker, son of Mrs. John Ker of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Lake St. George, N. Y. The ceremony is taking place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Boston College chapel, with only the families present.

Miss Gordon and her father flew east yesterday noon. Mrs. Gordon, Miss Evelyn Gordon, and Mrs. Gordon's sister, Miss Cecile Corboy, took a train for Boston last night.

The ceremony was arranged on a few hours' notice, for Mr. Ker is an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve on active duty in the Atlantic. When he received a few days' leave this week it was decided to have the wedding at once. Mr. Ker and his bride probably will be at home in Newport, R. I., where he has been stationed since receiving his commission at Abbott hall.

Miss Gordon, who made her debut several seasons ago, attended the Girls' Latin school and Pine Manor, and is a member of the Chicago Junior league. Recently she has been active in the Red Cross Motor corps. Mr. Ker prepared at the Deerfield academy for Amherst college. He will rejoin his ship on Friday.

Rummage Shop Committee Is Giving Party Today.

The Bell school on Sheridan road in Lake Forest will be the destination of many who will drive north today to attend a party that the Rummage shop committee is giving. The purpose of the party is twofold; to collect stock for the shop at 27 East Ohio street, and to give entertainment to those loyal friends who keep the shop supplied with "white elephants."

The entertainment will consist of a program by the "Whizz Kids" and some dancing by youngsters who study with Mrs. Emma in Lake Forest. Mrs. Michelson Maher and Mrs. John C. Murphy will be the "boys" in the quiz program and Miss Sarah Hinde, Mrs. Kent Chandler, and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden Jr., the girls. Tea will be served following the program, which will start at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter F. Straub, who with Mr. Straub gave a tea on Saturday to announce Miss Anita Straub's engagement to William Wheeler Darrow, will be hostess today at another tea at her home in Winnetka. This one is for Hans Lange and the Philharmonic String quartet and members of the Lake View Musical society. The society will present the Quartet in a series of concerts next winter at the Goodman theater. Mrs. Harrison H. Havner, Mrs. William A. Wieboldt, Mr. Lange, John Weicher, Robert Quick, Walter Hancock, and Dudley Powers will receive with Mrs. Straub. Mrs. Cora Wellis Ware, Mrs. George N. Oberne and Mrs. Nelson Percy will pour.

Two Parties Being Given for Conductor Carlos Chavez.

There will be two parties this week for Carlos Chavez, who opens as guest conductor tonight at Ravinia Park with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The Ravinia Festival association and the Pan American Council are giving a reception for him from 4 until 5:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon at the Art institute. Mrs. Russell Lord and her daughter, Miss Kathleen Lord, will give a buffet supper for Mr. Chavez and Mr. and Mrs. Yehudi Menuhin on Saturday night at the Onwentsia following the concert.

Mr. Menuhin will be soloist with the orchestra on Thursday and Saturday nights. The Percy B. Eckharts, Mrs. Louis Eckstein, and Mrs. Harold McLain are giving Ravinia parties tonight.

Mrs. Herbert F. Perkins has timed a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Earle F. Bliss in West Newton, Mass., so she could attend the wedding of her nephew, John Breck, on Friday in Brookline. Mr. Breck will be married to Miss Arsene de Rosset at a quiet family ceremony.

Miss Dorothy Gerhard of Winnetka was the bride's only attendant at the marriage on Saturday in Newton Center, Mass., of her cousin, Miss Phyllis Mason Little, to John Andrews Mason. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Rogers Little of Newton Center and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mason of Brookline.

Mrs. George Getz Jr.'s Birthday Is Celebrated.

A jolly luncheon group at the Post and Paddock club at Arlington yesterday was celebrating Mrs. George Getz Jr.'s birthday. One of the guests, Mrs. Charles Elmes, was the moving spirit behind the extra special birthday cake that was the center of attention at dessert time. Horses and jockeys in brilliant colors raced 1941 Slang.

The favorite slang of the young at the moment includes the adding of the syllable "roo" to all possible words: "He was stinkaroo"; "he's a killer-roo"; "she's a louse-aroo." Sometimes, too, any one who has had a cocktail too many is a "basket case." The other day a quiet elderly woman, mother of nine and grandmother of eight, was listening to plans for a reception after an approaching wedding. She heard a recital of how many quarts of Scotch would be needed and how much champagne.

"Dear me," she said quietly. "I hope no one will be basket-aroo."

IOWA SUMMER SONG.

Pale green of barley fields,
Dark green of maple trees,
Clear blue of kindly sky,
Over the farm lands.

Gold yellow clover flowers,
Gray dust of gravel roads,
Sweet song of meadowlark
Speaks to the farm lands.

Smooth curve of rolling hills,
Soft voice of rustling corn,
Warm beat of shining sun,
Summer in the farm lands.

Handwriting.

Handwriting analysis attains new standing with plans of a big mail order house in Chicago to employ that science in its credit department, as a means of ascertaining the honesty of prospective customers. Walther Marseille, student of Freud and European psychologist now living in this country, is doing some preliminary work preparatory to the opening of such a department. Mr. Marseille, an anti-Nazi German, lived in Vienna for some years before he came to America three years ago.

The use of the science of graphology by a big business institution is new, but business executives have been making use of it privately for some years. The head of an internationally famous company visited a New York handwriting expert the other day with samples of his own handwriting and of a man in his own organization with whom he did not get along. He wanted help in finding what forces made them antagonistic, and in establishing a better basis of understanding between them.

Cuffnotes.

Newspapers carried at about the same time a story captioned "Katharine Brush Files Suit for Divorce" and advertisments for her latest book You Go Your Way. . . . Restaurant patron ordering steak, rare: "I want you to put the steak in the broiler, and then change your mind" . . . Speaking of restaurants, a new one to open shortly will not have a cash register, and patrons will hear instead of the bell the clink of silver dropping in the box. Priorities have delayed cash register deliveries.

Period Pieces.

Miss Lucile Heck, secretary to a Chicago hotel executive, is taking a long vacation at her home town, Eagle Lake, Tex., and writes the news to her co-workers:

"Three relatives, all in their seventies, descended on me from Victoria. . . . In the fashion of other days, they disgorged from the back of the car two huge bundles of scraps [for mama's quilt making]; a 15 pound sack of grapes [I had to make jelly, jam and grape juice from the things]; a large bucket of ripe figs, which also had to be preserved before they spoiled; a homemade layer cake; several home town newspapers; a large assortment of roots and cuttings to be transplanted to mama's garden, and last, a set of dominoes and a jug of cistern water to drink."

10 Little Heart Patients Leave for CYO's Camp

Ten little girls, charges of the Chicago Heart association who would not otherwise have a vacation this year, left yesterday for the Catholic Youth organization camp at Doddridge farm, Libertyville, conducted by the Ladies of the Holy Grail. The little patients will be allowed to take part in mild exercise. They will return Aug. 2.

Woes Forgot by Children in Joys of Camp

The glint of the country sun on the bend of the Fox river, the white spray in the wake of speed boats, the pastel flush of phlox, the green arch of the maples, the cheery glow of camp fires, and the faces of new friends are being stored up in preparation for days of darkness ahead in the memories of two youngsters now vacationing at Camp Algonquin.

The beauties of the camp, which is maintained by the United Charities for underprivileged children, delight every child who goes there from the dingy shadows of the tenements. But they have a special meaning for a 9 year old boy and a girl of 6. The boy, who has an intelligence quota close to genius, is losing both his sight and his hearing. His father is in a sanitarium for the chronically ill. The girl would be the most beautiful child at camp were it not for her eyes. One eye is completely filmed over and has no sight. Physicians hold little hope of saving the vision in the remaining eye.

But in the bright light of a wonderful summer, the children have forgotten their afflictions. Sunday, they whooped and hollered with the rest as they flashed down the river in speedboats furnished by the Algonquin Boat club.

Yesterday as they waved goodby to the "old campers" who had completed two weeks' vacation, the two glowed with the knowledge that they may remain for the remainder of the summer. They are members of the Harlowarden section of the camp, where undernourished children stay for the duration of the camp's season.

In the Harlowarden section, record weight gains of more than two pounds in two weeks were made by 18 children, the United Charities reported yesterday. The two children who gained the most were a girl, 10 years old, who gained five and three-quarter pounds and her 9 year old brother who gained five and a quarter. The children come from a family of six children between the ages of 5 and 10 years. Their father is paralyzed as a result of an accident years ago and their mother is under hospital care.

The child with the third highest rating of three and three-quarter pounds is a 12 year old girl, the oldest of eight children. The company the father had worked for, ever since he was a boy, failed last year and he has had only odd jobs since that time.

It is thru the generosity of Tribune readers that these children are having a memorable summer. Donations to the Camp Algonquin fund will be acknowledged daily. They should be sent to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. at Tribune Tower.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—Movie hotshots are going for plenty in a gambling resort on the Nevada-California border. . . . Humphrey Bogart has been appearing at Lakeside for lunch with a beautiful lump on his noggin—but it's a studio makeup job. Somebody crocks him in "The Maltese Falcon." The other day Buck Zuckerman, Ruth Taylor's young son, came for a set visit and admired this bruise very much; so Bogey had the makeup man put a dandy on the lad. It looked like one of those things that should have had nine stitches but didn't get them—and when Buck got home his mammy nearly had fits. . . . John Shelton and Kathryn Grayson start their honeymoon today and are going to Niagara Falls! . . . Laurel and Hardy, reunited and working again in "Great Guns," have made a protegé of Bob Hoffman, U. S. C. all-American. He has a bit in their picture. . . . The house buying urge at 20th-Fox is at fever pitch. Victor Mature and bride are house hunting in the valley. Mary Howard has bought a place in Westwood, Marjorie Weaver has one in West L. A., and Sheila Ryan has located in the valley. . . . There's nothing a stew likes better than to heckle a movie star. Makes him feel important. Henry O'Neill the other night recalled a bar neighbor who kept cracking, "So you think you're a great actor." Henry replied modestly. The stew said, "You just play district attorneys." "Well," said O'Neill, "I played a judge once, as well as I could." "Yeh," scoffed the heckler, "that showed on the screen, too."

Dayton Stoddart's "Lord Broadway," a loving and lively biography of Variety's Sime Silverman, will be published Aug. 12. In it is a yarn to prove that movie people went Hollywood long before there was any Hollywood, and American movies were made in New York. . . . Sime and Johnny O'Connor, out for a time at Coney Island, stopped at an unfamiliar tavern near Sea Gate and found a gang of celebrants ordering 40 gin rickeys apiece—A P I E C E!—from the waiters. Sime and Johnny thought they knew all the tosspots and could do all right themselves, but this crowd was unfamiliar. "That," said an informant, "is the Vitagraph crowd. . . . They're makin' a little money for the first time regular, I guess, and they dunno what to do with it."

Eddie Cline and W. C. Fields are in the process of filming "The Great Man," if you can call it a process. Mr. Fields is indeed a great man, for Universal paid him $125,000 apiece for two pictures last year and that's more than Ginger Rogers was getting at the time. . . . Bill is in his dressing room, where he retired to change a shirt and sip a Martini in a highball glass. It's only 11 a. m., so it's probably only his second or third highball-size Martini. "I thought you used rum and pineapple juice," I venture. "I did, but it was fattening. Sugar in the rum and sugar in the juice," he explains. "I feel better when I'm not so fat."

Bill always sits very straight in a straight back chair. Those pudgy but wonderful juggler's hands are held, usually, straight at his sides, and you think he is being careful of them because maybe they hurt. [They don't, but this pose is probably the aftermath of his long bout, a few years ago, with a combination of arthritis and the willies.] Occasionally, when he is speaking, he brings the hands over his tummy, fingertip to fingertip, and looks absurdly pontifical.

"How," I query, "did this calling you the great man come about?"

The hands come over the tummy, fingertip to fingertip, "Well, I'll tell you. I had a house guest once. And I'm a domineering sort of fellow. One time this house guest gets sore and says, 'So you think you're a great man!' and my housekeeper, who is a very nice lady, pipes up and says, 'You bet he's a great man.' So after that when I wanted anything done I'd use the house phone to say, 'This is the great man speaking.'"

Bill, as usual, has written his own picture. He is a movie star and Franklin Pangborn [Fields' favorite comedian] is a producer, and the cast is peopled with such characters as Ouliotta Delight, Mlle. Gorgeous, and Mrs. Hemoglobin. If it's as funny in the showing as it is in the making it should do all right, for a Fields-Cline stage is no place for deep thought. "Hey, Eddie," shouts an assistant director, "we're ready to shoot." No reply from the missing Cline. "He just walked on the picture," somebody volunteers. "He says he theenks eet steenks." The assistant pays no attention. "Hey, Eddie," he bawls again.

Fields is softening. He's working with some youngsters and he says they're nice people. Butch and Buddy are very nice boys and Gloria Jean is a nice girl. Must be the beginning of a crackup.

The great man and his director battle constantly. "The only thing I'm grateful to you for," he snarled the other day, "is that you drove me to drink." . . . Cline always sets up the action, doubles for Bill, and even rehearses for him in a good imitation of the Fields manner and voice. Then he calls the actor for the shot. "Put down your drink and hurry up," he yelped one time. Bill promptly gulped the whole drink. "I am putting it down," he said. In front of the camera he asked, "What do I say in this scene?" "Nothing," said Cline. "O, I can remember that," said Fields.

Bill's current enthusiasm, by the way, is the Lamar, Mo., Democrat, a bi-weekly country paper to which he subscribes. He thinks it's the funniest stuff being written.

'Soviet Frontiers' Is Propaganda Film for Russian Troops

"SOVIET FRONTIERS."
Produced by Central Ukrainian Studio.
Released thru Artkino.
Directed by I. Kopalin.
Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"SOVIET FRONTIERS" is Red army propaganda. . . . It details activities of the various branches of soviet soldiery in Bessarabia and Bukvina, showing the troops as strong and mighty men, never too busy or too mighty to be kind to little children and tender to old people. . . . Much of the picture is obviously posed, but stretches showing armies, tanks, and parachute hordes in action are impressive and would seem to spell a lot of bad luck to Hitler.

The film is magnificently photographed. . . . Narration is in English.

Also on the World Playhouse program are a couple of Russian "shorts."

Sally Outlines Attractions of Her Next Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

If you boys and girls ever feel abused, just recall the hard time poor little Oliver Twist had! He was shaken and his ears boxed, the beadle poked and beat him with his cane, he was fed on gruel, called a wretch and a villain, and made to sleep under a counter. Those are only a few of his misfortunes. If you want to learn more about him, better see if you can win an invitation to our Jack and Jilly party on July 31.

One hundred boys and girls will have an opportunity to see Marie Agnes Foley's troupe of young actors and actresses present "Oliver Twist," a play in three acts, taken from the story by Charles Dickens.

We'll have room for 50 boys and 50 girls in the studio-theater in which the play will be presented, and I wish to have as my guests boys and girls who are really interested in this kind of entertainment.

Any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation to this party, but you must convince me that you'd really enjoy seeing Mr. and Mrs. Bumble, Nancy and Bill Sikes, the workhouse Oliver lived in or the wicked Fagin's den. Write a letter telling me in your own words why you'd like to attend this performance of "Oliver Twist." Write it all by yourself, and don't forget to tell me your name, address and age—because if you forget any one of these items you can't possibly be a winner.

Thursday morning all the mail will be judged and the winners selected. Be sure your letter reaches me in plenty of time. The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

SYNOPSIS.

When Kathleen Murray, New York secretary, inherits an income and a home on Lake Willow, in California, she resigns her job and goes there to live. She meets Hugo Lang, whose play is being produced in the local summer theater, and soon finds herself falling in love with him. A rich girl, Carol Keyes, is backing the production and insists that she and her current infatuation, Maurice Reed, play the lead rôles in spite of their mediocre ability. Ellen Mount, Hugo's foster mother, and Jeanie Payson, daughter of the Willow lake hotel keeper, have minor rôles. Kathleen brings Toby Allerton from New York—at her expense—to improve the cast. The play, whose theme is murder, holds the audience tensely, but Kathleen has an uncomfortable presentiment when Wilkie Stokes, another member of the colony, discusses the fascinations of killing.

INSTALMENT VIII.

CONFESSION OF LOVE.

It was the second Sunday in July. A fine hot blue Sunday in a golden chain of California days. From where Kathleen and Hugo sat on the mountainside, the lake was a small silver S dropped on a green carpet among a box of spilled toy bricks.

Kathleen was pleasantly tired with the long climb. A beatific content lay like captured sunlight in her heart. Hugo turned his eyes from the green tapestry of the landscape to look at her. She turned to him. He reached over and took her hand.

"Sunburn suits you Kit-Kat. Did I ever tell you you're lovely?"

"About 500 times. But I'm not tired of it. Hasn't this week been wonderful?"

"Thanks to you. Toby is a FIND—with capital letters. I didn't believe such a boy could be undiscovered—that's why I didn't believe he was possible."

"But you said you believed me."

"I did. But not to that extent. He's phenomenal. Some scout will come and take him away from us. He's a natural for Hollywood."

"O, Hugo, that does make me happy."

Hugo took his hand away to light his pipe. "But it will end the play. We couldn't replace him."

Kathleen drew up her knees in their blue linen slacks and linked her arms round them.

"If any scouts come they will want the play, too. You'll be made, Hugo. It's a masterpiece."

Hugo puffed calmly unmoved by her enthusiasm.

"That isn't why they take plays. And it isn't, anyhow. It might have been near one if Carol hadn't insisted on being the boy's stepmother instead of his mother. It removes the most important conflict. Now Jeanie could have done it just as well—or better. And she's a trouper. She'd wear a gray wig if I asked her to—or even whiskers."

Kathleen played with a handful of pine needles.

"I'm glad Carol didn't put her out after all. But Jeanie was a sport. She accepted a lot of humiliation."

"Jeanie's a grand little girl. She'll go places. She'll be starring on Broadway or on the screen when Carol's just a well heeled has-been. I'm fond of her."

Kathleen's face lit with mischief.

"I'm jealous."

Hugo put his pipe down on a flat stone. He moved over to Kathleen's tree and put his arm round her.

"Now that's crazy, darling. There's no girl but you. There never has been. The first time I saw you I thought that's the girl I'm going to marry. I love you and adore you, but I'm no good at love making. I write about it too much. Every time I begin to tell you what I feel, I think—no, that's just a speech."

"I don't think you're so bad at it, Hugo."

"Thank you, Kitten."

His smile teased her. She turned in the circle of his arm.

"No, but really——"

He shook his head.

"Words have no value any more, Kitty. There are too many of them. Cataracts pouring from motion picture screens. I love you. I love you. So easy to say." He bent down and kissed her mouth and they clung together warmed by the pouring sunlight. "There! Feelings are real. You can't counterfeit them."

He took her hand and linked his fingers thru hers. They sat a while silent, aware of the shrill chorus of crickets in the golden tranquility.

"Real lovers don't need to talk of it, Kitty. They are closer than close. They live in each other. They are cut in two without each other. Halves of a whole, they wonder how they lived before they met and realized they were one."

"That's how I feel," she said, pierced by a sharp ecstasy.

He lifted her fingers to his lips and held them there.

"God, how I hope I sell this play. Then we can get married."

"We don't have to wait for that, Hugo."

"Kitty, I thought you understood me. I want a real marriage based on some equality. Not a rich heiress weds a young professor. A man has pride. He wants to give as much as he takes."

Kitty's brow wrinkled. They had been over this ground a dozen times before.

"Hugo, I thought you were so intelligent."

"That's the trouble. I know there's no logic on earth that soothes the hurt of a wounded ego. And I know there's no way of avoiding that wound. You see nature lags behind modern conditions of living. There's a time gap between instinctive human feelings and modern reasonings. The gap is a couple of thousand years."

"Then I can't reason with you."

"No. Maurice Reed thinks he will be happy when he's got Carol because he's so mad about her, his emotion consumes every other consideration. But he won't be. No man ever is with a woman who is rich when he isn't, or more successful. Maurice is a natural born parasite, but at least 10 per cent of him is male. How that 10 per cent is going to ache."

Kathleen pondered this. "Maybe he won't land her. Carol is smarter than you think."

"She's temporarily insane herself. His dressing room has reeked of $20 an ounce perfume every day this week. It wasn't the cleaner who left her signature on the air."

"Why don't you warn Carol?"

Hugo shouted with laughter and the sound echoed back to them.

"That would just make her do it. She always wants to do what people tell her not to. My mother has been advising her to watch her step. It's only made her more keen on him."

"Your mother despises him, doesn't she?

"On the contrary, she's sorry for him. She knows him and sees what lies ahead in such a harebrained marriage. She has no illusions about their ability to defeat the pattern of life."

"Life!" sighed Kathleen.

Hugo rose with a lithe movement and held out his hand to pull her up. He put his pipe in his pocket. "Life's all right if you come to terms with it. Play your own cards and don't hanker for those of others. Think you can get up there? We can hang on to the scrub. I want to see what's over the top."

It took two hours of resting, climbing, and scrambling to reach the summit. From there they looked down over brown earth and scrub into a deep canyon, scarred with the water courses of torrential rains, ribbed midway down with a rough narrow road, the scrub giving way to elder and mountain ash below the road, the floor of it buried in a river of foliage, dense and green. Cicadas raised a deafening chorus in the shimmering heat of it.

"How aloof and lonely," said Kathleen with a pleasant shiver. "How lost and mysterious."

They began to scramble down to the rutted road. It was not a highway to anywhere. It was too rough to attract motor traffic. The warm breeze stirred in the trees below with a rustle like surf. Kathleen pointed to a corner of tarred roof thrusting thru the foliage.

"Look, it's a house of some kind. What an inaccessible place to live in. Come on, let's investigate."

"What a child! All right, but I'm hungry. Let's go down under those trees and eat first."

They found a spot where their heads were shaded and the hot sunlight fell across their knees. Hugo swung the rucksack from his back and took out fruit and sandwiches. Kathleen ate slowly, savoring the delight of the fragrant forest, the sun slanting thru the trunks, the joy of Hugo's gay companionship.

Hugo relit his pipe after they had eaten. Kathleen reminded him of the house. He was content and disinclined to stir.

"It'll be some forester's shack. Maybe a fire scout. Smoking's forbidden up here. You'll spoil my smoke and his Sunday afternoon nap."

Universal day—A very constructive day for those who are wise and strong, but destructive for the weak and foolish.

August—Those who are in a two year this year [as indicated by your personal chart] will find the month of August the best time to make an important start on a job they have been planning to do. Get busy as soon as the month gets under way because it is important that you come to a decision now. If you have been hesitating and putting off taking action, the month of August is the time to get going. Take advantage of the lift that you should feel in the coming month and stand on your own decisions this time. You may have had to coöperate and adapt yourself to others during the year, but now you can come out more independently for what you want to do. Make plans for what you expect to accomplish next year—some personal ambition which you hope to achieve.

Bavarian cream pudding with fresh fruit is one of the better summertime desserts. Cool, fluffy, fruity, such a dessert pleases everybody in the family, from grandpa on down.

Try fresh, sweetened, diced peaches, sweetened plum pulp, or any kind of crushed colorful fresh berries over the pudding made this way.

Bavarian Cream
[Serves Six]

2 egg yolks
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup whipping cream
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg yolks with sugar and salt, and add milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture has a custard consistency. Remove from heat, add gelatin softened for 5 minutes in the ¼ cup of cold water, and stir until dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to congeal, beat until fluffy with rotary beater, and fold in whipped cream and vanilla. Pour into individual molds or into sherbet glasses and chill until firm.

If you haven't another use for your 2 egg whites, whip them until stiff with a sprinkle of salt, and fold into the pudding with the whipped cream and vanilla. This makes more servings.

When you aren't serving a fresh fruit sauce over the dessert, you may like to add chopped nuts or cocoanut to the recipe. Or use shaved maple sugar instead of white sugar in the cream for a delicious maple bavarian. Brown sugar and maple flavoring gives almost the same results.

Orange Bavarian
[Serves Six]

2 eggs, separated
1 cup scalded milk
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
½ cup orange juice
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind ½ orange
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup cream, whipped

Beat egg yolks and mix with sugar. Add to scalded milk and cook in the top of a double boiler until custard will coat a clean spoon dipped into it. Remove from heat. Soften gelatin in the orange juice and dissolve in hot custard, blending well. Cool and add lemon juice, grated orange rind and salt. Chill until mixture starts to congeal. Fold in whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pile in glasses and chill. Serve with fresh fruit or whipped cream.

Four Chicago Girls Illini Prom Queen Candidates

Urbana, Ill., July 21 [Special].—Four Chicago girls are among the nine candidates for queen of the summer prom at the University of Illinois which will be held Friday night in the Illini Union ballroom. They are Marge Blakeslee, 10620 south Seeley avenue, a member of Alpha Chi Omega; Betty L. Landis, 8214 Chappell avenue, Kappa Alpha Theta; Ruth Schlake, 4455 North Sacramento avenue, an independent, and Martha Jane Stropes, 5349 Wilson avenue, an independent.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

We believe it's pretty silly for a girl to go on her outings so burdened with beauty paraphernalia that she staggers as she walks, but we do feel that it's the better part of good-looks wisdom to arm oneself with some essential protectives against the ravages of sun. We'd like to put in a special bid for a protective for hair. There's a lot of emphasis on the harm too much sun does skin, but not nearly enough on its destruction of the beauty of hair.

One thing we wouldn't be without is a light, fragrant lotion designed to protect hair against fading or drying in the sun. It's faintly oily and should be applied with cotton or an atomizer. It forms a perfect protective sheath for every type of hair. We find that the best method is to apply it with an atomizer and to use it sparingly. A few filmy sprays on the crown of the head and the very hair ends are all you need. Your hair won't look or feel oily, but it will be sheathed against the burning rays.

If you apply it with cotton be careful not to use too much; if you haven't an atomizer apply it lightly and sparingly the entire length of the hair. With this light, sun-proof dressing on it your hair will be beautifully groomed, will stay in place better and, best of all, will be shielded from the sun's damage. Using it is a simple precaution that will reward you well next winter.

Two Sports Frock Patterns

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPORTS FROCKS.

The sports frock at the left, designed for miss' sizes, is frankly ingénue in type. With its girlish and sweet 16 lines, you should wear a ribbon bow in your piled up hair. There's no trimming on this tight waisted, bra-topped, full skirted model, which is beautiful in spanking white piqué or sharkskin.

More traditional in manner is the shirtwaist frock at the right, which makes up handsomely in stripes, as illustrated. The round neckline is collarless, but there's interesting shoulder treatment, which is repeated at the hipline.

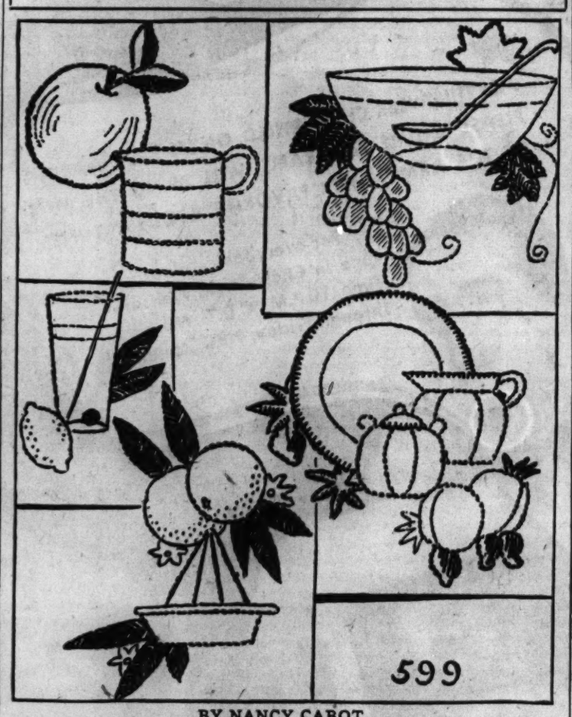
Style No. 3257 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

Style No. 3030 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Fruit Motifs for Towels



BY NANCY CABOT.

For quick or overnight needlework try making these good looking glass towels. They are embroidered in outline and represent all the cool beverage comforts of summer. These designs require little time to execute, since they are worked in a simple outline stitch. Both by-the-yard and ready-made towels are improved in appearance by means of dainty handwork.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the fruit motifs, No. 599, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Rotary Club Address.

Dale Hornung, science commentator of the General Motors corporation's applied research laboratories, will describe spectacular advances in science to members of the Rotary Club of Chicago today at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. His demonstration will include explanations of the evolution of light and stroboscopic frozen motion.

Luncheon for Cartoonists.

John T. McCutcheon, Paul Plaschke, and Walter Krawiec will be the special guests at the regular Friday luncheon at the Cliff Dwellers this week. Mr. McCutcheon will talk briefly. An exhibit of cartoon originals by these three cartoonists will open at the club on Thursday. Friday night there will be an informal dance at the club.

Cash a Child Earns Should Be His Own

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I am in need of advice regarding my 14 year old girl, Anne. I gave her a small allowance while she was in grammar school, but now she needs more. She has 95 cents per week now, consisting of 25 cents from me, 20 cents from her father, and 50 cents which she earns helping an older friend clean house on Saturday mornings.

"Do you think I should take the 50 cents from her which she earns every Saturday, and then give her from my purse the 95 cents, or do you think I am wrong in giving her 25 cents and her father giving her the 20 cents, and permitting her to keep the 50 cents? My mother, who is very good to Anne, thinks that I am not training her right. She thinks that Anne should give her earnings to me, and then I should give her, in a lump sum, the 95 cents. She says, in that way, I will train her to turn in all her money. She will just take it as a matter of course. However, I can't see that I am wrong in permitting her to keep it [just take it and put it in her own purse], for I think it gives her an incentive to do that work, and it is her own."

I agree with Anne's mother. Also, the child uses good judgment in spending her money. Later, when she is in a profession or business and has the handling of a regular salary, she will probably use as good sense then as now. Also, with a mother who is so fair, she undoubtedly will want to pay into the family budget whatever is right, or if finances are in poor shape, more than she normally would.

Mrs. Joan K. Biddle Is Married Here to New York Broker

Mrs. Joan Kaufman Biddle, 32 years old, socially prominent in Philadelphia and New York, and William F. Ladd Jr., New York stock broker, were married at noon yesterday in the Blackstone hotel, four days after the bride had received her second divorce from Frank F. Polk, cowboy wood carver.

The marriage, fifth for the bride, was performed by Judge Henry J. Pendl in the suite of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman, of New York, Palm Beach, and Marquette, Mich. She is a granddaughter of Otto Young, pioneer Chicago merchant.

The new Mrs. Ladd has three children by her first marriage to George Drexel Biddle, Philadelphia society leader. She next married Joseph M. Wintersteen, another Philadelphian. Last Jan. 31, the day she divorced Wintersteen, she was married to Polk in Reno, Nev. She divorced him April 11 on grounds of cruelty, but when she boarded a plane with the announced intention of returning to society life, Polk got on, too. They stepped off the plane at Elko, Nev., and were remarried the next day. The second divorce was also granted on grounds of cruelty in Carson City, Nev.

Mr. Ladd's best man was Volney Foster. The bride was unattended. Among the guests were the bride's brother, Young Kaufman, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Kilian van Rensselaer of New York, old family friends. Mr. Ladd and his bride left by plane last night for New York, where they will reside.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Root, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Root of Oak Park, to Lieut. Roy Iverson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Iverson of River Forest, will take place this evening in the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park. After a short wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., Lieut. Iverson and his bride will reside in Alexandria, La. He is stationed at Camp Livingston. Both Miss Root and her fiancé attended the University of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sachs of Staunton, Va., announce the marriage on Sunday in Washington, D. C., of their daughter, Dorothy Jean, to S. Albert Stern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Stern of Glencoe. The bride is a graduate of Stuart hall and of Goucher college. Mr. Stern, a graduate of the University of Michigan and of the University of Chicago law school, and his bride will make their home in Denver.

Announcement is made of the marriage on July 19 in New York of Miss Mary Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Brooks of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Kansas City, to Henry Mead Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jackson of Sausalito, Cal.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

One mark of an expert is the manner in which he creates or conserves, as the case may be, entries in both his own hand and dummy. The hand shown below, taken from a recent duplicate game, proved a Waterloo to six of the eight declarers.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's bidding was bad. He should have started with one spade in order to avoid the necessity for "reversing." The manner in which he actually bid, advertised a hand much stronger than he held. The logical method was to start with one spade so that the heart suit could be comfortably shown later.

West opened his fourth best club; dummy's jack was played and held. A low heart then was led and the fall of East's nine under declarer's queen was carefully noted at two tables, but probably disregarded at the others, because the respective plays of the successful and the unsuccessful declarers split sharply at this point. With the single purpose of establishing the heart suit quickly and without undue loss, six declarers, having won with the heart queen, led a low heart toward dummy and finessed the ten spot. They were successful in driving out the ace but notably unsuccessful in fulfilling their contract. East returned a club and after that it was a simple matter for the defenders to lock the play in the dummy. Declarer could not win a single diamond trick.

The two successful declarers kept an eye on their entries. Having won with the heart queen, they counted that even if the heart suit could be brought home with only one loser, they still would need a diamond for the ninth trick. The heart nine having dropped from East, they saw that there would be no advantage in leading a heart toward dummy, that if East had had the A-9 blank it would be just as easy to lead a low heart from dummy, whereas if he had had the A-J-9, either play would be equally disadvantageous. Therefore, they conserved the entry they had gained in the heart queen, and led a diamond toward the blank queen. After that there was no stopping them, whether West hopped up or not, since the favorable position of the A-9 of hearts in East's hand actually existed, and since the club ace was retained in the South hand for entry.

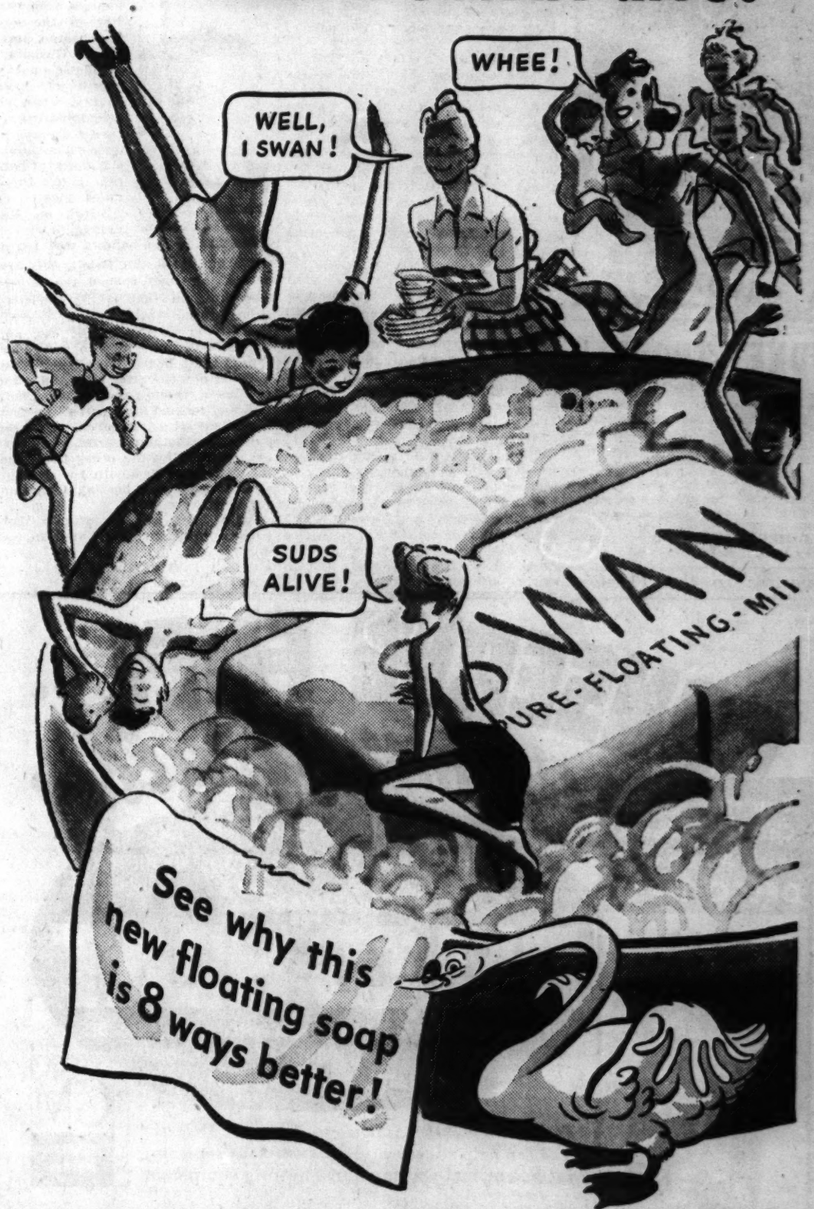
Take a SWAN dive!



1. Hard water? Swan suds twice as fast anyway! Swan suds two times quicker than old-type floating soaps, even in hard water! Isn't that swell?

2. Loads more lather; richer, creamier, too. Yes, and Swan lather lasts much longer!

3. Whiter! Milder than May! As pure as imported "100% olive oil" castiles.

4. Much firmer! Lasts and lasts! Feel! Swan's much harder than old-style floating soaps. Has less moisture. Doesn't warp, either.

5. Breaks smoothly into 2 lovely cakes. None of your jagged, crumbly edges with Swan.

6. Sniff! Smells fresh as all outdoors. Take a whiff! Swan smells fresher, cleaner!

7. Smoother! Finer-textured! Swan looks richer, feels finer.

8. More real soap for your money! Swan has far less moisture than old-style floating soaps. No need to store it to dry. We harden it.

Swan here, Swan there, Swan everywhere! Swan the baby, Swan the dishes, Swan your silks, Swan yourself. If you don't say "Swan is swell!"—mail us the wrapper and we'll send you double your money back! Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

TALMADGE HURLS NEWS LID THREAT AT TWO PAPERS

Warns Critics to 'Correct Their Attitude.'

Atlanta, Ga., July 21 [Special].—Gov. Eugene Talmadge threatened today to shut off state capitol news sources to two Atlanta newspapers unless they "correct their attitude" toward the recent ouster of two Georgia educators on charges of advocating racial equality. At the same time Talmadge declared Georgia "doesn't want a nickel from any of them philanthropic organizations which advocate racial coeducation."

Gov. Talmadge.

The governor's threat was made against the Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Constitution. He charged they had printed "front page editorials" and "misrepresentated the facts" in their stories of the educators' dismissals.

The two papers had criticized the action last week of Talmadge's handpicked board of regents when it ousted Dean Walter D. Cocking of the University of Georgia School of Education and President Marvin S. Pittman of the Georgia Teachers' college. The governor had reshuffled the board after it voted at a previous hearing to rehire Cocking. Both Cocking and Pittman had denied the racial equality charges.

Charges Injustice to State.

"If the Journal and the Constitution don't correct their attitude," Talmadge said, "I'm not going to give them any more news because they are wrong and they are doing the state of Georgia an injustice. They have gone beyond the pale of decency."

Gov. Talmadge's attack on "philanthropic organizations" followed the General Education board's severance of financial relations with the University of Georgia as a result of the Cocking and Pittman dismissals. The Rockefeller endowed General Education board promotes educational programs, particularly in the south.

"The University of Georgia makes enough out of fees to support itself," said Talmadge in commenting on the board's action.

Accusations Called False.

Meanwhile, Marion Smith, who stepped out as chairman of the board of regents in Talmadge's recent shakeup, branded as false statements that "certain foundations" [General Education board, Julius Rosenwald fund, Carnegie foundation, American Church institute] are seeking to bring about racial equality in Georgia.

Speaking at a Rotary club luncheon here, Smith also charged that the independence of the board of regents had been destroyed by Talmadge. By removing Cocking and Pittman, Smith declared, the governor has imperiled the university system "just as Huey Long caused Louisiana State university to lose its accredited standing."

Adopts Children

Mrs. Eleanor Brown Wilkerson.

Richard Brown of 2512 Cullom avenue surrendered the custody of his two sons yesterday to their stepfather after paying up $600 he owed for their support under an order of $10 a week entered Nov. 8, 1939, when his wife, Eleanor, 31 years old, now Mrs. Harold W. Wilkerson, divorced him.

Mrs. Wilkerson and her husband, who live at 3416 North Keeler avenue, appeared with Attorney Norman Becker before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who approved Wilkerson's adoption of the children, Richard Brown Jr., 12, and Ralph, 6.

Brown paid the support deficiency in the court of Judge John J. Lupe, who vacated the order requiring him to pay $10 a week for the children.

3 BANDITS BEAT DEPUTY SHERIFF; HUNTED IN CITY

Police in Chicago and vicinity last night were searching for three bandits who earlier in the day had beaten Stanley M. Christian, second deputy sheriff of Lake county, when he attempted to capture them in Soper's filling station at Channel lake, three miles west of Antioch on Illinois highway 173.

Stanley M. Christian.

Search for the bandits was begun when authorities in Beloit, Wis., reported they had robbed the Morris Hills club in that city. Christian identified the automobile in the filling station as the bandit car, and ordered the three men to surrender. One of the robbers seized Hugh Shea, 60 years old, the attendant, and using him as a shield, approached Christian and tackled him football fashion. Christian struck him on the head with his shotgun barrel, but was overpowered by the other two bandits. All three fled with the shotgun after kicking and beating Christian. No shots were fired.

At St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan, physicians said Christian was not seriously hurt. He is 42 years old, and lives at 1504 Cornelia avenue, Waukegan.

GOV. GREEN KILLS BILL FOR SCHOOL TAX RATE BOOSTS

Springfield, Ill., July 21 (AP).—Gov. Dwight Green vetoed today a bill designed to permit an increase of 75 per cent in the educational tax rate of approximately 50 downstate cities in which a single school district operates both elementary and high schools.

Green said he disapproved of the measure because it failed to provide for a referendum on the tax increase. The bill was sponsored in the recent session of the general assembly by the Illinois Education association, a teachers' organization.

Also vetoed by the governor were three bills which would have set up revised procedure for admitting patients to the state hospitals for insane. A fifth executive veto killed a bill under which townships could have issued bonds to pay off relief indebtedness.

The five vetoes brought to 38 the number of bills which Gov. Green has relegated to the discard during and since the legislature's session.

TWO SOUTHERN STATES PUT OFFICIAL BUSINESS ON DAYLIGHT SAVINGS

Atlanta, Ga., July 21 (AP).—Alabama and Tennessee official clocks were moved forward an hour today to bring the two states under central daylight saving time by proclamation of their governors.

Mississippi clocks will be advanced an hour July 31 and those in North and South Carolina will be moved up Aug. 1 to bring those states under daylight saving time, as President Roosevelt requested.

The proclamations officially affect only state offices, leaving compliance by citizens on a voluntary basis. Governors of Georgia, Florida, and Louisiana declined to proclaim daylight savings time. Virginia has taken no action on Roosevelt's request for eight states to go on daylight saving immediately because of power shortages.

ARMAMENT DRIVE UPSETS PLANS OF CHICAGO SUBWAY

Subway designers have changed completely their ideas for trimming and decorating Chicago's subway stations in an attempt to overcome shortages of materials and rising costs resulting from the armament program, Charles E. De Leuw, chief subway engineer, disclosed yesterday.

De Leuw said the subway department is rejecting bids taken recently which called for trimming and equipping the stations with large quantities of aluminum, stainless steel, white bronze, and other "armament" metals, because the prices quoted were much too high.

In the new bids to be taken Aug. 7, marble columns in the stations are called for instead of the stainless steel previously specified. Painted steel will now be used in station railings because it is more plentiful than stainless steel. Bases for the railings at the tops of the stairways on the public sidewalks will be made of black granite instead of cast iron.

Sporty aluminum edging which had been planned for the walls inside the stations will give way to painted concrete. The fashionable white bronze planned for door knobs and hand rails will be replaced with painted steel.

DROWNS NEAR BELMONT HARBOR.

An unidentified, gray haired man about 60 years old was drowned in the lake just off the south entrance of Belmont harbor last night. His body was recovered by Park Policeman Jack Musick. Efforts of inhalator squad 1 to revive him were unsuccessful. The victim wore brown checked slacks, a black coat, and a sailor straw hat.

WHEREIN SIMPLE PASS WINS, 6-0, FOR ALL-STARS

Baugh-Tinsley Play Beats Packers.

[This is the sixth of a series of articles by professional and college coaches on spectacular scoring plays in Chicago All-Star games.]

BY CHARLES (GUS) DORAIS.
[Head football coach, University of Detroit.]

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—Forward passes have always played an important part in my playing and coaching career. The trail begins on the plains above West Point in 1913 when Notre Dame played the Army. It leads to Soldiers' field in Chicago, where the College All-Americans played the Green Bay Packers four years ago, and an accurately tossed pass climaxed one of the grandest experiences in my long association with football.

I have watched many brilliant forward passers from the bench and the stands. However, I was head coach of the 1937 College All-Americans who possessed one of the greatest in the history of the game—Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian university. Slingin' Sam still is pitching 'em for the Washington Redskins in the National Football league, but his well aimed shot that night never will be forgotten. It brought the All-Stars a 6 to 0 victory, the first recorded in the series against the professional champions.

It Was a Simple Play.

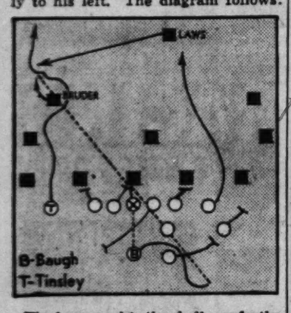
Rule changes thru the years have inspired considerable deception in the use of passes since the days Notre Dame dazzled the Cadets at West Point. But the pass which stunned the Packers in Soldiers' field was a simple play. However, it required a talented thrower and a catcher. Baugh did his part magnificently. Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's great end, was there at the precise moment to complete the successful combination.

There undoubtedly will be many outstanding pass plays when the Chicago Bears, this season's National league champions, meet the College All-Americans in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 28. The tremendous power of a Bear team which won the league championship with a 73 to 0 victory over the Washington Redskins is certain to bring many anxious moments to the All-Stars this summer.

Take It on Own 48.

There won't be much difficulty recalling the Baugh-Tinsley pass play in the 1937 game. It was midway in the first period. Green Bay's Clarke Hinkle punted, the ball sailing out of bounds on the All-Stars' 48 yard line. Johnny Drake of Purdue gained two yards thru tackle and Sam Francis of Nebraska added three thru the same spot.

Then came the touchdown. Tinsley took his place at left end. The ball was snapped to Baugh, who faded back to the right and rifled it to Tinsley 22 yards away. Tinsley had gone down field and then cut sharply to his left. The diagram follows:



Tinsley caught the ball perfectly, but now it was his job to elude the secondary. First he got away from Green Bay's Hank Bruder by the fraction of a step. There still was Joe Laws, Green Bay's safety man, protecting the goal line. Laws came across at an angle and at the 9 yard line left his feet in a diving tackle. He hit Tinsley and staggered him by the momentum of his drive, but couldn't knock him down.

GEN. LEE GUARDS 6TH PLACE FROM BRAVES TODAY

Cubs Open Long Stand in Wrigley Field.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Somewhat bruised as the result of playing in other people's ball parks, the Cubs will reopen their own establishment this afternoon and keep it open for the next two weeks regardless of what happens.

First of various visitors due to appear in Wrigley field during this stretch will be Boston's Braves, who are only seventh placers but nevertheless important so far as James Wilson's intermittent hitters are concerned. The Braves are the fellows who for the last several weeks have been bidding for the Cubs' sixth place lease, but despite the reverses suffered on the eastern trip [four victories against nine defeats] the Chicagoans haven't shown any intentions of surrendering to the clamor from the floor below.

Lee Seeks Seventh Victory.

It will be Bill Lee's job today to fashion at least a 24 hour "quiet, please" order on the disturbers and if he succeeds it will be his seventh success of the season. If he fails it will mean his 13th defeat. This isn't much of a record, but not all of it can be attributed to bad pitching by the ace of a few years ago. More than a few of Lee's losses can be charged to the team's inability to score runs. Lee will be opposed by Bill Posedel.

Wilson, who was a little too enthusiastic last spring, now has seen enough of his outfit to realize the road ahead is filled with bumps. He has certain men ticketed for dismissal, but can't act hastily for the simple reason that worth while replacements can't be picked off haberdashery shelves or any other place. The club cried down the farm system until recently. But you don't get production immediately. Maybe the Cubs can buy a few supposedly finished articles from other major clubs with large stocks, but even this is becoming tougher every year.

A Unique Scouting System.

Wilson has quietly assembled what he calls "bird dogs." These are fellows who, as a sideline, prowl around wherever kids play baseball. Wilson has them scattered all over the country. If they spot a kid they think has possibilities they write in and a regular scout is dispatched for a look. If the prospect is signed and makes good in a minor league the tipster gets $250. He receives a similar amount if the lad reaches the majors. This, too, is a slow process, but many an outstanding ball player has been scared up by a "bird dog," of which most all the big league clubs have a few.

Phil Cavarretta, who turned up Sunday with a case of mumps, was hospitalized yesterday upon arrival and may be absent for a week. With Hank Leiber's immediate future doubtful because of the beaning experienced three weeks ago and Charley Gilbert, ex-Dodger, busy conditioning himself after two months of idleness because of complications in his left foot, Wilson is without a spare fly chaser.

The Cub management announced last night that women fans bringing aluminumware would be admitted to today's game on the payment only of the tax. The material collected will be turned over to the government for defense purposes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

DICK BUTZOW, who answers questions at one of the information windows at Arlington Park, claims the championship. . . . A longshot had just won when a couple rushed up to his window and asked for the name and address of the nearest justice of the peace. . . . Howard Pollett, Houston southpaw on whom the Cardinals have a $40,000 price tag, polled the greatest number of votes for the Texas league all-star game. . . . The size of the field in the Western Amateur golf tournament—56 players—is evidence of the effect the draft and armament program are having on sports. . . . . Last year 120 competed. . . . If Mike Jacobs brings the Louis-Nova bout to Chicago, there is a possibility he may pick Soldiers' field as the site so that he can make use of the temporary ringside section which Chicago's CYO will construct for its international match with Hawaii, Sept. 17. . . . Coach Wallace Wade expects to employ 10 seniors and one junior as his starting lineup at Duke this fall. . . . Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, and Babe Ruth, three of the greatest outfielders of all time, will be guest stars at the Cleveland sandlotter's 31st annual amateur day next Sunday. . . . A scribe at the All-Star game in Detroit took one look at the Cubs' traveling uniforms and dictated to his telegraph operator: "The Bloomer Girls are now on the field." . . . Dale Hanson, 1940 national collegiate 128 pound wrestling champion from Minnesota, is now in the army air corps. . . .

Ted Williams of the Red Sox, whose homer into the right field stands gave the American leaguers their sixth victory in nine All-Star games against the Nationals, took only one course in batting and it consisted of five words—"don't ever change your stance." . . . It was the advice of Lefty O'Doul, himself a pretty fair hand with a bat. . . . Billy Conn's next opponent will be Jack Roper, but only in a Hollywood flicker. . . . Joe Sprinz, formerly with the Indians, now with the San Francisco Seals, is the only catcher in organized baseball who does not wear spiked shoes. . . . He prefers soccer boots with leather cleats. . . . Bill Terry's nine year tenure with the Giants is the longest of any National league manager now active. . . . Ed Head, ace of the Montreal Royals' pitching staff, became a right hander by accident. . . . He was a southpaw until his left arm was injured in an automobile crash. . . . Preparations for the All-Star football game have put 10 strokes on George Halas' golf game. . . . He hasn't been able to play regularly.

Weary Luke Appling yelped because he wasn't given a hit on the drive which slipped thru Lou Finney's fingers to give the White Sox a 4 to 3 victory over Boston last Friday. . . ." If Joe DiMaggio had hit it, it would have been scored a hit," moaned the south side shortstop, who apparently has recovered from the knee injury that kept him out of the All-Star game. . . . Bill Knickerbocker scored the winning run from first on the play, and if it had been a hit, as Appling believed, he would have had a triple, if he had run to third. . . . But Weary Luke, apparently exhausted, stopped running when he saw Knickerbocker cross the plate.

LIVELY LADY WINS YACHT RACE TO MACKINAC ISLAND

Breeze Takes Honors in Cruising Division.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 21 [Special].—Lively Lady, Otto Dreher's Q class racing sloop, flying the South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club burgee, today won the historic Mackinac cup with a margin of 15 minutes 20 seconds over Warrior, Commodore Victor Milliken's flagship of the Chicago Yacht club. Lively Lady thus repeated her victory of 1940 in the universal division. The sloop in 1940 won the Chicago-Mackinac cup, which this year will be awarded in the cruising division.

The race committee placed Scimitar, 50 foot sloop, also of the Chicago Yacht club, owned by Fred L. Spencer and William S. Faurot, third; Quest, sloop representing the Spring Lake [Mich.] Yacht club, fourth, and Revenge, 59 foot cutter from the Chicago Yacht club, owned and sailed by Blair Walliser and Ken Griffin, fifth.

Lively Lady Third to Finish.

Lively Lady was the third yacht to finish, crossing the line at 3:55:15 p. m. Its official elapsed time was 50 hours 55 minutes 15 seconds. This was corrected to 45:35:28. Warrior, second to cross the line, had an elapsed time of 50:38:47, which was corrected to 45:50:48.

Scimitar finished with an elapsed time of 50:25:51, corrected to 46:12:07. Quest, which was sailed by Howard F. Baxter, managing owner, and crew, had an elapsed time of 52:39:15. This became 47:19:28 when corrected.

Revenge, altho placing only fifth in the official rating, was first to reach Mackinac Island today. The 58 foot cutter arrived at 1:32:42 this afternoon, duplicating its performance of last year, when it led the fleet to the finish.

Breeze Wins in Cruising Class.

At midnight the 40 foot ketch Breeze of the Columbia Yacht club was declared winner in the cruising division when no smaller craft had finished.

Skipper Sumner W. D. Scott sent Breeze across the finish line at 6:58:23 p. m., Chicago time, after sailing it without a competitor from Wind Point, Wis., between Racine and Milwaukee. Members of the Breeze's crew did not see one of the 48 competing yachts after passing Wind Point Saturday night until it finished this evening with Royono and Manitou.

Breeze's official elapsed time was 52:58:23. It had a corrected time of 43:30:57. Breeze was runner-up in the cruising division in 1938. Carl Norberg, owner of the sloop Victory, was navigator of the Breeze.

Defeats A and B Entries.

Breeze defeated all A and B class entries, every one a larger yacht, as well as the C class craft in its own group. Only D class boats could have taken the honors from Breeze on corrected time, but their handicap time limit was up at midnight.

Walter Kolberg of the Racine Yacht club reported that the Gloriant's rudder had broken and that it had put into Waukegan.

Order at finish follows:

The Boston Braves yesterday obtained Outfielder Frank Demaree on waivers from the New York Giants. Demaree is to join the Braves in Wrigley field today.

ATTENTION JOINS SATURDAY FIELD AT ARLINGTON

Blue Pair Will Get Test Tomorrow.

Field for Classic

THE field for Saturday's Classic stakes includes five possible starters, one of which, Blue Pair, is considered doubtful. The list follows:

Horse.	Owner.	Jockey.	Probable odds.
Whirlaway	W. Wright	Woolf	2-5
Our Boots	R. Martin	McCreary	8-1
Bushwhacker	R. McIlvaine	Craig	15-1
Attention	Mrs. Corning	Bierman	10-1
Blue Pair	Mrs. Bragg	James	15-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The field for next Saturday's Classic stakes was increased to five possible starters yesterday when Arlington Park officials received word from the east that Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention will be shipped in from Empire City. Attention's excellent performance in beating a field of older horses in Saturday's White Plains handicap, prompted Trainer Max Hirsch to decide on sending him west.

Under the theory that anything can happen, and often does, in a horse race, Hirsch may consider that Attention is running against Whirlaway for first place in the Classic—or on the other hand, he may feel that the colt has a good chance of beating the other contenders out of second place. At any rate, the presence of the son of Equipoise will add considerable interest to the event.

Blue Pair Runs Tomorrow.

Whirlaway's other rivals will be Royce G. Martin's Our Boots, R. W. McIlvaine's Bushwhacker and possibly Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Blue Pair. The latter is scheduled to run tomorrow in the $5,000 Equipoise mile at Arlington. Some believe that that distance is just about the limit of his efficiency and that his handlers will decide against sending him into the mile and a quarter Classic. The final decision probably will hinge on how he comes out of tomorrow's race.

With five starters, the Classic would gross $59,375, of which $42,125 would go to the winner. Even if Whirlaway should make a runaway of it, which is by no means a certainty, the others would be shooting for a second place purse of $7,500. Third will be worth $5,000 and fourth $2,500. The remainder of the gross purse will go to prizes for breeders of the three leaders.

Debate Change in Jockey.

The main question before the fans at present is whether George Woolf will be able to do as good a job of riding Whirlaway as Eddie Arcaro did when he brought him home in the Derby, Preakness, Belmont, and Dwyer stakes.

The problem is to keep Whirlaway under restraint in the earlier stages and to let him go on the last turn without letting him get out of hand. He usually is ready to run away as soon as he gets his head and once he's on the loose he moves so fast that he passes the turn into the stretch as tho it weren't there at all. Arcaro always has been strong enough to remind him of it before he gets well over toward the outer rail, but this boy is now under suspension in the east. Whirlaway's trainer, Ben Jones, has remarked that he considers Arcaro the greatest money rider in America. Woolf's record, however, establishes the fact

Robinson Downs Angott Twice; Wins Decision

Philadelphia, Pa., July 21 (AP).—Ray Robinson's dynamite couldn't dent Sammy Angott's chin tonight, but the slugger from Harlem packed enough punch to slash out a 10 round decision over the National Boxing association's world lightweight champion. Both fighters weighed 136½. It was not a title fight.

Before a crowd of 14,500 which turned out in Shibe park, the slim Negro remained undefeated in a year of professional boxing by flooring Angott twice in the second round and then going on to bang out a clear-cut but hard-fought verdict.

At the finish Angott, who fights variously out of Washington, Pa., and Louisville, still was on his feet and punching against the 1 to 2 favorite, but he knew he was a beaten warrior.

The Associated Press score card gave Robinson seven of the ten rounds.

The gross gate was announced as $25,235.18 and the net $24,000.

Milt Aron, 153, Chicago, was awarded a technical knockout over Al Nettlow, 148½, of Detroit and the United States navy, at 55 seconds of the seventh round of the semi-windup when Referee Matt Adgie ruled Nettlow's left eye was cut too badly to permit him to proceed. Aron closed Nettlow's eye tight with a sharp right in the third.

ELEANOR DUDLEY SHOOTS 80; WINS MEDAL IN CWDGA

Lillian Zech 2d; 32 Open Title Play Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Eleanor Dudley, the sturdy young lass from Ridge Country club who has been seeking the district title of the Chicago Women's District Golf association these six or seven years, yesterday reintroduced herself by winning the medal as the 12th annual CWDGA event opened at Olympia Fields. Eleanor's 39—41—80, 6 over ladies' par for the No. 1 course at the big south side club, was good enough to lead all qualifiers in the field of 117 by 3 strokes.

Second in line, going into today's opening round of match play, was Mrs. Fred Krauss of Tam o' Shanter, who, as Lillian Zech, already has held this best of local feminine crowns. She had a 42—41—83, 1 stroke better than the other former champion, Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, who finished with 41—43—84. Mary Wilder of Skokie was fourth with a 43—42—85, followed at 87 by Mrs. H. H. Moore of Navajo Fields, recent winner of the Cook County women's championship.

Medalist Is a Long Hitter.

Missing from the scene as the CWDGA officials began their efficient conduct of the show was the defending title holder, Ellamae Williams, who had won the event for two years, defeating her chum, Miss Dudley, in the final at Northmoor last summer. Miss Williams, following her third successive state tournament victory at Danville last month, became ill and has not recovered sufficiently to defend her honors at Olympia Fields.

The medalist is one of the ablest all-around players and longest hitters Chicago Women's golf ever has developed. Eleanor was graduated recently from the University of Alabama, and she registered from that institution a few weeks ago, when she won the first annual national intercollegiate women's title in Columbus, O. The Ridge star also has won the western junior and Illinois state championships.

32 to Bid for Title.

These members of yesterday's field who didn't make the grade in the championship bracket, consisting of the 32 low scorers on a handicap basis, will not be deprived of a whack at the match play competition. They were distributed in subsidiary flights of 16, the finals of which will be held on Friday. The top flight entrants will go at 18 holes a day until Saturday, when the finalists will travel 36 holes.

Miss Dudley's card:

Par—Out	543	543	445—37
Miss Dudley—Out	562	583	545—39
Par—In	543	434	455—37—74
Miss Dudley—In	544	435	655—41—80

Drops Long Putt for Birdie.

The medalist 3 putted the second green, but avenged that with a 20 foot birdie putt at the fifth. She missed the greens at the 7th, 12th, and 16th, and 3 putted the 15th.

Today's pairings and starting times follow:

Frank Stern Leads in City Amateur Golf

Frank Stern Jr. of Ravisloe matched the Jackson park course par of 70 yesterday to win the qualifying medal of the 37th annual city amateur golf tournament, sponsored by the Jackson Park Men's Golf club.

Participating in this tourney for the first time, Stern, twice runner-up to the champion at his home club, stroked the outgoing nine in 34, even par. He assembled two birdies on the way out and as many bogeys. Coming back in 36, his birdies on the 10th, 12th, and 18th compensated for the double bogey at the 11th and an extra stroke at the 17th.

Judelson One Stroke Behind.

Hymie Judelson of Harlem, who held the 1935 crown and led the early finishers until the appearance of Stern, finished one stroke in the rear. The former champion was one over par for the first nine and returned in a sub-par 35 for a 71 total. Occupying the 73 bracket were Sanford [Sandy] Rissman of Bryn Mawr and Al Zgorka of Lake Mills, former National Polish Falcons champion, who finished in the twilight. Rissman scored a brilliant 32 which included three birdies for the nine hole journey, but was somewhat slowed up by three-putting the last five greens for a 41, five over the card.

A field of 253 contestants competed for 64 places in the championship bracket. Cards of 80 and under were necessary to break into the top flight. Past holders of the city crown were exempt from making the test.

Chick Evans in Top Position.

Charles [Chick] Evans, Edgewater's famed amateur, who captured the first of his three city titles back in 1905, will occupy the top position in the top flight pairing. Matches will continue tomorrow thru Saturday when the 36 hole contest for the championship will be decided. The schedule also calls for a double round on Thursday, and semi-final matches will be extended to 36 holes.

SOX TO PURSUE THE ELUSIVE HIT IN BOSTON TODAY

Rigney Will Pitch—and Hope for Batting Aid.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday set sail for Boston, first port in one of the longest American league jaunts from the mileage aspect in Sox history. After playing in Boston this afternoon, tomorrow, and Thursday, they will move on to New York for four games in three days, single encounters next Friday and Saturday and a synthetic double header Sunday, provided by moving up a September engagement. Then will follow stops in Philadelphia, Washington, St. Louis, and Cleveland.

Dykes Has a Problem.

John Rigney, who beat Lefty Grove with arm and bat here last Friday, while the latter was making his second try for his 300th major league victory, will pitch this afternoon. Dick Newsome will take the mound for the Red Sox. Manager Jimmy Dykes then will begin shadow boxing to determine his other pitchers for the Boston series in view of the four game Yankee series immediately following.

The Sox moved east with a record of 44 victories and 44 defeats, only a game and a half behind the third place Red Sox, who are suffering from the shock of losing double headers to the St. Louis Browns Saturday and Sunday after dropping the final in Chicago. The Chicago Sox, after dipping into the second division for one day, headed east two games ahead of the fifth place Tigers, just thru with Yankee blight.

Burden Is on Pitchers.

This rather happy status of the White Sox is a remarkable commentary on the skill of the Sox pitching staff, for the hitters are in one of the most dismal hitting slumps in memory. They haven't a .300 hitter on the roster and only one or two who do not become palsied when they come up with winning runs on bases.

The Chicagoans will be away from home until Aug. 11, when they will face the Browns in a double header. The next night game will be played on Aug. 15, with the Cleveland Indians furnishing the opposition.

Riggs Opens with Victory at Sea Bright

Sea Bright, N. J., July 21 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, the defending men's champion, and the four seeded favorites in the women's field scored impressive first-round victories in the 54th annual Sea Bright Invitation tennis tournament today.

Riggs opened quest of his fourth Sea Bright singles crown with a 6-1, 6-2 triumph over J. Upshur Moorhead of Rumson, N. J. The former national champion, seeded second, won his first title here in 1937, repeated in 1938, and retired the second Sea Bright challenge bowl last year. No player ever has captured the title a fourth time.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of New York, listed No. 1, outclassed Mrs. M. H. Vosters Jr. of Sea Bright, 6-0, 6-0. Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., also a three-time winner here, eliminated Mrs. Elliott Coleman of Sea Bright, 6-1, 6-0. Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., won from Dorothy Wightman of Boston, 6-3, 6-4, and Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco beat Cecile Bowes of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-1.

GHNOULY WINS OVER HAGEN IN MARIGOLD ARENA

Joe Ghnouly, veteran Hammond, Ind., lightweight, scored an eight round decision over Floyd Hagen of St. Paul, Minn., in the main event of the boxing program last night in the Marigold outdoor arena. A crowd of 1,821 paid gross receipts of $2,071.12 to see the show.

Hagen was sent to the canvas for a count of eight in the second round by a right to the jaw, but got up and fought back well enough to make it an interesting battle. In the seventh Hagen cut Ghnouly's left eye with a right, but the injury failed to slow up the Hammond fighter, whose superior experience and ring generalship were too much for his opponent. The decision of Referee Tommy Gilmore and Judges William O'Connell and Jack Ripple was unanimous.

HARRIS SHOWS FIRE AND SPIRIT IN FINAL DRILL

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Ossie [Bulldog] Harris, Pittsburgh middleweight, yesterday ended boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium for his big chance in a 10 round non-title bout against Champion Tony Zale in the Chicago Stadium outdoor arena tomorrow. Harris displayed considerable spirit and determination in his final four round workout with Freddy Bey. He realizes this is the most important assignment he has been offered during a two and a half year campaign and intends to make the most of it.

He Defeated Bolden.

Harris will depend on his aggressive, rugged style to score an upset over the champion. This technique was successful against Nate Bolden, clever Chicago 160 pounder, in an earlier appearance in this city. Whether it will prove successful against Zale is something else. Tony does not profess to be clever, but he possesses considerable stamina and a hard punch.

In his last start, a two round knockout of Al Hostak on May 28, Zale was at his best. However, it is doubtful that Tony has reached the excellent condition achieved for Hostak.

Ernie Vigh, New York middleweight challenger, went eight rounds yesterday for a 10 round semiwindup against Tony [Cianciola] Martin of Milwaukee on the Stadium card.

Vigh Is a Contender, but—

There's little doubt that Vigh, one of the hardest hitting middleweights in the game is a contender for Zale's championship. However, Chicagoans will not take Ernie seriously until they see him whip Martin. At times Martin is very obnoxious to opponents.

Pete Lello, 1936 Chicagoland Golden Gloves lightweight champion, last night predicted he would knock out Georgie Toy of Cleveland in a 10 round preliminary match. If his prediction comes true, Lello will be stopping an opponent for the first time since he scored an eight round technical knockout over Morris Parker in Newark on Dec. 2.

ILLINOIS TO NAME NEW ATHLETIC BOARD TODAY

Appointment of the acting director of athletics at the University of Illinois is expected to be discussed this morning when the trustees meet with Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university. At the same time, the president will recommend the makeup of the new athletic board to consist of six members.

Today's meeting, which will be held at 10 a. m. in the university medical college at 1853 Polk street, is a development from last week's meeting at the same place, which resulted in Wendell [Weenie] Wilson, athletic director, being given a year's leave of absence and Bob Zuppke, football coach, being retained. At that time the athletic board, unable to make decisions because of two factions—four faculty members and three alumni—resigned.

Dodgers Lose to Pirates, 8-3; Lead by Game

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 21 (AP).—The Dodgers were walloped again today by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 3, and lost another half game of their National league lead in the only game of the day in the major leagues. The Dodgers thus absorbed their fourth licking in five games. As a result they headed out on another western invasion tonight with a one game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Heintzelman yielded 10 hits, but he managed to keep the damage to a minimum while his teammates raided four Brooklyn pitchers for 11 hits, including home runs by Elbie Fletcher and Vince DiMaggio. Score:

MEISTER BRÄU BREWMASTER

Folks looked funny flawed up for sailing 50 years ago, when we started brewing MEISTER BRÄU.

You can get it in Hospitality Quart Bottles

ASK FOR MEISTER BRÄU QUARTS AT TAVERN OR STORE

Beer with no added sugars or syrups

... and bottled as always with only Natural Draft Beer

Carbonation created right in the brew

WE found out 50 years ago that short-cuts don't pay—if you want good beer! We're not against change. We put in the latest improved equipment right along—like for bottling. And we now put our beer in such handy size bottles as the Hospitality Quart; which contains a round of four full glasses. But our brewing methods—we won't speed up!

Adding sugars or syrups to the brew—that's a machine-age short-cut we could use. But we'll keep on brewing all-grain beer just as always—the old, slow way.

Find out how much old ways of brewing add to beer enjoyment! Do the "50-Degrees!" Test. That's the way beer experts get the truth. Too much cold disguises real flavor; good or bad. But at 50 degrees: temperature; honest flavor shows up.

So get a MEISTER BRÄU Hospitality Quart from your favorite tavern or store, take it home, and taste and compare with any other brand—regardless of price. I'm sure what your verdict will be.

STOCKS SHOOT UP ON LATE RALLY IN STEEL AND RAILS

Last Hour Volume Nearly Half of Day's Total.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Heavy buying in today's stock market was touched off by a late burst of strength in rails and steels. Many issues spurted 1 to 3 points, some to new 1941 highs.

The list had been doing well throughout the session but the climb attained real speed in the final 15 minutes and the ticker tape was going fast as the closing gong sounded. Nearly half the day's share transfers were made in the last hour.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .6 of a point to 44.2, largest upturn since July 7 and to within .8 of its 1941 peak attained in January.

Carrier Issues Advance.

Carriers were buoyed by predictions railway net operating income in the third quarter possibly would reach $100,000,000 monthly, thus putting some roads in line to maintain or resume dividends. An increase in this week's mill operations aided steels.

Among stocks stepping into new high territory for the year were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, Western union, Standard Oil [N. J.], Texas corporation, Socony, Savage Arms, Goodrich, J. I. Case, and International Harvester.

Also prominent on the upturn were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Crucible Steel, United States Rubber, Pepsi-Cola, International Paper, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric, du Pont, United Aircraft, and American Airlines.

CHICAGO LIST STRONG.

Chicago Stock Exchange prices advanced briskly yesterday and five issues reached new 1941 highs. Transfers totaled 26,000 shares. Of 94 stocks traded, 51 advanced, 18 declined, and 25 closed unchanged.

The new peaks were set by Coleman Lamp, 41, up 1¼; Illinois Central, 9, up ¾; McCord Radiator, 16, up 2½; Standard Oil of Indiana, 33, up ⅞, and Swift International, 22¼, up ½. The volume leader was Armour of Illinois at 3,450 shares and closing at 5⅛, up ¼.

Of the dually listed issues traded from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, Borg-Warner, Butler Brothers preferred, W. B. Jarvis, Montgomery Ward, and Pennsylvania railroad each closed ⅛ higher than at New York and Consolidated Oil, Peoples Gas, and Poor & Co., were an equal fraction lower.

WARN DEALERS FACE RUIN FROM CAR OUTPUT CUT

Chicagoans Assail Henderson Plan.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Reduction in automobile production by 50 per cent will put automobile dealers "on relief," Ben T. Wright, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association and veteran Ford dealer, warned yesterday. Wright and other dealers criticized the virtual order of Leon Henderson, administrator of prices and civilian supply, for a 50 per cent auto production curtailment, effective Nov. 1, as unfair to the thousands of automobile dealers and their employés.

Ben T. Wright.

"We want to coöperate with the government in its arms program and we are in accord with the plan for a 20 per cent reduction, but we feel that the maximum cut should be no more than 40 per cent," Wright said.

Tells Stake of Dealers.

"Automobile dealers in this country have as much invested in the automobile business as the manufacturers and they employ more men. Sudden placing of automobile manufacture on a 50 per cent basis will mean unemployment for dealers' workers, including thousands of salesmen. It would spell financial disaster for the dealers who have spent years in building their businesses."

Philip L. Knoedler, president of Community Motors, another veteran dealer, agreed with Wright that curtailment should not exceed 40 per cent. He said he welcomed the 20 per cent reduction.

"We hope that Washington will not attempt to put a 50 per cent ceiling on production at one time," said Knoedler. "The most sensible way to handle the situation would be to extend curtailment gradually, say by 5 per cent a month, after the originally announced 20 per cent cut has gone into effect. Henderson should not be allowed to get away with a 50 per cent cut on Nov. 1. Such a drastic cut would be unfair to the dealers and their thousands of employés."

Affects 40,000 Dealers.

Walter Blanchard, manager of the National Automobile Dealers association Detroit, said that a 50 per cent reduction would "work drastic hardship on 40,000 automobile dealers and their 400,000 employés thruout the nation who depend solely on automobiles for their business activities."

"Retail automobile dealers fully recognize the necessities of the arms program and expect to stand their fair share of the hardship necessitated by it," he said. "They believe that automobile production should be curtailed gradually to avoid unnecessary dislocation."

Both Wright and Knoedler declared the automobile is the only means of transportation for thousands of persons engaged in arms work.

Meantime, Chicago's one automobile assembly plant—that of the Ford company at 12600 South Torrence avenue, is working at capacity, turning out about 450 cars and trucks a day. Employment there now totals about 2,500 persons.

Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan announced he will fly to Washington today to protest the Henderson program. The governor, a Democrat, said Michigan would lose possibly $30,000,000 a year in tax revenues if the 50 per cent cut in production goes into effect.

AM. CAR REOPENS FACTORY, BUT NO WORKERS RETURN

Gates of the American Car and Foundry company at 2417 South Paulina street, where a strike affecting nearly 1,000 employés has been in progress since July 10, were opened at daylight yesterday for all who wished to return to their jobs, but no workers entered the plant.

Fifty policemen detailed to guard the plant watched pickets of local 805 of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO] march in front of the gates for a while, then left.

Kansas City Bonds Offered by Harris, Hall Syndicate

A syndicate headed by Harris, Hall & Co., Chicago, yesterday was the successful bidder for $3,243,000 Kansas City, Mo., water revenue bonds bearing interest of 3½ per cent for 1943 to 1947 maturities and 1¾ per cent for 1948 to 1961. The issue was reoffered at prices to yield 0.40 to 1.90 per cent, according to maturity.

Chemical Firm's Offices Open; Shifted from East

General offices of International Agricultural corporation were formally opened in the Civic Opera building yesterday, with the arrival in Chicago of Louis Ware and other officials. The company, a 26½ million dollar fertilizer and chemical producer, had its headquarters in New York 32 years.

President Asks Congress to Vote New Helium Plant

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate $1,250,000 for a new helium plant to meet "immediate defense needs" beyond the capacity o fthe present federal plant at Amarillo, Tex.

Home Washer Makers Fear Effect of Cut

The government program for a reduction of 30 per cent in home washing machine production will have a severe effect on the industry as well as the public, an official of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association predicted yesterday. He forecast widespread unemployment among factory workers and economic suffering on the part of salesmen, distributors, and retailers.

Joseph R. Bohnen, executive secretary and treasurer of the association, which represents most of the washing machine producers, asserted that 75 per cent of the industry's 10,000 to 12,000 employés engaged in manufacturing and assembling face unemployment if the reduction goes into effect.

Assembly Work Big Factor.

A large part of the industry is concentrated in assembling washers, he said, and this assembly machinery cannot be turned over to government arms operations. Few men would be needed to run the comparatively small number of manufacturing machines, he said.

Bohnen said the industry has not received official notice of the reduction and has not been given information as to what period will be used as a basis for the percentage cut. Chicago washing machine manufacturers said they will be unable to plan operations until federal authorities disclose details. Inasmuch as the industry's sales have gained 18 per cent since Jan. 1, the manufacturers expressed hope that this period or at least recent "good business" months would be used as the base "to soften the blow."

Says Industry Is in Doubt.

"We don't know whether Leon Henderson [federal price administrator] has announced this reduction as a shot in the dark at the industry or a trial balloon to test the industry's reaction to the 30 per cent figure," Bohnen declared.

W. Neal Gallagher, president of the association, said at Newton, Ia., that there should be a thoro survey of the material needs and importance of products of other industries before the reduction in washing machines is put into effect.

"It is quite probable that 20 or 30 industries are using more steel than the washer makers," he said.

Chicago representatives of mechanical refrigerator manufacturers predicted that the government's announced 50 per cent reduction in output would be more of a blow at the sales, distributing and retail organizations than the factory workers. The latter, they said, can be placed at other work, probably government orders, and most manufacturing machinery is usable in other fields with adjustments.

GROUND WILL BE BROKEN TODAY IN HOMES PROJECT

Ground will be broken today by Gael Sullivan, Illinois head of the Federal Housing administration, for a model armament housing project a half mile south of Batavia and just north of and adjoining Mooseheart. It will occupy 40 acres owned by Frank H. Hayes, judge of the Appellate court at Springfield and Circuit court judge at Morris, Ill., where he lives. The project will be sponsored and developed by the Edward S. Requa organization of West Chicago.

The FHA, Judge Hayes said, had been looking for the site of a model "defense housing project" which it could design and then use as an example of good planning for this part of the country. Sullivan decided the Hayes property was ideal, being located in the Fox river valley, where there are several millions in armament orders in Elgin, Geneva, Batavia, St. Charles, and Aurora.

FHA planners have laid out a subdivision with winding roads and no sidewalks. There will be 152 home sites with a minimum frontage of 60 feet and a maximum of 80, with depths varying from 130 to 185 feet.

Frame homes costing $4,850 to $5,350 will be built. They will contain four rooms finished and two unfinished on the second floor.

BRAZIL'S TRADE BOUNCES BACK FROM WAR BLOW

Sales in U. S. Offset Lost Markets.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 21 (AP).—Brazilian commerce is making a comeback from the slump that since the outbreak of European war has cut deeply into exports of the big cash products.

Closed European markets cost Brazil an 11 per cent loss in exports for 1940 but sales for the first four months of 1941 are 10 per cent larger than the same period last year.

An increasing demand for minor products is credited by Walter J. Donnelly, commercial attaché of the United States embassy, with bringing about the upturn and compensating for losses in coffee, cotton and rubber.

Mica, vegetable oils, and domestic manufactured goods are among the products suddenly in demand.

Brazil has repaid entirely a $19,200,000 Export-Import bank credit which the United States granted in 1939.

Replaces European Markets.

The agreement with the United States last May 14 for sale of Brazilian rubber, manganese, industrial diamonds, mica, quartz crystal, titanium, ferronickel, bauxite, chromite, and beryl ore will go a long way toward making up for the lost European markets, Brazilians feel.

"Brazil currently is a strong sellers' market," Donnelly's trade review commented, adding that ship shortage created a problem and that manufacturers soon would face shortages of tin plate, iron, steel, copper, aluminum, and zinc.

During the first four months of 1941, however, Brazil's excess of exports over imports was $23,752,571 against an excess of imports over exports amounting to $3,164,710 for the corresponding period of 1940.

Exports for the period this year to the United States were $59,217,158, up $28,000,000 from the 1940 period; to England $10,123,203, down $8,000,000; and to Germany $660,447, down $4,000,000.

Less from United States.

Imports from the United States were $45,600,454, down $1,000,000; from England $6,000,000 and from Germany $2,000,000.

Rail transport is one bottleneck that confronts the nation, caused by a shortage of rolling stock.

Coastal shipping is up, Brazil operating a merchant marine of 280 vessels aggregating 540,548 tons and including many river boats.

The railroad troubles may be solved when the National Steel company [Brazilian] gets into production at its scheduled $25,000,000 plant in Volta Redonda, state of Rio de Janeiro. The Export-Import bank has extended a credit of $20,000,000 for purchase of plant equipment in the United States.

BAKERIES WON'T NEED PERMISSION TO RAISE PRICES

Price Administrator Leon Henderson notified 250 bakers yesterday that if they found it necessary to raise the price of bread, they could do so without consulting the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply.

Officials of large baking companies said no increase in Chicago bread prices is contemplated at the moment. They reported, however, that the price of materials is up 30 to 35 per cent and that labor costs have risen.

"Since average ingredient costs have risen only about half a cent a loaf," Henderson said, "fractional increases in the selling price would be more in line with cost changes than would increases of a full cent. In no locality does it appear that an increase of more than one cent would be warranted."

Howard Aircraft Corp. Gets Loan of $40,000 from RFC

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Howard Aircraft corporation, Chicago's only active aircraft manufacturing company, yesterday received notice from Washington, D. C., that a $40,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan has been approved by Administrator Jesse H. Jones. The loan is the first step in a refinancing plan that is expected to put the company into position for large scale production of its small military training ships and larger personnel transports.

B. D. De Weese.

The second step in the program, company officials announced, is the refunding of a $100,000 bank loan that was arranged six months ago by the security dealers who offered Howard's stock to the public for the first time in 1939. The loan is being converted into five year income debentures that will be convertible into stock at its present market price. The debentures will be offered to stockholders by the underwriters.

Expand Plant Tooling.

The RFC funds will be used to expand tooling for the primary trainers that the company has been building under Civil Aeronautics Board approval since last March. Orders for these trainers—low wing monoplanes with 125 horse power Warner engines—have been pouring in and the new tools are needed to fulfill order dates.

The company also is seeking authority from the government to continue manufacturing its de luxe DGA series of high speed cabin ships. The series was halted on government order months ago when the 350 and 450 horse power engines needed for these airplanes all were taken over for British and American military training planes.

Asks New Allotments.

C. W. Freitag, vice president in charge of sales, is in Washington asking for new engine allocations.

A score of individuals whose business houses hold large arms contracts have asked the company for new airplanes, but these cannot be promised until engines are made available. Freitag is seeking a minimum of ten 450 horse power engines a month to make this special class of high speed civil airplanes.

B. D. De Weese, vice president and general manager of the Howard company, announced last evening that a new version of the trainer will be offered for sale soon. This Mark II. trainer will have a 170 horse power Kinner engine instead of the 125 horse power Warner. It will climb faster, cruise slightly faster, and perform acrobatics—an important part of the military training program—better than the Mark I., he said.

Months of experimental work on the Mark II. have been completed and flight tests—the last item in the CAA aproval program—will begin next week.

Du Pont Profit Drops as Tax Bite Deepens

A decrease in earnings, accompanied by a drastic increase in federal taxes, was reported yesterday by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., chemical and munitions manufacturer. Earnings for the six months ended June 30 were equal to $3.75 a share, compared with $4.06 a share in the corresponding period last year.

The company said $38,520,000 had been set aside for taxes during the six months, against $10,370,000 in the first half of 1940. A full report on earnings is expected to be made public later.

General Foods corporation reported a profit for the June quarter of $3,016,150, or 54 cents a common share, which was larger than the $2,873,331, or 51 cents a share earned in the corresponding quarter last year. For the six months ended June 30 the profit was $7,519,078, or $1.36 a share, compared with $7,362,126, or $1.33 a share.

Correct Peoples Gas Figures.

It was stated in THE TRIBUNE on Sunday that if the federal corporation income tax should be increased from the present rate of 24 per cent to 30 per cent, net income of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company would be reduced for the second quarter of 1941 to $99,825, or 15 cents a share; to $225,790, or 34 cents a share, for the six months ended June 30, and to $225,790, or 34 cents a share, for the 12 months ended June 30, 1941. The story should have stated that net income would be reduced by the above amounts for the respective periods.

Henderson Fixes Price Ceilings for Scrap Brass

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, today imposed ceiling prices on principal types of brass mill scrap. The prices, effective tomorrow, ranged from 9⅛ cents a pound for commercial bronze containing 95 per cent or more copper, to 8⅝ cents a pound for yellow brass.

VOTE TO REQUIRE JOINT RETURNS

Committee Overrides Tax Bill Opposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The house ways and means committee today voted to retain in the new 3½ billion dollar tax bill the provision requiring husband and wife to file a joint income tax return, despite strenuous opposition. Action came after a closed session lasting all day. The committee vote was not disclosed.

It has been estimated that the extra yield from this particular portion of the bill will be approximately $323,000,000. Members who successfully opposed the striking out of the joint return provision argued that the only other way to raise this amount of revenue would be thru an upward revision of the individual income surtax rates.

Opposed by Many Groups.

Committee members admitted privately, however, that much pressure has been turned on them by opponents of the proposal. Among the latter are business and professional women, housewives with their own incomes and church groups who hold that the requirement will place an undue penalty on marriage.

This requirement and the 10 per cent added excess profits tax on corporations are expected to precipitate heated fights on the floors of both the house and senate after the bill is reported out of committee.

Told Low Incomes Not Affected.

Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee, said the group voted to retain the mandatory joint tax return after experts testified that there will be no increase in taxes for families with net incomes [gross income less deductions] up to $4,000. He said that there will be only slight increases up to the $8,000 net income bracket.

Approximately 158,000 families will be affected by the requirement, Doughton added. This was approximately the number of married couples who filed separate returns for 1937.

LINDELL TO ASK COUNCIL ACTION ON SLUM BOARD

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] said yesterday he will ask the city council at its meeting Thursday to direct the preparation of an ordinance authorizing Mayor Kelly to appoint a neighborhood redevelopment commission in accordance with legislation passed recently at Springfield.

The neighborhood redevelopment corporation bill which became a law when Gov. Green signed it July 10 provides that a private corporation may exert the power of eminent domain to condemn property in a blighted district provided it already has acquired thru normal means of negotiation, 60 per cent of the property needed for a slum rehabilitation project. Use of the condemnation power must be approved by a local commission.

Lindell will ask the council to authorize the housing committee, of which he is chairman, to draft the legislation.

CHRYSLER GIVEN TANK CONTRACT OF 74 MILLIONS

Chicago Firms Get Smaller Orders.

The war department yesterday announced the awarding of more than $237,000,000 of contracts to companies thruout the nation. Chicago and Illinois companies will share in the federal expenditures in moderate amounts. However, most of the orders placed with Chicago district companies were under $5,000.

Largest among the committments were orders for nearly $95,000,000 of tanks and tank parts. Of these the Chrysler corporation was awarded two orders totaling $74,567,761.

The war department withheld details of the Chrysler contracts, but the Associated Press reported that Washington military circles assumed that they were for about 1,600 medium 28 ton tanks.

ORDER NEW HELMETS.

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—The first mass order was placed by the war department today for 900,000 new style steel helmets for the army. Resembling those worn by German soldiers, the new helmets were designed to give greater protection against bullets and shell fragments. They will substitute for the flat type helmets worn during and since the World war.

Am. Car Gets Tank Order.

Contracts for $12,543,213 of tanks and $1,787,337 of parts, were let to the American Car and Foundry company, Berwick, Pa., which has been manufacturing light 13 ton tanks at the rate of about 150 a month. The new order was believed to be for about 600 of these. American Car also received an order for $1,090,000 of armor plate.

Mack Manufacturing corporation, Long Island City, N. Y., received a $6,419,481 order for tank assemblies.

Chicago district companies receiving contracts included: Diamond T Motor company, carriers and parts, $4,498,706; Continental Roll and Steel Foundry, castings, $3,252,000; International Harvester company, tractors, $2,126,899, and dump trucks, $26,920, Pettibone Mulliken company, gun carriages, $1,846,000.

Meat Imports in May Biggest of Three Years

Questions Foreign Price

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—Contending that beef purchased by the government from foreign countries should be in line with costs, Senator Hugh A. Butler [R., Neb.] today urged Leon Henderson, administrator of prices and civilian supply, to inquire into recent purchases of Argentine canned beef.

"I was surprised to notice," he wrote Henderson, "that the army and navy contracts recently let for the purchase of Argentine canned beef provided for a price increase of practically 50 per cent over the price paid for the last previous lot of foreign canned beef brought by the American armed forces."

Despite Uncle Sam's rôle as "larder to the democracies," other countries are doing a better job of feeding their meat to the United States than he is of supplying the foes of Germany, according to the latest figures on imports and exports. The figures for May were announced by the department of commerce yesterday.

Altho lend-lease shipments from the United States were said to have been made during May, this country imported more meat than it exported. The margin of imports over exports was the largest for any May on government records. Only 4,711,109 pounds, exclusive of lard, was shipped out during the month. Imports totaled 13,893,302 pounds.

Beef Is Pouring In.

The flood of beef from South American countries more than offset a small increase in shipments of pork from the United States. The total of the imports was 36 per cent larger than during the same month last year, while the exports were 8 per cent smaller than in the 1940 period. Imports of all meats were the heaviest for any month in three years. Exports set a new alltime low for the month.

Comparative figures follow:

Top Hog Prices Steady.

A decrease in shipments of hogs from farms, another advance of 50 cents a hundred pounds in top light pork loins, and reports that some packing plants are finding it difficult to fill out contracts for certain cuts of pork for the army and lend-lease shipment to England resulted in a fully steady market for top grades of hogs yesterday.

The range of prices reached the widest point since September, 1939, with the top and average prices 90 cents apart, at $11.85 and $10.95, respectively.

Other meat animals advanced sharply in price, some kinds reaching new high levels for the summer season. Strong to 25 cents higher prices raised the general market for steers and yearlings to the highest position since last February. Top loads reached $12.85.

OPM TO CREATE BIG NEW POOLS OF ARMS POWER

Finds No Necessity for Rationing.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—There is no need for rationing electric power now, but vast pools will be formed for armament production, the Office of Production Management said today in announcing the creation of a special power division within the OPM.

J. A. Krug.

J. A. Krug, OPM power consultant borrowed from the Tennessee Valley authority, where he was power engineer, will head the new unit. William S. Knudsen, director general of the OPM, said the duties of the new division will be to reduce consumption of power in nonarmament industries and possibly invoke a priorities system of rationing in areas where arms production may be threatened by shortages of electrical energy.

Only Shortage in TVA.

So far the only shortage indicated in the United States has been in the TVA area, where the government "experts" underestimated the amount of rainfall. A lack of water and the heavy drain on power by aluminum companies lured to that area under government contracts for cheap power put the government project in an embarrassing position.

Krug asserted that one of the first steps to be taken will be the formation of power pools to insure adequate supplies of electricity for new aluminum and magnesium plants under construction. One pool, he said, already has been formed for aluminum plants in Tennessee. Other pools are under consideration for Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, the southern sections of Kansas and Missouri; and for the northeastern section, including the New England states, New York, eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Coast Power Ample.

Available power in the Pacific coast area appears to be more than sufficient at this time and completion of new hydro-electric power projects by the government in the Pacific northwest will make shortages improbable in that area, according to Krug.

For some time administration officials, particularly Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, have been circulating warnings of great power deficiencies in order to bolster support for government power projects, but private power experts have denied the threatened shortages, because expansion by private industry is under way.

Krug also disclosed that the government is completing arrangements with Canada whereby the United States would receive additional water from Niagara Falls for hydro-electric purposes.

Ickes May Be Target.

The new program appeared to forestall the ambitions of Ickes to be named power coördinator, as the OPM power division apparently will exercise the authority of coördination.

Krug told a press conference that "present developments indicate that we will be able to supply power for new aluminum plants as they are completed and for the most of the nation's projected magnesium plants."

The government recently announced a power expansion program involving an annual expenditure of up to 470 million dollars. Krug said that 1 million kilowatts can be conserved for armament production thru the use of pools involving both public and private power systems. He asserted that there are 8 to 10 million kilowatts available for reserve use and further expansion.

PROVIDING INVESTMENT CAPITAL
To The East South Central States

"WAY DOWN SOUTH," though still a land of cotton, is now also a land of diversified agriculture and, increasingly, one of diversified industry.

With exceptional gulf and river transportation, rich mineral and forest resources, cheap fuel, advantages of native labor, equable climate, cheaper construction and lower living costs, recent acceleration of industrial activity in this section promises important further development.

Lacking large financial reserves of their own, these States, like other developing areas, have turned in part to investment organizations such as our own for assistance in financing their growing requirements—both corporate and municipal.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO EASE WHEAT PENALTY

Permits Sales Up to Full Quota on Any Acreage.

Washington, D. C., July 21 (AP).—A modification of the wheat law to permit farmers to sell their normal production without penalty was approved by the house today.

Under the measure, wheat grown on acreage planted in excess of government quotas could be used to make up normal production if a bad crop year caused a short crop.

For instance, suppose a farmer's allotment is 100 acres and his normal production 10 bushels an acre or a total of 1,000 bushels. Suppose that for some reason he raises a subnormal crop of 800 bushels on his allotted acreage. Then he would be permitted to sell, without penalty, 200 bushels harvested from "excess acreage," that is, acreage not included in his allotment.

Subject to Penalty Now.

Under the law as it stands now, there is a tax of 49 cents a bushel on wheat sold from excess acreage.

During consideration of the measure, Representative Earl Michener [R., Mich.] asked Chairman Hampton Fulmer [D., S. C.] of the house agriculture committee to accept an amendment which would reduce the penalty on excess wheat to 15 cents a bushel, but Fulmer refused. The measure now goes to the senate.

The department of agriculture also acted to open a way for farmers to avoid the 49 cent tax. It announced that farmers who have wheat in excess of their 1941 marketing quotas may seed less than their 1942 acreage allotments and obtain permission to sell the over-quota grain without penalty.

GRAINS LOSE UPTURN

Grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday were unsettled. There was a fair upturn at one time in sympathy with a bulge in cotton, but the advance ran into hedging sales and a reaction followed. Closing sales on wheat and corn futures were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

Oats finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Rye lost ¼ to ⅝ cent, with moderate hedging sales a factor. Soy beans, after an early rise with cotton, reacted and finished ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel lower. Lard lost 5 to 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Unusually favorable moisture and temperature conditions resulted in an increase of 22,000,000 bushels in the wheat crop in four northwestern states between July 1 and July 15, the department of agriculture reported yesterday in a special mid-month crop estimate. The yield is placed at 228,843,000 bushels, compared with 206,767,000 bushels indicated on July 1.

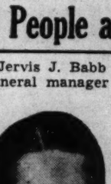
SEEK TO SHUNT GRAIN FROM CHICAGO; FIND SPACE PINCH EASING

With 1,165 cars of grain received in Chicago yesterday and more than 650 cars waiting to be unloaded, Commodity Credit corporation officials reported they were investigating ways of getting wheat shipments diverted to other points. The problem of finding space for the storage of all this grain remained pressing, but the members of the government storage committee said conditions are "improving."

Elevator operators spent more than three hours yesterday afternoon checking their space. It was indicated their efforts to make every possible inch of their elevators available so railroads would not have to embargo grain shipments to this market were proving effective. The committee said it believed there still is space for about one million bushels of government loan wheat.

Since shippers were warned last week not to load wheat for storage in Chicago unless they had made previous arrangements for space, the receipts of loan wheat have fallen off, the government committee said. Cincinnati embargoed all shipments of grain yesterday.

People and Events



Jervis J. Babb has been appointed general manager of Booth Fisheries corporation and R. E. Matthews has been named assistant general manager. Babb formerly was with the management engineering firm of Booz, Fry, Allen & Hamilton.

The Office of Production Management announced the formation yesterday of a new 15-member steel industry advisory committee. The members are: Frank Purnell, E. L. Ryerson Jr., Hayward Niedringhaus, Ernest T. Weir, Charles R. Hook, Robert W. Wolcott, Elton Hoyt, W. S. Tower, W. F. Detweiler, B. F. Fairless, Frank R. Frost, T. M. Girdler, E. G. Grace, Edward L. Parker, and Henry A. Romer.

The Chicago Mercantile exchange trading session will be shortened by 1½ hours tomorrow to enable members to attend their annual field day and golf tournament at Westward Ho Country club.

Sale by Order of Court

Public notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a Decree of partition made and entered by the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, on July 23, 1940, in the cause entitled IDA VEDOR, plaintiff, v. CHICAGO CITY BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, a corporation, individually and as Trustee under Trust Agreement No. 1090; Arthur G. Rathie, George O. Carlson, Howard C. Kingsbery, Victor E. Ytterbers, Robert Anderson, W. F. Beymer, Charles Palmer, Frank J. Burke and A. Henry Goldstein, and "Unknown Owners of the premises," defendants, case No. 398-14118, which decree was subsequently affirmed by the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois on April 8, 1941, in case No. 25968, and in further pursuance of a Decree of Sale under Partition, made and entered by the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, in the aforementioned cause on July 18, 1941, I, JOHN F. O'TOOLE, Master in Chancery of the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, will on MONDAY, AUGUST 4, 1941, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon (Daylight Saving Time [twelve o'clock noon Central Standard Time]), at the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Cook County, Room 457 County Building, in the City of Chicago, County of Cook and State of Illinois, sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, for cash, all and singular the following described premises and real estate in said Decree mentioned, situated in the County of Cook and State of Illinois, to-wit:

Lots seven [7], eight [8], nine [9] and ten [10] in Block two [2] in Richardson's Subdivision of the Northeast quarter of the Northeast quarter of Section thirty-six [36], Township thirty-eight [38] North, Range fourteen [14], East of the Third Principal Meridian.

Said premises consist of a three [3] story brick building located at the southeast corner of 79th Street and Crandon Avenue. The building is approximately fourteen [14] years old and in excellent physical condition both in its interior and exterior. The premises contain five [5] stores and thirty-three [33] apartments [6 4s, 23 3½s and 4 2½s], on a lot 108.36x125 feet. The gross income is $19,344.00 per year. 1940 taxes, $2,838.12.

Commissioners appointed by the Superior Court of Cook County have conservatively appraised this property at $90,617.00, and have so reported to the Court. Said premises will be sold as aforesaid, provided there is a bid of at least two-thirds [⅔] of the valuation put upon the same, as shown by the said Report of the Commissioners appointed by the Court to make partition thereof. At least ten per cent [10%] of the price shall be paid in cash or cashier's check at the sale, and the balance within thirty [30] days from the date of the approval of the sale.

Germany Claims Russian Defense System Is Crumbling—Battle Raging Behind Broken Stalin Line

These Nazi tanks are described by Berlin sources as assembling for "attack on burning Sluk." Maps of Russia indicate the town described by Germans as "Sluk" may be Slutsk, which is 50 miles south of Minsk in a zone where rival armies have been battling for several days.

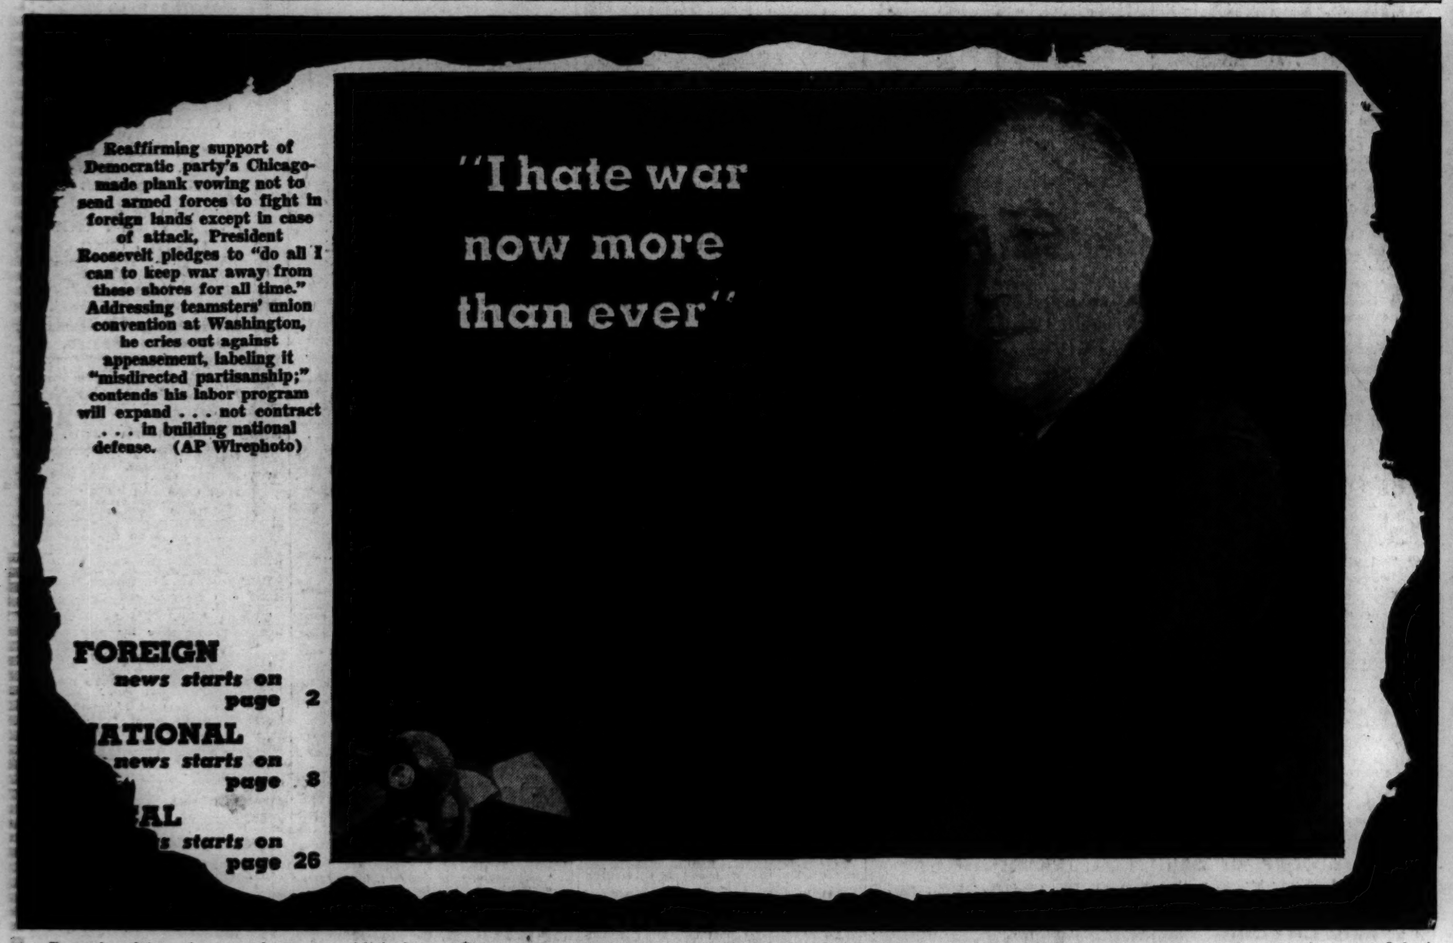
President Roosevelt's Words Against War—The Memory Lingers On



Reaffirming support of Democratic party's Chicago-made plank vowing not to send armed forces to fight in foreign lands except in case of attack, President Roosevelt pledges to "do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time." Addressing teamsters' union convention at Washington, he cries out against appeasement, labeling it "misdirected partisanship;" contends his labor program will expand . . . not contract . . . in building national defense. Reproduced here is part of a page published in a Chicago afternoon newspaper on Sept. 12, 1940, the day after President Roosevelt addressed the teamsters' union convention in Washington. In that speech the President said: "I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time. I stand, with my party, upon the platform adopted in Chicago: 'We will not participate in foreign wars and we will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack.'" It is interesting to recall these words now, in view of President Roosevelt's plan to extend the service of draftees beyond the one year term originally fixed and his recent announcement that naval forces of the United States had occupied Iceland, only 700 miles from German occupied Norway.
